MEMORIAL SERVICE

In Honor of the Late Lieut. Howard Rogers Clapp of West Newton

The late Lieut. Howard Rogers Clapp was honored at a memorial service at the West Newton Unitarian Church Sunday afternoon, Lieut. Clapp died in an airplane battle November 3. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, minister of the church, conducted the service. Mr. Hollis Gleason, Lieut. Malcolm Dodd, and Lieut. Henry MacLure, were ushers. Lieut. Clapp was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Clift Rogers Clapp of Temple street. Rev. Mr. Jaynes paid a deserved tribute to the heroic young man, and his address was in part as follows:

"A few hours ago there was preached in this pulpit a sermon on 'The finished life.' We are confronted with the same theme with tragic illustration, as we meet this afternoon to pay our tribute of affectionate respect to the memory of Lieut. Howard Rogers Clapp, who died on the field of honor last November. In the white flower of early manhood, and yet 'a finished life!' Finished, not in the sense of years, not in the sense of completed earthly tasks, but in that subtle significance of a beautiful human life rising suddenly to its climax in the fullness of heroic sacrifice.

"Such a life is not to be measured by the calendar or by a procession of commonplace deeds, but by the moral splendor of the motive which lifted it to the heights of death. One supreme moment, crowded with superb heroism, makes the finished life, although the next moment be the gates of eternity. That distinction belongs to the son. That squadron encountered some of the bitterest fighting of the war, and in two months lost eleven of its young men whose brief life and high devotion are in our thoughts today. "We had waited long to hear some definite word, explaining his disappearance in that battle above the clouds on November third. The silence has not been broken, and all we know is that he was last seen fighting against fearful odds, as one who asked nothing but the freedom of doing his duty and the joyous privilege of serving to the uttermost. It was granted to him in full measure, there in the high heavens; and as the mystery of his going gently closes about him, it leaves behind that stirring picture of the young knight caught in the maelstrom of his winged foes, calmly and bravely attacking and defending to the last.

"From that picture of daring and consecration, it is only a brief step back to the shy, refined boy who shared our community life and gave us the companionship of his growing years.

"It is interesting to observe that the three young men, who have passed from this church to receive memorial honors in the flames of war, were all of this type. Davis, Peabody and Clapp—quiet, modest, reserved, untouched by the bluster so often associated with the battle temper; but no less brave—perhaps more so—because the springs of courage were deep and sought in inconspicuous channels.

"Lieut. Clapp attended our high school, and after fitting still further at the Noble & Greenough school in Boston, entered Harvard University and was graduated in 1915. He was already in the first year of his law school course, when he yielded to the urge of his country's call and entered her service. He chose to serve as an aviator, and in 1918 became a member of the Twenty-second Flying Squad.

GIVES $100,000

Col. E. H. Haskell Generous to Morehouse Memorial

Announcement of a gift of $100,000 to the Morehouse Memorial Fund, contributed by Colonel Edward H. Haskell of Newton Centre, president of the Ministers and Missionaries Benefit Board, Northern Baptist Convention, is made by Dr. Fred P. Haggard, director of the National Committee of Northern Baptist Laymen, which is conducting the $6,000,000 Victory Campaign. The Morehouse Memorial Fund is being raised to aid aged ministers and missionaries who are in need of financial assistance.

"This gift," says Dr. Haggard, "may be regarded as Colonel Haskell's practical reply to the challenge of the anonymous donor, who has offered to give $200,000 to the Morehouse Memorial Fund if the balance of the $750,000 which we are seeking is raised by tonight."

Colonel Haskell was chosen to take the place made vacant through the death of Henry L. Morehouse who dedicated his life and small worldly possessions toward raising $1,000,000 to care for aged Baptist ministers and missionaries, their widows and dependent children.

Colonel Haskell is also Massachusetts State Chairman of the $6,000,000 Victory Campaign, a former president of the Massachusetts Baptist State Convention, a former president of the Boston Baptist Social Union, a member of the executive committee of the Northern Baptist Convention and several other denominational societies.

Red Cross Discourages Purchases In This Form

The Newton Home Service Section of the American Red Cross has been requested by Headquarters to give publicity to the following information.

Several instances have been brought to the attention of the Red Cross of men in uniform, claiming to be discharged from service, who are going about selling different kinds of articles. In some instances the men have said they were sent out by the Red Cross. The articles which they sell are usually of very little value, but the men tell appealing stories and thus obtain more money than the article is worth, which is undoubtedly the object for which they are working.

For men who are not really soldiers it is nothing but fraud, and should be stamped out, as such men bring discredit upon the uniform. Even for men really discharged from service, it is an undesirable occupation since it does not help them to get started again in business on a firm basis.

People are urged, therefore, to be very careful about buying from these men. They should first make inquiries of the men. In case it is impossible to learn this, send the description of the men and the articles they are selling to the Home Service Section of the American Red Cross, 829 Washington street, Newtonville, telephone Newton North 438.

NOTICE

The Master Painters' Association of the City of Newton are in receipt of a demand from the Painters' Union 345, which calls for an unreasonable advance in wages beginning April 1st, 1919.

We, the Master Painters of this City, unanimously agree that the present wages paid are sufficient and that due to the unsettled conditions of the country at this time and apparent expectation of the employing public that the future should bring lower prices (and not higher) have absolutely refused to grant their demands and would ask the public to assist us in this worthy purpose.

BOLSHEVISM

Dr. Channing, a Russian by Birth, Addresses Auburndale Study Club

Dr. Michael Chirurg of Ashton Park was the guest of the Auburndale Study Club (formerly the College Club of Auburndale) held last Thursday evening, March 27th, at Mr. E. D. Hague's residence. Doctor Chirurg spoke on Bolshevism and its causes; he being of Russian birth and knowing his country and its people absolutely well, handled the question of present interests marvellously well.

Among many interesting things about Russia the Doctor said that there grows on our western plains a poisonous weed. It is called the loco weed. When a horse eats it his power of vision is so affected that his entire perspective is completely distorted. Some of you have seen those unfortunate creatures stepping very high over little stones, or sticks and stumbling along as if surrounded by all kinds of imaginary obstacles. From the nature of its symptoms that disease is called "grass staggers." And it has seemed to me that public opinion in this country at times has suffered from grass staggers and that it is "plumb locoed" on the entire Russian situation.

If that diagnosis is correct we have not far to look for the source of infection, for we find the weed flourishing most luxuriantly on the front pages of many of our daily journals, cultivated by ignorance, and often, I am very sorry to say, by prejudice.

But there are certain facts which emerge, if we read those high colored stories, not day by day, but month by month. And I think I have been able, perhaps unwisely, but at least sincerely, to form certain conclusions on the present situation.

Our reluctant and carefully guarded intervention in Russia was, in my opinion, inspired by a single and sincere desire to aid the Russian people. I presume that that was the hope, the dream, the expectation. And we all know now that the dream, the hope, did not come true. And what is the situation today in Siberia? Has intervention re-established order? Has intervention destroyed Bolshevism? On the contrary, it has not re-established order. It has not destroyed Bolshevism. And naturally enough, you are asking yourselves why? And the answer is: We see today, in Siberia, set up under the wing of Allied intervention petty personalities, calling themselves dictators, quarreling with each other for the possession and for the exercise of power, which they could never hope to possess or exercise unless supported by foreign bayonets. I am taking my facts from a source which is not prejudiced against intervention, but, on the contrary, is prejudiced in the other way. And permit me to read to you a statement which perhaps some of you have read from the New York Times correspondent, who has been in Siberia with our forces from the beginning; he says:

"A distressing and disappointing feature is that Russia's civil war is not a fight for freedom, but a contest for power between anarchy on the one hand and militarism on the other. If the Bolsheviks win in the final crash with arms, Russia will remain anarchistic for some time. If the

DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture
To Establish One in Newton

In order that the gardeners of this city may have access to reliable and timely information on gardening this season the Newton Graphic is going to co-operate with the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics. Each week we shall print an article on some timely phase of gardening to be furnished us by the County Bureau in connection with our garden column. We are now trying to find some interested party who will be willing to conduct for us along with their own gardening operations a demonstration home garden. This garden is to be 25 feet square and will be conducted in a practical manner under the instruction of the home garden agent of the County Bureau. It will supplement the weekly garden articles by teaching the home gardeners by demonstrating the correct and most practical methods of gardening.

A bulletin board to be placed near the garden will also contain weekly reports on the progress of the garden together with timely garden instruction. In connection with the garden article there will be a garden question box. All questions concerning gardening which are sent to the Graphic will be answered the following week so far as space will permit by the Home Garden Agent of the County Bureau. There will be at the Graphic office next week for free distribution a bulletin on home gardening, issued by the Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture and Home Economics. This bulletin contains a suggestive plan for a garden 25 feet square and also gives practical pointers on gardening practices.

It is now time for the home gardener to begin to think about the different kinds of vegetables he is going to plant in his garden this spring. In choosing varieties for the home garden the greatest attention should be paid to their quality. One should choose the varieties which are relished most by his family. Select the old standbys rather than some newly advertised specialty. Buy the best seed obtainable from some reliable seed house and get them early.

The following varieties are recommended by the Home Garden agent of the County Bureau as being well suited to local conditions.

Pole beans (shell) Carmine Horticultural Pole beans (snap and shell) Kentucky Wonder
Bush beans (green snap) Bountiful, Refugee

Bush beans (wax snap) Improved Golden Wax

AUBURNDALE WOMAN'S CLUB CHORUS GIVES OPERETTA

Beauty of setting, careful working out of details, and well-rendered tune-filled music combined to make the operetta "The Japanese Girl" given by the Chorus of the Auburndale Woman's Club on Friday last a finished performance. Norumbega Hall was packed both afternoon and evening with delighted audiences. The simple but artistic stage setting made an attractive background for the gorgeous Japanese costumes. Mrs. Edward Legge, the "Girl of Position," was charming and her songs well adapted to her sweet voice. All the parts were well taken and the chorus of Japanese Girls showed the results of the careful training, which had been put into it by the leader, Mrs. W. J. Spaulding. A Japanese solo dance by Miss Ruth Allen was introduced between the two acts and Miss Allen's work in training the dramatic action and other dancing also was shown by the results. As is always true much credit for the success of any such affair depends upon the accompanist and in this case it belongs to Mrs. Lowell D. MacNutt. Two members whose work behind the scenes prevented their appearance in the scenes accustomed places with the chorus and contributed largely to the success of the performance, were Mrs. Walter Wells and Mrs. H. H. Longfellow. An unusual feature was the song of Mrs. Legge and the bird, the latter's notes being whistled by Mrs. Edward J. Frost behind the scenes, and when in duet their notes blended remarkably well.

In addition to all the work of training a great amount of labor was put into the making of the vast number of paper flowers used and that of the costumes.

Those who took part were: Mrs. Edward Legge, Mrs. Lyman Gore, Mrs. W. J. Spaulding, Mrs. Arthur Furbush, Miss Eva Morsem, Mrs. C. James Sursock, Mrs. A. W. Robinson, Mrs. W. K. Corey, Mrs. H. L. Goodman, Mrs. E. J. Frost, Mrs. N. W. Donnett, Mrs. J. W. Messinger, Mrs. J. B. Shaw, Mrs. H. M. Noyes, Mrs. G. A. Bacon, Mrs. E. Arthur Robinson, Mrs. Harry Wilson, Mrs. C. J. Floyd, Miss Margaret Longfellow, Mrs. W. D. Gilpatrick, Mrs. R. W. Peters, Mrs. J. W. Champion, Mrs. O. F. Herrick.

POETRY AND MUSIC

The Newton Catholic Club had a very successful entertainment Monday evening, a combination of readings and impersonations by Mr. Thomas A. Daly, and music by five artists from Providence, R. I. The last named included Rev. Fr. Austin J. O'Toole, who is a friend of Rev. Fr. Francis Cronin of West Newton.

Mr. Daly is a writer of unusual gifts and he has a remarkable power of mimicry and impersonation. He gave selections in Italian dialect and English, showing a keen sense of humor and remarkable gifts as an entertainer.

The musicians were Miss Louise Bixby, violin, Rev. Austin J. O'Toole, cello, Mr. Leonard Smith, piano-cello, Mr. James A. Conway, tenor, and Mr. Edward Connors, baritone. They gave vocal and instrumental selections and all of their numbers were very finely presented. The audience which filled the room was enthusiastic both with the music and the readings, and the entertainment was an exceedingly pleasing one.

MRS. STEVENSON'S FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Katharine Lent Stevenson, for many years president of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union, were held Tuesday. Morning prayer was said at her late home on Willard street, Newton, conducted by Rev. Henry Crane of the Newton Methodist Church. The body was then taken to the Tremont street Methodist Church, of which Mrs. Stevenson was a member.

A memorial service was held at that church at 2 o'clock. About 200 people prominent in W. C. T. U. work, including representatives of organizations from all over the state, were present. At the close of the service, the "white ribbons" filed passed the casket and each one dropped a white carnation.

The services were in charge of Rev. Kelley Jenness, pastor of the church. Mrs. Elmer A. Stevens of Arlington, who is a member of the W. C. T. U., played the organ, giving a number of appropriate selections before the service, and playing familiar hymns while the women were dropping their flowers on the casket.

The music included the hymn "Some glad day" written by Mrs. Stevenson. Miss Hattie Holmes, contralto, sang "Lead, kindly light," and "O rest in the Lord." Rev. Mr. Jenness delivered a eulogy in honor of Mrs. Stevenson's work for temperance and the church. Mrs. Ella Gleason, of Winchester, state president, paid a tribute as from a fellow worker; Rev. W. P. Landers of Brockton, secretary of the allied temperance forces, spoke on Mrs. Stevenson's faculty for co-operation; Mrs. Ada B. Frisbee, corresponding secretary of the state organization, read a telegram from Mrs. A. A. Gordon of Evanston, Ill., the national president of the W. C. T. U. The ushers were members of the Katharine Lent Stevenson Union of the W. C. T. U. The body was cremated at Mount Auburn, and a memorial service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Jenness.

THE BIRD CLASS

The Newton Highlands Bird Class, which was formerly a part of the Improvement Association, but is now an independent organization, started its fourth year with a remarkable experience on Tuesday morning, April first. From one spot the class saw a goldfinch, a pair of cowbirds, two meadow larks, four rusty blackbirds, ten redwings, four starlings, several grackles, twenty robins, twenty-five bluebirds, many song sparrows and a couple of crows. In addition to these, the following species were recorded during the walk: jays, chickadees, juncos, many groups of fox sparrows, a pair of hairy woodpeckers, flickers, and a phoebe. Prof. Maynard has been engaged for the season, and the details as to membership, time, routes and finance are in charge of Mrs. Mellen, telephone, South 487-M.

present dictators succeed, the Czar's intimate friend, Denikin, will be named dictator of the new monarchy which will be founded."

It is only necessary to get this in your mind, to know why it is said today that if the forces which we have sent into Russia to form the nucleus of a great internal force are withdrawn, those few people, dictators as the New York Times correspondent describes them, will be without protection against their own people.

Therefore, it is clear in my mind that intervention has not only failed to destroy Bolshevism, but has been for many months the strongest prop of Bolshevism power. No doubt you have read that Mr. Gorky—and no man was ever more severe in his denunciation of the Bolsheviki than Maxim Gorky—is a Bolsheviki today because he is against Allied intervention.

We read that the Mensheviks (the Social Democratic party that Mr. Kerensky is the leader of) are strong against Allied intervention, that they are in a measure supporting the Bolsheviki power.

We read that the Social Revolutionaries who made the one great attempt to overthrow Lenin and Trotsky, are doubtful because of intervention as to what their future policy should be, and have relaxed their open and active opposition to Bolshevism.

In short, intervention has consolidated in support of the Bolsheviki the men in Russia who see in foreign interference tendencies toward reaction. It has done another thing. People are starving in Petrograd and Moscow because Allied troops are stopping the shipments of grain from Siberia into Soviet Russia.

Have we not, now that the war is ended, come to a point for re-examination, for reconsideration, and for revision? Shall we send an Army of Occupation into Russia which can effectively destroy the Bolsheviki power and set up a new form of government satisfactory to us? I say that is a ridiculous proposition, and I think all of you will agree with me in that, when you will only look at the map to see it.

Russia under the Czar, included sufficient land area to take in the entire American Continent from Greenland to the Isthmus, and have enough room left over to include all France and Germany. On the occurrence of the Russian revolution, in the default of any other government whatsoever the mass of people formed these local autonomous soviets all over that vast area, except where foreign force has intervened. When Mr. Kerensky was still in power these Soviets or Councils of the Workingmen and Soldiers were organized in every village, town and city all over Russia, and at every point the only local authority which is exercised by any one is exercised by these Soviets, or Councils of Workingmen and Soldiers.

Now, to tell you how these Soviets are working, I will tell you about General Alexieff, who was the commander of Russian armies after the Korniloff fiasco, a most able general. He raised a force at Rostoff and claimed to have thirty thousand well trained men. They were well trained and equipped. Alexieff proposed to march from Rostoff to Moscow and to overthrow the Soviet Government. When he started there was not a sign or vestige anywhere between him and Moscow of any organized force, or anything at all. He advanced without serious opposition about one hundred versts, when he found himself confronted with a force superior to his own, and learned that his communications at Rostoff were being cut off by a similar force and that Soviet troops were coming in from all sides.

Then he returned as fast as he could. The explanation is that in each local centre they have their soviet, the first instrument for the exercise of their own will to govern themselves, that had ever been placed in their hands, and when those men learned that an attempt was being made to overthrow and destroy that instrument of self government and self expression they came out and kept on coming out, just exactly as your forefathers did as minute men in the Revolution.

That has been the history of every single attempt of the same kind in Russia to this day, and so I believe that the soviet is a thing of power and a thing of depth, and it is the thing we are fighting today.

Now, is there any way out? Are we going to send a sufficient force in there to destroy that thing over that vast territory? It is not a question, as Mr. Hoover says, of cutting the cancer out of Moscow. It is not a question of taking Petrograd and Moscow, but a question of an army of occupation over that entire land, and the destruction of an aspiration which, no matter how wrong we think it, is just as sincere as our aspiration for democracy and liberty. Is there any other way? Bolshevism has arisen out of suffering and starvation. Our policies today are increasing the evils which make that thing possible, and I think that we should let food go through; I think that we should be sending food today to the Russian people, who are starving in Moscow and Petrograd.

I think we should be sending with that food a commission of men who can speak the Russian language and who have vision enough and guts enough to take the thing in their hands and control it. A commission of the right kind can go to Moscow today with food and economic backing, and by the simple process of human negotiation can stop the Red Terror and the White Terror and give those people some measure of confidence in the future by giving them help in this time of starvation and relieving the conditions under which they live, and by which they are as much oppressed as by the power of any so-called German agent.

Now are we going in there in that way to give those people a chance, or are we going into Bolshevism with force into revolutionary Russia? Should we not think back a bit to 1793 when the European powers decided that that was the method with which to deal with the French Revolution? If we will apply the same method in the case of Revolutionary Russia, it may have the same result as that it had with the French Revolution! I hope that we will choose the method of sending food and economic relief to the suffering people in Soviet Russia. In what place in this broad land of ours would we rather choose to discuss such a scheme than in this state? Will you men and women of Massachusetts, with the blood of your fathers running in your veins, contemplate with an easy New England conscience, an American army of occupation in Revolutionary Russia? Your ancestors have left some trace in you of what they felt when they suffered under occupation of the City of Boston by troops of their own race, when they witnessed in King Street the Boston Massacre of 1776, and finally put the British troops to rout along the road from Concord to Lexington. And they were the same men who, in adopting the Declaration of Independence, declared in language which has not yet been improved upon, the right of every people of self-determination. Blindly, perhaps, but with an earnestness and devotion which is astounding when you think back to the attempted imposition by autocratic power of ignorance and degradation under which they were compelled to live so many centuries, the Russian people today are sincerely trying to work out that aspiration of self-government so well expressed in that instrument, and I venture to predict that no one sitting in this presence will live to see the day when this nation, conceived as it was, will consent to send hundreds and thousands of Americans to police Revolutionary Russia.

N. H. S.

A reunion of the Newton High School, Class of 1917 was held last Saturday evening at the home of Mr. H. F. Stimpson, Chestnut Hill. In spite of the weather a very good crowd attended, and all enjoyed the evening thoroughly. Novelties were introduced during the evening by Mr. Stimpson, and afforded much amusement. A short business session was held, after which the war records of the members of the class were reviewed by William V. M. Fawcett. Tribute was paid to the memory of Donald Curry and Clark Alvord, who made the supreme sacrifice. Short, humorous speeches were then given by John Starkweather, president of the class, and others. Dancing concluded the evening's entertainment. The affair was in charge of Ralph B. Emery and W. V. M. Fawcett, two of the members of the class.

There Are Just a Few Who Make Collections Costly

MOST TELEPHONE SUBSCRIBERS pay their bills promptly and the expense of collecting the majority of telephone accounts is, therefore, reasonable.

BUT THERE ARE A NUMBER of subscribers who overlook their telephone bills, who neglect to pay them within the reasonable specified time, and the cost of collecting these accounts is great—probably two or three times as great as that involved in collecting all the accounts that are paid within the desired period.

THE EFFORT involved in collecting overdue accounts would be saved if all accounts were paid within a reasonable time, and, might better be devoted to other work of value to the community's telephone service.

We are taking this means of placing the facts before telephone subscribers in general and we feel certain that they will co-operate by paying their bills promptly.

NEWTON COMMUNITY CLUB ORGANIZES

Over three hundred women filled the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association to overflowing yesterday afternoon in response to word which had been circulated through this part of Newton during the past three weeks that a large democratic woman's club was about to be organized. A small group of women, who had felt for a long time the need of such a club, met together at the home of Mrs. Fred H. Tucker on March 13th, discussed some of the problems involved and voted to organize. A committee consisting of Miss Jessie M. Fisher, Mrs. Alfred W. Fuller, Mrs. Ralph C. Henry, Miss Kate W. Fox and Miss Grace M. Burt were appointed at that time to draw up a constitution and by-laws.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon Miss Jessie M. Fisher presided and Miss Grace M. Burt acted as secretary pro tem. After the singing of "America the Beautiful," the minutes of the preliminary meeting were read and the draft of the constitution and by-laws was presented by Miss Kate W. Fox and adopted by the assembly. A nominating committee was appointed from the floor to make up a list of officers to be voted upon at the next meeting, which will be held on April 24th.

At the conclusion of the business, Mrs. Arthur Flinn sang, "Speed our Republic," the audience joining in on the chorus. Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, president of the Newton Federation of Women's Clubs, spoke upon, "The Organized Work of Women," in which she traced the evolution of woman from the time she carried on her own industries at her own fireside down to the present day when the city full of people is her family and the public school her nursery. The audience was then addressed by Mrs. Palmer who would add the Motherhood of Woman, Society, she said, is now supplied with a new force, the power of woman. Not only has the club woman learned through her club to be a more intelligent homemaker, but she has also found that the unselfish life is the joyous life. After brief announcements the meeting closed with the singing of "America."

Opportunity was given to sign membership cards and to pay dues. All those who join before May 1st will be Charter Members, after which time those who join will have to present an application signed by two members and be passed upon by the executive board, as well as pay an entrance fee of one dollar in addition to the regular annual dues, which will be three dollars. Will those who took home membership cards to sign return them as soon as possible to Miss Jessie M. Fisher, 217 Church street, Newton. Fees may be sent to Mrs. Loren D. Towle, 215 Franklin street or may be paid at the next meeting.

GIRL SCOUTS

The Girl Scout drive for funds is nearing its close. Just what the result will be, cannot be determined as yet, but it is hoped that each village will do its share. Raise its quota at least and go over the top if possible. There is still time for those to contribute who haven't already done so as the drive continues through tomorrow, the 5th. But don't put it off, do it now.

Those in charge for the different wards are Mrs. Frank A. Day, Newton
Mrs. P. B. Howard, Newtonville
Mrs. Frederick E. Jones, West Newton.

Mrs. James R. Chandler, Waban
Miss Louise Walworth, Newton Ctr.
The girls are working hard at present for their Merit Badges. The Court of Honor is offering one or two tests every week now, and will continue to do so until the middle of May. Two weeks ago the Ambulance test was given by Dr. Andrews of Newton Centre to twelve Scouts and that same week Miss Ethel Gilman of the Red Cross Motor Corps gave the automobile test. Miss Maida Flanders of the Newton High School has given the Personal Health Test to a number of girls and Miss Bognun of the Newton Hospital passed six Scouts in the Child Nurse test a week ago. The Music Badge is proving a very popular one. Mrs. Albert Carter of Newtonville gave that test last week and it was necessary to appoint two alternates for it as so many girls wished to take it. Girl Scouts don't forget the Rally. It is to be in May and we hope an open air Rally. Each troop will be asked to give some special demonstration at it, so be thinking over what you would like to do.

WANT MOTOR DRIVERS

The Newton Red Cross Women's Motor Corps is seeking volunteers. The return of the boys of the Twenty-Sixth means busy days ahead and the Corps wishes to secure at once two volunteers one to run its truck and the other to run its ambulance. The work the Corps has done has won high praise and commendation and some of its members are overworked and need rest for a while. Young women who are able to run cars and who are willing to do Red Cross work are asked to communicate at once with Mrs. Talbot, the commander of the Corps, at Talbot House, Newtonville.

LODGE NOTES

Boynston Lodge of Odd Ladies will hold an Easter Sale, Whist and Dance Tuesday afternoon and evening, April 8th.

PAINTERS ON STRIKE

Demand Minimum of $6.00 A Day For 40 Hour Week

About all the union painters of the City of Newton are on strike to enforce their demand of a daily minimum wage of $6.00 a day, for their 40 hour week. A few non-union painters are still working.

The master painters are unable to predict the outcome of this strike, and believe it will have a marked effect to slow up business. They find that people are going very slow about having painting work done, and are disposed to wait and see if the cost will not go down.

They suggested that if the painters would consent to keep along for the same wages or a small advance, it would tend to stimulate business, in which case they would do the best they could for the men. But under present conditions they do not think much painting is being done.

The suggestion has been made that the painters work 44 hours a week at their old wages, which would give them some increase. This however did not interest the painters. It is claimed by the master painters that in most localities except around Boston, the painters do work five and a half days, thus making a working week of 44 hours.

The original agreement made with the painters three years ago was for two years, and last year it was continued another year. This agreement has now expired, and the painters, claimed by the master painters, are not now willing to arbitrate the wage question.

Some of the painters are supposed to have gone elsewhere and found work, but it is not believed that any great amount of work is available around here, except around the Fore River district, where the government is completing its housing operations.

The master painters vociferously claim that the cost of living is very high and that their employees have the right to expect good wages, but they feel the advance asked is too much, particularly considering that the men work a short week.

A statement of the painters side of the controversy will be found below:

THE PAINTERS' SIDE

There recently appeared in the local papers of Newton an article inserted by the Master Painters of said city, in which they assert that the journeyman painters of Newton are demanding an exorbitant increase in wages. They further allege that conditions warrant a decrease instead of an increase, and request the cooperation of the customers in their "worthy purpose," viz opposing the painters in obtaining a living wage, and, as they failed to state those demands and the wages paid for the past year, Local 545 of the Brotherhood will furnish the missing figures.

We received for the past year the enormous wage of $8.00 per day, or $23.00 per week, and have issued our demands for $6.00 per day. Mr. Customer: Bear this fact in mind—This increase granted, will put us in a position whereby we will still be practically the lowest paid craft of any following the building trades. Judge for yourself if this demand is greed on our part.

Upon what authority they base their assertion that conditions warrant a decrease instead of an increase, we are unable to say.

It is a well known fact that painting is the most unwholesome and uncertain business in the building trades and whereas 90 per cent of the painters are unable to obtain employment at their regular vocation during the winter months. We affirm that our income will not be in excess of $1,000 per annum. These are the true facts and upon these facts we rest our case.

DEATH OF MRS. WOOD

Mrs. Alice Boise Wood, who died at her home in Arlington this week was the wife of Rev. Nathan E. Wood, D.D., formerly president of the Newton Theological Institute. Mrs. Wood was born in Providence on May 15, 1846.

Mrs. Wood took the greater part of her college courses in the University of Michigan, but received her B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Chicago. In both of these institutions she was the first woman student. She later served as instructor in Greek in the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Wood maintained to the end her life-long habits of study, especially in Greek, French and German; also in Esperanto, in which she had become an expert, and in poetry. Her own poems have been widely published and read. She leaves besides her husband, three sons, Nathan R., Reuben S., and Basil B. Wood, and two sisters, Mrs. Julius Arthur Johnson of Chicago and Mrs. Reuben G. Bush of New Orleans.

DEATH OF ROBERT FORBUSH

News was received Monday thru a letter written by Sergt. Raymond B. Hemenway to his mother of the death of Robert Forbush, the 2nd son of Mr. Frank Forbush of Sumner street, Newton Centre. In his letter dated March 16th Sergt. Hemenway said that his friend, Robert L. Forbush, who had been with the 101st Engineers, and was a Master Engineer, Fr. G.R., (Senior Grade) ever since September 27th, 1917, had died a few days before of influenza, at Le Man, near Brest. He and Capt. Walcott, both of whom were awaiting embarkation, were buried together with high military honors in a little town in Southern France, far from the country they had hoped so soon to see. No official news had been received by the mother who had been eagerly looking forward to her son's return.

Robert Forbush's record has been one of which his parents and friends will be proud, and the whole community extends its sympathy to the bereaved parents.

There will be a memorial service at an early date.

MINSTREL SHOW

A Minstrel show was presented in the parlors of the Channing Church of Newton on Saturday evening, March 29th. A great applause greeted the opening chorus, followed by the first end song sung by Merrill Garcelon, entitled "Rip Van Winkle Slept with One Eye Open." Then Stephen Palmer later jokingly complimented David Grant for his great service on the N. H. S. track team, told a hen story in place of a Jack O'Lantern Song, the presenting of which was prohibited at the last moment by a telegram from the manager of the Colonial Theatre.

David Grant, Overseer of Mr. Mandell's new farm in West Newton, then entered in the guise of a farmer and spoke, in his "hick" manner, of his experiences. His song "Reuben Haskins of Skowhegan, Maine," certainly brought the house down. Then the end songs followed in the order given each making a "hit" by its own individuality. "Some One Else May Be There While I'm Gone," by George Mandell, "How Ya Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm," by Henry Moore, "We Never Did That Before the War," by Wilson Palmer, and "My Friends Morris and Max," a noteworthy composition sung by Charles Pearson. The last of the end songs was Webster Wiggins' lively song, "You'll Find Old Dixie Land in France." The chorus consisted of Roger A. Lutz, Arthur Spring, Eliot Grant, Francis Russell, Alva Wilson, and Donald Crawford.

The grand finale, with appropriate words concluded the minstrel. The show was followed by a lively dance; a very large number attended in spite of the weather.

The show was repeated on Wednesday for the benefit of the children. A large number were present. In addition to the cast of Saturday night, Master Robert Angier and Master Baldwin Pearson took part. They sat either side of Mr. Angier, who was interlocutor. The jokes and songs seemed to be as much enjoyed by the youthful audience as by their elders.

Y. M. C. A. GYMNASICS

The Newton Y. M. C. A. gave its annual gymnastic exhibition last night. It was in charge of S. A. Carling and F. E. Doubleday, physical directors. Mrs. Florence Simms and Miss Florence Walsh were pianists. The program began with a grand march of all classes. The boys' classes gave a march and drill. There were races and games and exhibition basketball ball by the juniors. The older boys gave apparatus work and there was a pillow fight, blindfolded, by Childs and Sloan. The senior class gave a drill and maze run and the business men's class gave a volley ball game with Watertown against Newton. Allie and Duvall gave an exhibition of tumbling. A boxing exhibition followed by Robert Rhodes and Corbett, the last named being the former 125-pound New England amateur champion. The senior class gave pyramids and there was a circus comedy act by a professional clown.

Thirteen boys were given athletic certificates having passed the certificate test, and the presentation was made by Mr. Charles D. Kenner, president of the Association. These boys received the certificates: Wentworth, Woodward, Tinkham, Bang, Sloan, Richards, Church, Flinn, Sanborn, Wallis, Butler, Manning, Mahoney.

The junior A division team called the "doughboys", Al Richards, captain, were given a shield, also the "army" team of the junior B division, Gordon Kenner, captain, received a shield, these to be exhibited at the building. The attendance was large, every seat being taken, and many stood up to see the exhibition.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, president of the State Federation, in her monthly letter to the clubs in this month's Federation Bulletin urges the completion of the May Alden Ward Memorial before the end of the present administration, which comes with the annual meeting the first week in June. "The Memorial," she says, "should appeal to every club woman in the state. To those who knew Mrs. Ward—as an opportunity to show respect and affection for a noble and gracious woman, who twice served the Federation as president, and to those who did not have the privilege of a personal acquaintance with her, as an opportunity to contribute to a cause for which the Federation has always stood, the education of our young women. The Memorial planned is a scholarship in Simmons College." She urges that every club contribute at least a small amount "that all may have a part in establishing this scholarship that will commemorate the noble woman of the past by helping the women of the future."

Local Happenings

At the last meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club, a short talk was given by Miss Eleanor Joslin, who speaks for University Extension Courses, State Department of Education.

A short play entitled "How the Story Grew," formed the afternoon's program. The ladies who took the parts were Mrs. Burrisson, Mrs. Jordan, Mrs. Early, Mrs. Dickerman, Mrs. Holbrook, Mrs. Keefe, Mrs. Seaver and Mrs. McLean.

An unusually festive tea followed in honor of the birthday of the president, Mrs. Robert Gorton, and a beautiful flowering plant was presented to her by the members who took part in the play.

Two most successful whist parties have been given by the club to keep up the fund for the Electa Walton Scholarships. At the first, held at the home of Mrs. St. Amant, there was an attendance of over sixty and prizes were won by Mrs. Sylvester, Wellesley Farms, Mrs. Gorton, Mrs. Siggins, Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Budding and Mrs. Heibek.

Frappe, coffee and cakes were served and a most delightful afternoon was enjoyed. The second party was held at Mrs. McDonald's, where so many tickets were sold that the overflow was accommodated at one of the neighboring houses. Again a most enjoyable time was held, with bountiful refreshments and most cordial hospitality.

The eleven prizes were won by Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Pierpont, Mrs. Conant, Mrs. Heibek, Mrs. Boutelle, Mrs. Budding, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Eickman, Mrs. Wein, Mrs. Keefe and Mrs. Toulon. There was an auction sale of cakes and pies, bread and doughnuts and candy which was all readily disposed of. The Committee is to be congratulated on having arranged and carried out these affairs with such great success, both socially and financially.

The members of the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club spent an enjoyable afternoon on Saturday last with Mrs. Harry N. Milliken at her apartment in the Fenway. The subject of study was a review of "Much Ado About Nothing" and the quiz was in charge of Mrs. F. S. Keith. Among the interesting points brought out was the question raised by some critics as to whether Shakespeare ever visited Italy. While there is no absolute proof of it, his familiarity with all the manners and customs of the country has suggested the query. Mrs. Milliken contributed "cello solos."

Mrs. F. R. Hayward of Centre street was hostess for the meeting of the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. when one of the club's Special Days was much enjoyed by all present. On these occasions the club turns aside from its regular course of serious study and "plays." Ten members contributed five minute numbers, either original or otherwise, and much fun was had. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Miss Bessie Talbot Salmon charmed the members of the Newtonville Woman's Club at its meeting on April 2nd with her program of "Songs of Old and New France." Miss Salmon was enthusiastically received. Her action was good, her voice cultivated and she is a refined and finished singer. It proved a delightful afternoon. At the business meeting preceding Miss Caroline Freeman spoke for the Girl Scout Drive now on and Mrs. Wellman of the Mothers' Rest Membership Drive.

The Auburndale Review Club met on Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Edward J. Frost, 379 Central street.

The subject was "Quentin Durward," by Walter Scott. Mrs. S. W. Dike, the chairman, told of Louis XI., one of the principal characters and read extracts from the novel. Mrs. Frank F. Davidson read a part of the introduction and then told the love story, quoting at times from the book itself. Mrs. Henry R. Turner read a paper on California where she has been recently traveling. Music was furnished by Mrs. Carrie Gilman Edwards of Central street formerly of New York City, who played a Beethoven Danse, a romance and a Norwegian Wedding March by Grieg.

At the meeting of the Social Science Club on Wednesday morning Miss Rose Trainer of the Massachusetts Commission for the Blind, and herself blind, spoke on "The Re-education of the Blind Soldier." She discussed the subject from the attitude of the men themselves, saying that generally speaking they are showing a splendid spirit. She told of the work being done by the Government for their re-education at Baltimore, along all kinds of lines. She also spoke feelingly of the attitude of the seeing public toward the blind. Blind people, she said, want just the same treatment as those who can see, they want an opportunity to live their lives in just the same way. They are not different from other people, except that they have been deprived of one of their senses. She told of many occupations where they can do their share of the world's work just as well as those who can see and cited instances of those who have made a record for themselves in many of the professions. They need more than ordinary people higher education and the Government is doing everything possible to give the blinded soldiers the opportunities which will fit them to be useful citizens and not dependents.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Miss Marion Keep, Editor

In spite of the seemingly high price of vegetables on the market, the housewife should not be discouraged in deciding what to purchase. She must carefully consider needs of the body, if she realizes how necessary vegetables are in maintaining the health of the body, there should be no hesitation in her choice. (The prices now, compared with those paid a year ago are as a whole cheaper.)

Vegetables are appetizing and generally relished and their use often renders a flavorless dish or meal palatable.

Scalloped Cabbage

Select one small cabbage, separate the leaves and let them stay in cold, salted water for five minutes. Then shred the leaves, put into a kettle, cover with cold water to which has been added one teaspoon salt and one eighth teaspoon soda and let boil for twenty-five minutes. Pour off the water, drain and put alternate layers of cabbage and well seasoned white sauce into a baking dish. Spread buttered crumbs over the top. Bake in a moderate oven until crumbs are brown.

Buttered Crumbs

2 C. ground dry bread crumbs
5 tbsp. butter
Melt the butter add the crumbs and stir them until all are coated with fat. Buttered crumbs should be used soon after they are prepared as the fat will become rancid.

Dry crumbs may be kept indefinitely in a lightly covered clean jar.

How to Serve Left Over Carrots
Chop cooked carrots fine. Season with butter, pepper and salt, heat in a saucepan being careful not to let them burn. Fill hot individual or large molds with carrots and press lightly. Put in oven for five minutes, turn on a hot dish. Garnish with parsley. If preferred a cup of medium white sauce may be poured over the carrot.

Vegetables are valuable because of 1. The amount and kinds of mineral matter present, iron, potassium, phosphorus and sulphur.
2. Flavor and appearance.
3. Appetizing qualities.
4. Variety which they make possible.
5. Bulk which they give the diet.
6. Presence of vitamins which are necessary for the nourishment of the body.

Save Vegetable Stock
The water in which vegetables have been cooked may well be called "vegetable stock." It contains considerable portion of the soluble mineral matter. The loss from such vegetables as carrots, spinach, etc. may amount to one-third of the total food material present. Vegetable stock should therefore, if of agreeable flavor, be used in making sauces for vegetables, or as a basis for soups.

Spinach Soup
2 c. meat stock
1 qt. spinach
2 1/2 c. boiling water
1 1/2 c. milk
1/2 c. butter
5 tbsp. flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. pepper

Wash, pick over spinach, cook thirty minutes in boiling salted water. Rub through a sieve, add stock, heat to boiling point, bind, add milk and seasoning. Serve hot with toasted crackers.

MEMORIAL SERVICE

original eighteen pilots. Its work was distinguished and notably successful, and during one of its last battles above the wooded hills of Beaumont, Lieut. Clapp met his death.

"It has been my privilege to read some of the letters which he wrote home from the front. Often these unstudied messages, fresh from the enthusiasms and sincerities of the young heart, reveal what more conventional and restrained utterances could not do. That is especially true of Lieut. Clapp's letters. They show a literary finish, a mental insight, an interest in the under-things on which important events stand, and withal a tender, thoughtful concern for those he loved, that are seldom considered worth while amid the rough and strenuous experience of camp and field. The tide of immediate duty bore him to the fierce rigors of combat and he set forth with valiant joy, and after that the return to the quiet anchorage of accustomed gentleness, reflection and love. Moreover, his was a mind that appreciated to an unusual degree the deeper significance of the world-wide conflict and the dignity of his individual share in it. He writes in one of his letters—'It is much more than country we are fighting for now; it is the ending of such trouble, pain and sorrow for all the generations that are to come after us. It is a religious war, greater far than the old crusades in its principles—principles that are greater and larger than Christianity itself.'

"And that from the unobtrusive youth who was our neighbor! I doubt whether there has been set in language a better statement of the spiritual motives of this war. And he felt them to the heart and gave his life in the solemn conviction that he was fighting for an ideal so sublime, that it became religious, holy, in his sight.

"He was profoundly right and may no political bickering or diplomatic intrigue annul the victory he helped to win and render of no avail the sacrifice which his fine and noble spirit made. 'We shall sing in a moment Samuel Longfellow's hymn of triumph: "God's trumpet wakes the slumbering world." One of its verses makes special appeal to our hearts this hour:

'He who in fealty to the truth,
And counting all the cost,
Doth consecrate his generous youth—
He joins the noble host!'

"Lieut. Clapp has joined the noble host! And upon his unknown grave, may we not imagine there lies the old-time inscription of consecration—placed there by the hand of the Spirit? "For their sakes, the unnamed, the yet unborn, he hath sanctified himself in death? It is there, unwritten and unseen indeed, but there because our memory of him says that it belongs there. Is that not better than the wreath of laurel or the shaft of stone? "And in the empty places of our sorrow may that blessed memory arise and, like some assuring sentinel, go about in the darkness crying: 'All is well! All is well!'

At the close of the service all united in singing, to the tune of Materna, Katherine Lee Bates' "America the Beautiful," one verse of which was peculiarly appropriate to the occasion:

"O beautiful for glorious tale
Of liberating strife,
When valiantly for man's avail,
Men lavished precious life!
America! America!
May God thy gold refine.
Till all success be nobleness,
And every gain divine!"

HAROLD NORRIS GORDON

The friends of Mr. Harold Norris Gordon, formerly of Newton Centre but recently of Johnson, Vt., were shocked March 26 to hear of Mr. Gordon's sudden death while in Chicago on a business trip. Mr. Gordon was born in Rochester, N. Y., and was 28 years old. He attended Newton High School and Nichols Academy at Dudley, Mass., and was graduated from Norwich University in 1911. He was manager of the University baseball team and member of the Theta Chi Fraternity.

He started in business with the Butts & Ordway Company of Boston, where he worked hard, but after some years left there and became manager and treasurer of the American Mineral Company which operates large talc mines at Johnson, Vt.

His father was the late E. A. Gordon of Newton Centre, who died in 1914. He married in 1916 Miss Ruth Clark, daughter of the late Augustus P. Clark, and who was a graduate of Newton High School, 1911, and of Wellesley College, 1915.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Jennie Rix Gordon, his widow, an infant son, and his sister, Miss Grace Rix Gordon of Newton Centre. Funeral services were held Sunday at the home of his mother, conducted by Rev. Edward M. Noyes, and burial was at Lancaster, Mass. The bearers were Messrs. J. Stanley Moore and William Reilly, officials of the mine at Johnson, Vt., Stanley Potter of Brookline, Marsena Butts, and Ward Wilkins of Newton Centre. Mr. Gordon was a member of the Masonic order.

CLAFIN SCHOOL

The Grammar classes of the Clafin School assembled in the hall the day before vacation to hear recitations. Dorothy Allen and Chester Hill took part.

The boys of the eighth grade baseball team have been practicing at Puffer Field during the vacation, and are looking forward to a good team this year.

The sixth and seventh grade boys also have baseball teams. We hope many good games will be played.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC SCHOOL RECITAL

On Sunday last, March 30, the orchestra and pupils of the West Newton Music School, assisted by wind instruments from the orchestra of the Second Congregational Church, gave a Recital that proved most interesting and encouraging to the friends and supporters of the school. While the solo work was creditable, and in some instances, very good indeed, it was the work of the orchestra that aroused the greatest interest.

The numbers given by the orchestra were:
Overture to "The Magic Flute" Mozart
Andante and Menuet from Symphony in C Haydn
Waltz, Estudiantina Waldteufel
It is recognized, of course, that results must come slowly in the development of such work; and while in former seasons the playing of the string ensemble classes has shown increasing progress, the steady advancement in the players, students of the School, and the regular work of the orchestra last season under Miss Fyfe (Director of the School) and this year under Mrs. Albert Stoessel (Head of the Violin Department) have brought a very marked improvement in the orchestral work, so that the vision of the enthusiastic founders and supporters of the School as to its possibilities can be seen taking actual shape.

The orchestra has had great inspiration and help through the addition of several wind instruments from the Congregational Church Orchestra. Mr. Bates and Mr. Lucas giving invaluable help to the School by their cordial co-operation in this respect. It is hoped that the orchestra may attract other players of orchestral instruments. Cellos and violins are especially desired. The rehearsal for a concert to be given in Players Hall at the close of the season will begin on Friday evening, April 11, at 7.30, at the Assembly Hall in the Peirce Grammar School, West Newton. Applicants may present themselves at that time.

REVERIE

Dream, dream, dream
Dream thro' God's Holy Night,
Sing, sing, sing!
Sing thro' His Golden Days.
Love, love, love!
Love till His Angels bright,
Wait your souls
Into Eternal Light.

Peace, peace, peace
Peace to the weary World.
Joy, joy, joy
Joy to the saddened hearts.
Hope, hope, hope,
Hope till your dreams come true.
Trust in God!
He will take care of you.

COPLY REPERTORY THEATRE

For many years "The Middleman" has remained the most popular of Henry Arthur Jones's dramas. First played here, and repeated times afterwards by the distinguished English actor, Edward S. Willard, it aroused and retained the approval of the public because of its sterling worth. It is a play of human impulses and frailties, a play that touches our sympathies because of its faithful representation of man's conduct towards man, and above all it is a play of strong dramatic scenes and contrasts. "The Middleman" will be seen next week at the Copley Repertory Theatre.

OPPOSE DEDHAM STREET

Residents of Oak Hill Object to a $175,000 Improvement

There was quite an audience present Monday evening at the meeting of the Aldermen, attracted no doubt by the hearing held on the proposed widening of Dedham and Walnut streets in the Oak Hill district. No one appeared in favor of the project and it was opposed by Arthur S. Cook for the Thayer estate, G. W. Sloan, W. M. L. McAdams, John C. Bartholmes, and William A. Sanderson.

Hearings on transfer of ownership of poles of the Telephone Company, of the West End Street Rwy. Company on Washington street, of the Edison Company for poles on Moffat road, and on taking land for sewer in Elgin street were unopposed.

Mayor Childs sent in several important communications, recommending $145,000 in bonds for rebuilding road, Winchester, Nahant and Parker street, $100,000 in bonds for surface drainage purposes, a veto of an order for $25,000 for Fire Hazard work in school buildings, and for $500 for preliminary study for a new school house at Waban. He also recommended $300 for establishing a Soldiers' Employment Bureau, $1500 for use of the Planning Board, $75 for obtaining bids for Street and Forestry Buildings at Crafts street yard, $200 for temporary clerks in the Accounting Department, a revision of the salaries in the Engineering department, and $400 for purchase of automobiles. He also announced the appointment of former president Matt B. Jones and former representative Thomas W. White as members of the Commission on a new City Hall and Soldiers Memorial.

The Street Commissioner submitted a schedule of streets for sprinkling during 1919 which was approved. The Board of Health recommended a sewer in Nottingham street.

LUNCH AT WINTER GARDEN

Petitions of the West End Co. for poles on Washington street, of the Edison Co. for poles on Moffat road, for attachment on Watertown street, of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Washington street, of John T. Juran for an auto repair shop on Court street, of Alice M. Goodale for a sewer in Avondale road, of W. H. Newcomb for a sewer in Manomet road, of S. A. Smith for improvement of Woodcliff and Rockledge roads and of the Newtonville Woman's Guild that teachers' salaries be increased.

On recommendation of committees, the removal of snow ordinance was extended to cover Newton Highlands, the mayor was authorized to settle a suit against the Edison Co. on payment of $600, sewers were ordered in California and Mill streets, the Mayor was asked to obtain formal bids for new buildings at Crafts street yard, $500 was voted for preliminary plans for a Waban School house, $701.30 was added to laborers' pensions, $200 for tuition in State vocational schools, $2856 for deficits in training detachments expenses at High School, $4709.27 voted for exchange of numerous automobiles, $920 contributed to the M. & B. The Mayor's veto of the order appropriating $25,000 for work in school houses required by the state police was sustained and the order passed for the same amount in a new draft, accompanied by a resolution requesting the Mayor to take an appeal from the requirement that smoke screens must be placed in the school buildings.

VICTORY LOAN

Newton Committee Making Plans To Go "Over The Top"

A quick, sharp campaign, with the whole city covered by the house to house canvass in the first four days, beginning April 21 is the plan of the Newton Liberty Loan committee for handling the Victory Loan. It is expected that every house will have been visited in that time, for on the Saturday following the field will be thrown open to the Women's committee and the Boy Scouts. This result can be accomplished only by the people co-operating with the canvassers and being prompt in their purchases. "Finish the Job" is the battle cry, which means that every man, woman, and child is to finish his or her job of financing the war, as the boys across seas finished their part of it.

On Tuesday evening last, the Hon. Seward W. Jones, chairman of the Newton Liberty Loan Committee, entertained the local chairman at dinner at the Brae Burn Club. Mrs. Frank H. Stewart, chairman, and Mrs. W. H. Allen, vice-chairman, of the Women's Liberty Loan Committee of Newton, were also present. The principal address was made by Mr. John K. Allen, chairman of the publicity committee of the New England Liberty Loan committee who explained the plan of campaign and the many interesting features which will develop as it progresses.

Next Wednesday evening, at the Newton Club, there is to be a meeting of the workers, and each is expected to be present. In addition to interesting speeches there will be shown a new and very fine film, especially prepared for the War Department and loaned by it to the Treasury for use in connection with the loan. It will depict life and exploits of the American soldier and is said to surpass anything of the kind ever produced.

Next week the Graphic will publish the organizations of both the Newton and the Women's Liberty loan committees for the Victory Loan and some other interesting matter relating to the campaign. Watch the Graphic for news of the campaign each week.

THE NEWTON WOMAN'S CLUB

The Newton Woman's Club held its Guest Day Meeting on Thursday, April 10th, at the Brae Burn Club. A musical program of great merit was given by Mr. Antonio Martone and Miss Sue Andrews, both of whom sang two groups of songs most acceptably. Mr. Martone's fine baritone voice and his skill as a violinist were much enjoyed. Miss Gladys Lott added to the pleasure of the afternoon by her artistic reading of "The Twelve Pound Look" and other selections.

SAILOR BOYS ARE GUESTS

Detail From Agamemnon Entertained at Channing Church

The boys of the transport, "Agamemnon," were given a supper and dance by the Special Aid Society of Newton last night, the supper being at the Channing Church. About 100 were present. Those in charge of the supper were Mrs. E. M. Moore, and Miss Georgia H. Emery, and of the dance were Mrs. William E. Jones, and Miss Ethel Lucy Gilman.

The "Agamemnon" has been the special object of interest to the society for the last year and a half through former Lieut. Commander Bruce R. Ware who was from Newton. During this time, many of the members have been corresponding with the boys, and making them sweaters, mufflers, etc. The boys were, therefore, especially glad of an opportunity to come to Newton.

After the excellent supper, the boys gathered around the piano and sang until time for the dance at the Hunnewell Club. The party last night was the first that has been given to the boys as a group. That they thoroughly enjoyed themselves was evident to all who were present. Many bore testimony, too, that they were a very courteous, manly, group of boys, typical of our American boys everywhere. Mr. William W. Peck, Y. M. C. A. Director, who came with the boys, said that he had found them trustworthy wherever they had been.

NOTICE

The Master Painters' Association of the City of Newton are in receipt of a demand from the Painters' Union 545, which calls for an unreasonable advance in wages beginning April 1st, 1919.

We, the Master Painters of this City, unanimously agree that the present wages paid are sufficient and that due to the unsettled conditions of the country at this time and apparent expectation of the employing public that the future should bring lower prices (and not higher) have absolutely refused to grant their demands and would ask the public to assist us in this worthy purpose.

BOYS ARE HOME

Warm Welcome Given to Newton Companies Who Arrived This Week

Newton had a lively interest in the stirring events of the week, with so many Newton boys returning on the United States transports to Boston. The Mount Vernon, America, Agamemnon, and Mongolia, all brought Newton men, the America bringing Co. C, 101st Infantry which was recruited largely from this city and the Agamemnon bringing Battery B, 101st Field Artillery, made up of Newton and Brookline men.

One of the most modest men aboard the Agamemnon probably was Captain Charles Sinclair Weeks of Battery B, 101st Field Artillery, son of former Senator John W. Weeks. Captain Weeks, after helping to recruit Battery B, went to France as a lieutenant. Asked concerning his promotion, he said that it just came in the "course of events." He was willing to talk about what men in the battery had done, but as for himself, "there was nothing to tell." Captain Sinclair Weeks received his promotion on September 23, at St. Mihiel.

Captain Weeks was met by his father aboard the Agamemnon as the big transport was making her way up the harbor, the former senator going aboard from one of the vessels which went down stream to meet the steamer. After the liner docked he was able to go onto the pier to greet other members of his family.

Battery B was recruited largely from Newton and Brookline, and Captain Weeks said that the casualties totaled sixty-one, including one officer and seven men killed, three who died of disease and fifty wounded. Most of the latter have returned as casualties. Of the 194 original members of the battery, 133 returned with the outfit, he said. These included Harold Long of Arlington, the youngest member of the battery, who was cited for bravery after going out under fire to bring back Patrick Sullivan. Sullivan was so badly wounded that he died on the way to the hospital. He was one of the most popular men in the battery.

R. J. Patterson of Auburndale was another member who received a citation for excellent work as a runner at Chateau-Thierry.

Some others of the Battery B men performed deeds of unusual valor. Among them are Corp. Ralph Burdison of West Newton, who displayed unusual gallantry at Herbeville.

One of the men of whom the battery is proudest and of whom many spoke was Sgt. Frank Chivers of Newton, who was killed at Chateau-Thierry. When the gun was being shelled by an enemy battery he stood up seeing that his men were all under cover, until he was struck. He died the next day.

Capt. Edward Edmunds, Jr., of Co. E, 102nd Infantry, whose home is in Auburndale, came home wearing the Distinguished Service Cross. He earned it by pulling off one of the most daring stunts on record—one that had little of the spectacular about it; performed in a cool, matter-of-fact way, without any of the heedless impetuosity of battle that makes so many men heroes before they realize it.

It happened near Verdun, October 27, when the fighting was heavy and the division was stacked up against tremendous odds. The front line troops had been thinned out dangerously, and it was essential to know exactly what strength he had. A call was sent out for an immediate and exact report of front-line strength.

Edmunds, then a lieutenant, in WAR SERVICE SECRETARY

Lieut. E. A. Sterling has accepted the position of War Service Secretary of the Newton Young Men's Christian Association. His work will be entirely for ex-service men. He will have a desk in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. building on Church and Washington streets where he will be glad to meet any soldiers or sailors. Mr. Sterling will be able to give the latest information on all matters which are of special interest to the returning soldiers and sailors or to the members of their families, such as soldier's insurance, $50 bonus, education for disabled men, etc. He will also endeavor to secure employment for ex-service men, and therefore would welcome any information about positions in Newton and Boston.

Mr. Sterling is well qualified for this position because of previous experience as a Y. M. C. A. Secretary with the 101st Infantry, and the 102nd Machine Gun Battalion at Framingham, and on account of his service as a pilot for the past 17 months with the Royal Air Forces of Canada.

DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture
To Establish One in Newton

Preparation of the soil is our most important garden operation. We are hunting up our garden tools and will put them to work at once in our demonstration home garden.

First, all weeds and rubbish will be raked up and burned as diseases and pests such as the European Corn Borer are likely to be hibernating in the stems. Then an application of stable or barnyard manure which furnishes both plant food and humus will be spread upon the ground at the rate of 3 bushels (one heaping wheelbarrow load) per 100 square feet. This will be forked in deeply and the soil well pulverized.

If our soil were sandy or gravelly we should work in a lot of straw manure. If it were wet or heavy we should improve its texture by mixing in sifted coal ashes. It must be remembered, however, that coal ashes have no value as a fertilizer.

Because most of the soil in this section is inclined to be acid we shall sweeten our garden plot by the application of 10 pounds of ground limestone broadcasted over every 100 square feet and spade it in thoroughly. The limestone not only sweetens the soil but it is an essential element of plant food.

Perhaps many gardeners will think our liberal application of manure and lime is sufficient for proper plant growth but we believe that nearly all home gardeners fail to realize the value and necessity of feeding the plant all that it will need for a healthy, strong development. So after our manure and lime has been thoroughly mixed with the soil we are going to broadcast and dig in just before planting 5 pounds of a complete garden fertilizer to every 100 square feet.

A complete garden fertilizer contains the essential elements of plant food such as nitrogen, phosphate acid and potash. These elements are contained in the fertilizer in a quickly available form. Humus (decayed organic matter) which is supplied by the straw in the manure helps to make this plant food in the fertilizer more available for the plants. We shall save a portion of the fertilizer and apply it in mid-summer to those crops and plants which seem a little inclined to grow slowly.

After the fertilizer is well mixed with the soil we shall take an iron garden rake and prepare a fine seed bed by raking and re-raking the plot until all lumps are pulverized and the soil becomes fine and mellow.

Proper preparation and fertilization of the home garden is half the battle won.

Next week we shall consider our planting problems for our demonstration home garden.

DEATH OF MRS. STANTON

Mrs. Sarah Emma Stanton, the wife of Mr. Louis C. Stanton, died suddenly on Sunday evening at her home on Bacon street, Newton, while sitting in her chair reading. Mrs. Stanton was the daughter of the late Joseph N. Bacon, for many years the president of the old Newton National Bank. Her mother was Sarah A. Woodward of Waban, and a member of one of the oldest families in Newton. Mrs. Stanton was a most gifted singer and studied under Prof. Blodgett at Pittsfield, Mass., and abroad. It was through her interest in music that she first met Mr. Stanton who was professor of music at Saratoga Springs, and later at Carlton College, Minnesota. Mrs. Stanton was 55 years of age and is survived by her husband, two sons, Mr. Harold Stanton of Boston, and Sergt. Malcolm Stanton, U. S. A., and one daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Swan of Missoula, Mont. Judge William F. Bacon of the Newton Police Court is a brother.

Funeral services were held from her home on Tuesday afternoon Rev. H. Grant Person of Eliot Church officiating, and the interment was in the Newton Cemetery.

WELCOME HOME

Considerable progress is being made by the Committee to Welcome home the returning Soldiers, Sailors and Marines. Governor Coolidge and General Edwards have both signified their intention to be present on Saturday, June 7th, the date finally decided upon as the most available for the celebration. Major John C. DeMille of Newton Centre has accepted the position of Chief Marshal for the automobile and militia parade which will be the feature of the morning and the Norumbega Park Company has generously offered the free use of its park for the exercises of the afternoon.

In connection with the celebration the Newton Amateur Opera Association is planning to give two or three performances of their last operetta, "Miss Independence" for the sole benefit of the boys who have returned. These performances will probably be given during the week of June 7th.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Newton, Players' Hall, Washington street, West Newton, Sunday service 10:45 A. M. Sunday School 10:45 A. M. Testimonial meeting Wednesday, 8 P. M. The public is cordially invited to attend the services.

NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL

The date of graduation has been set for Saturday, June 14, at 2:30.

Of the two plays submitted, that written by Robert E. Anderson and Rudolphus Turner has been chosen and will be given in the High School hall, May 16 and 17. The title of the play is "If." Mrs. Mills, Miss Hearsey and Miss Richardson are the coaches. The proceeds will be given to a war memorial fund. Robert Anderson is the director, Sibley Freeman, stage director, and Francis Donovan, business manager.

At the Monday meeting of the Boys' Debating Club Walter Lovejoy was elected president for next year, Spaulding, vice-president and Charles Martin, secretary-treasurer. President Ford announced that at the meeting on April 21 Mayor Childs would address the club and urged all to be present. Turner and Chandler for the Negative defeated Hawkes and Lovejoy for the affirmative on the subject, Resolved that the daylight saving law should be repealed.

Wednesday morning Mr. Eames of the Lowell Textile School addressed the boys of the senior class. Mr. Eames said in part that self-study although not on the high school curriculum was the most important of all studies. The amount of good done by a high school and even a college education is being questioned by many business men. The high school boy should begin to ask himself what he is fitted for at the beginning of his sophomore year and choose a permanent industry and one which offers opportunities for broadening out. All the studies taken in high school prepare one for the Lowell Textile School. Mathematics are essential. Men in the service when asked the value of technical training praise it very highly. The dyestuff industry is just coming to this country and the ways of applying organic chemistry to the textile industry are innumerable.

Mr. Eames showed a very interesting chart which gave graphically the earning powers of variously trained men. The unskilled laborers reached his maximum of earning power at the age of 22, the shop trained man at 26, men trained in trade schools at about 32 and the earning power of men trained in technical schools rose indefinitely.

At a meeting of the student council on Wednesday Merrill Nutting was elected president, Mianese Gulian, vice-president; Steven Palmer, secretary, and Walter Dodge, treasurer of the boys' council and Helen Shelton, Katherine Holmes, vice-president, and Isabelle Walsh, secretary-treasurer of the girls' council.

In a six running practice game with Noble and Greenough on Wednesday, Newton won 7 to 3. Captain Sawyer pitched three innings without allowing a hit or a run. The lineup was Sawyer (Neagle, Blodgett) p., Seavey (Pepper) 1b, Moore (H. Garrity) 2nd b, Richmond s.s., Kerrigan 3rd b, Hayes (Sawyer) 1f., Owen c.f., Gulian r.f. Those who started the game in addition to Ayles and R. Garrity will probably make up the first team.

TWO ALARM FIRE

The building that houses the post office at Newton Lower Falls was badly damaged by fire early Saturday, but no mail matter was lost. The building is of wood, two and one-half stories high and stands on Washington street. It is owned by the postmaster, James A. Early, who also conducts a grocery store there. Other first-floor tenants are S. M. Sears, a druggist, and James Kenney, who has a dry goods store.

The fire started in the rear of the drug store and burned through to the roof, which was destroyed. An assembly hall occupies the entire upper floor and this was ruined, while water damaged the stocks of the stores. Two alarms were given. The damage was estimated at $3000.

FOR WOUNDED SOLDIERS

On the 21st day of each month beginning April 21, at 10 o'clock, an automobile will take to Base Hospital No. 10, (Robert Bent Brigham) at Parker Hill, delicacies for the wounded soldiers.

Contributions of jellies, custards, apple and mince pies, doughnuts, oranges, fresh eggs, (these are especially solicited) and any dainty food suitable for invalids, are requested and may be left at Talbot House, Newtonville, between 9 and 10 A. M., Monday, April 21.

The School Garden Army

Johnny get your hoe, get your hoe, get your hoe,
Plant a turnip row, turnip row, turnip row.

Now your sense, your spade, your rake,
Yes, these tools, you now must take.
While the sun is out, sun is out, sun is out.

See what you're about, you're about, you're about,
Johnny, Uncle Sam will thank you, So will France and Britain, too.

Over here, over here, send the word, send the word of good cheer,
That we boys are working, we girls are working.

The tools are clanking everywhere.
So prepare, say a prayer,
For the boys who are still over there,
Yes, we're working, we'll keep working.

Till the boys are done with 'em over, over there.

—Eleanor Rackliffe.

NEWTON BRANCH SPECIAL AID

The second annual meeting of the Newton Branch Special Aid was held Friday, April 4th, at the Hunnewell Club House.

This proved to be an intensely interesting meeting. The annual reports for the year ending March 31, 1919, showed that 10,864 articles have been made by this branch. These consisted of 5,396 sewn and 5,508 knitted. A permanent work room, under the auspices of the Special Aid, was organized. While war work will continue for a year or two, yet the society feels that there is community work which can be done. A committee for criticism presented all objections possible, such as the effect of the rooms on the work of the churches, the source of funds, etc. The rooms will be opened two days a week, Mondays and Thursdays all day. The work will be for the Newton Hospital, District Nurses Association, Newton Welfare Bureau, Aid Headquarters, Italian War Relief, American Committee for Devastated France, and Woman's Seaman's Friend Society.

COPLEY REPERTORY THEATRE
"The Middleman," Henry Arthur Jones's play which is to be acted by the Henry Jewell Players at the Copley Repertory Theatre next week, is a play that tells an interesting story in a direct manner, and, having a story to tell, and knowing how to tell it, the dramatist, almost involuntarily, creates character. The act in which the catastrophe in his daughter's experience is made known to Blenkarn affords as fine an example of dramatic construction as can be found in the whole wide range of modern English drama—the blending of humor and pathos, comic incident and serious emotion, all tending to a passionate climax, being felicitous to an extraordinary degree.

ENTERTAIN MEN IN SERVICE

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stimpson of Hammond street, Chestnut Hill, opened their home on last Saturday evening to a group of men in the service of the United States Navy, who are stationed at nearby points. Several young ladies were invited to aid in entertaining the sailors and the greater part of the evening was spent by the young people in dancing. Excellent music and refreshments helped to make the affair a most successful one. It was one of a series of social events planned for boys in the service under the auspices of the Home Hospitality Committee of Newton Centre. The sailors were entertained over the week-end at various homes in the village. When the boys signed the guest book it was found fifteen states were represented, practically all outside of New England. The hostesses were Mrs. Harry Stimpson, Mrs. Addison Burnham, Mrs. Everett English, and the young ladies present were: the Misses Elizabeth Carlson, Katherine Carlson, Elizabeth Clark, Priscilla Clark, Helen Gordon, Irene Greenbaum, Cornelia Holmes, Gladys Jones, Elinor Bishop, Eleanor Edwards, Doris Tracey, Mabel Stimpson, Emily Woods.

LIBRARY NOTES

All those who have been following the war will be particularly interested in the new victory map in the Public Library. Here the names of the new states and their probable boundaries are clearly indicated. Teachers of History will find this map of special value.

NEWTON BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

Carpenters District Council, Newton, Mass.

Gentlemen:
At a meeting of the Newton Builders' Association held March 31st with three fifths of the membership present, the question of your demands for $1.00 per hour after June 1st was brought up and freely discussed.

The unanimous opinion was that an increase of over 40 per cent in wages at this time was not warranted by the present conditions of the building business and would have a great influence in retarding the prosperity we are all looking for and need so badly.

We trust you will in the general interest of the building business and all see some way to either leave the wages as they are or very much modify your demands.

It was unanimously voted that we could not accede to your demands as now made.

Yours truly,

Newton Builders' Association,
Per W. B. McCrudden, Secretary.

Total Prizes, $3000

CONDITIONS OF THE COMPETITION

The First and Most Important Object of Competitors in the "Condensations" of the Twenty Popular Novels, aside, of course, from fair treatment of the books, should be to make their articles interesting to the Average Reader. Mere skeleton synopses are not desired. The interest of the reader should be grasped at the outset and maintained. It is not necessary to go into all the details of the plots, or to introduce all the minor characters. The "Atmosphere" and "Spirit" of the story should be reproduced. The "Thrill" that comes to the reader of the originals should be maintained. The resumes should be made so attractive that the reader will desire to read the originals.

Comment and criticism of the novels is allowable. Anecdotes, characteristic remarks, little episodes, brief quotations may all be employed, if deemed advisable.

Condensations should be between 1250 and 1450 words each; that is, about one column of nonpareil type. All competitors should notify Editor, Condensed Novels, Post, Boston, Mass., of their entry into the competition by or before May 1st, stating the novel or novels they desire to condense. If, in the judgment of the Condensed Novel Editor, the novels cited are not available, he will assign others. The object of this condition is to prevent competitors from concentrating on a few of the most popular novels in the list. Writers may send in as many "condensations" as they please to do.

On request printed samples of several condensations that have been accepted will be furnished competitors.

All condensations should be typewritten on one side of the paper.

All condensations, to be considered, must be mailed, fully postpaid, by or before MAY 15th, 1919, addressed plainly to Editor, Condensed Novels, The Post, Boston, Mass.

Payments for the successful manuscripts and for the additional prizes offered will be made as promptly as possible.

Manuscript cannot be returned. Competitors should retain copies in each case.

It is intended that the Boston Post's One Hundred Condensed Novels shall not only be Fascinatingly Interesting, but that they will constitute a Feature of Great Educational Value to Students and Readers Generally.

MANY Notable Writers will Contribute Condensations of Novels especially assigned to them. For instance, Winston Churchill's Three Political Novels will be handled by ex-President Taft and ex-Governors McCall and Walsh.

It will be Well Worth Your While to Follow this Notable Newspaper Feature

EDITORIAL

Those residents of Oak Hill who oppose the expenditure of at least $175,000 for the improvement of the main street of that district are penny wise and pound foolish.

The Mayor's veto of the $25,000 appropriation for fire hazard work in the schoolhouses was more on account of the imperfect form of the order than to its substance. The aldermen have corrected that fault, and by resolution have urged the mayor to take an appeal from the unreasonable orders of the state police requiring fire screens and smoke doors, in buildings already amply protected by sprinkler systems.

Our people are rightly enthusiastic this week on the safe return of so many of our boys after so many months of active service in France. Let us not forget, however, in our own joy, that such an occasion is doubly painful to those whose loved ones will never return. We should pause at least for a moment for a silent prayer in their behalf.

The aldermen have at last seen fit to give our excellent Planning Board an appropriation with which to do some actual constructive work. The functions of the Planning Board ought never to be tied up with the present day activities of the Engineering Department.

The exhibition this week by members of the police department where it took ten shots to kill as large an object as a cow, lends strong support to the recommendation of the mayor that opportunity should be given for rifle practice to members of the police force.

FUNERAL OF MR. SEXTON

Funeral services for Mr. William A. Sexton were held at his late home on Beacon street, Friday afternoon, and were conducted by Rev. E. M. Noyes, pastor of the First Church. The burial was at Forest Hills.

Mr. Sexton died last week Tuesday of pneumonia. He was 50 years old, and a native of Somerville. He was formerly associated with his brother in the firm of I. Sexton & Co., manufacturers of cans. In 1902 he began business for himself, and at the time of his death was senior member of the Sexton Can Company, of Boston, which had a factory at Everett.

Mr. Sexton is survived by his parents who live in Winchester by his widow, Christina N. Sexton, two sons, Alfred M. Sexton, and George E. Sexton, both of Winchester, a sister, Mrs. Robert A. Yerxa of Somerville, and two brothers, Messrs Isaac E. Sexton and George A. Sexton, both of Winchester.

"Gusher's" Day Never Long.

There is a certain class of people with whom the gushing person will get a hearing, but this is merely because that particular class enjoys flattery, an art in which the gusher is particularly skillful. But, taken on the whole, human nature appreciates frankness and sincerity. And these two qualities give to the eye an expression which is not to be overlooked in the seeker after beauty.

LAMP-LIGHT TALES

By PAULINE CARRINGTON BOUVE

If Bobbie had not broken his leg while skating on the ice, the Transcript could never have had the pleasure of presenting these stories to the children who are enjoying them every evening and who can hardly wait for the next one.

POLLY FLINDERS TELLING STORIES

They are going to be printed every day and every one is going to have a picture. Many children have liked them so much that they are cutting them out and pasting them in a scrap book, and who knows, many years from now when they have grown up and have children of their own, they may not read them again? Each story is complete in itself.

The Boston Evening Transcript

is the only paper that will print these LAMP-LIGHT TALES. They are really Transcript Tales for Transcript Children

We are pleased to submit for your approval the first six of these delightful stories, which we have issued in pamphlet form without expense. A postal will bring them to you. Address

SCHOOL NOTES

Stearns School

The Grammar classes of the Stearns School were instructed in seed testing Monday by Miss Sanders, the school garden supervisor. Each class is now experimenting in this test.

The Girl's Club entertained the Mother's Club on Monday evening. Readings and solos with burlesque features were much enjoyed. The program was followed by ice cream and a rising vote of thanks to the hostesses. Dr. H. W. Thayer of Newtonville will be in charge of the Child Welfare Clinic for the next three months. The Clinic hours are from three to four on Monday afternoons.

The full amount has been raised for the support of the little French child, Bernadette Robert of Marbillaud, France. Thirty dollars more has been collected for the support of another orphan.

Tuesday and Thursday afternoons the building is open for instruction in piano and violin, at reduced rates.

Sewing Classes of the Sixth grades are making and dressing rag dolls for the Red Cross to be sent to Belgian children.

Candidates for the Stearns School baseball team were on the playground Tuesday afternoon in large numbers. Many of last year's players appeared and there promises to be some competition in making the team. After a lively practice catching flies and running bases a game was played between the first and second teams.

Peirce School

Wednesday afternoon, March 26th, Mr. Robert P. Trask and Mr. Sweet talked to the children who are going to belong to the canning, gardening, pig or poultry clubs of the Peirce School. It was a business meeting and Mr. Trask read the constitution for the achievement clubs of Middlesex county which consist of nine articles.

The number of children wishing to join the club is so large that it will be impossible to have them all meet at the same time. The canning and gardening clubs will meet together and the pig and poultry clubs will meet together. A nominating committee was elected for both of the clubs. Those elected were as follows: Canning and Gardening Club—Leora H. Bacon, chairman, Alice Grant, Charles Lucas.

Pig and Poultry Club—Joseph Green, chairman, James Cronin, Benjamin Lewis.

The officers to be nominated are President, Vice President, Secretary-Treasurer, Librarian and Board of Directors. All will be elected by ballot at the annual meeting.

A club pin will be given to the members when they finish their work. It is a bronze four-leaved clover with the letter "H" on each leaf. The motto of the club is "To Make the Best Better."

Another Paradox.

"I have noticed in my little journeys from bedtime to bedtime," said the almost philosopher, "that the fellow who prides himself on being blunt in his speech can ask some very pointed questions."

BOYS ARE HOME

broad daylight and under terrific machine-gun fire, crawled from shell hole to shell hole, in full view of the Germans, counted his men, and sent his report back to the regimental commander. It was as good a piece of work as had been performed by any man of the outfit.

But Edmunds' story of the affair runs this way: "Well, I had to get a report of the number of men in our line. I proceeded to do it; and I got the D. S. C. because the Boche were such bad shots they never potted me."

A warm welcome was given to Father William J. Farrell of West Newton, Chaplain of the 103d Regiment, who arrived on the Mongolia yesterday morning.

Mechanic William McDonald, Corp. Martin Manning and private William J. Fleming, three chums, were among the soldiers on the Agamemnon, and the first thing they saw as the ship pulled into the harbor was a big sign prepared by the father of young McDonald with the words, "Welcome Mattie, Bill and Buster," the three nicknames by which the boys are best known to their friends. It pleased the three lads more than any other feature of the big welcome accorded the incoming troops.

One of the most impressive sights in the welcoming of the Yankee Division was the Mothers' Boat, the U. S. S. Mayflower, which was chartered by the Women's Auxiliary of the 101st U. S. Field Artillery. Starting promptly at two o'clock, it led the flotilla of about twenty navy and city official boats. Finally the giant transport "Agamemnon" was sighted out of the fog. This was the signal for wild cheers, and everybody strained her eyes until the Mayflower came alongside, when each mother saw her own son for the first time in nineteen months.

Many Newton mothers, fathers, sisters and sweethearts were aboard to welcome Battery B, also many A Battery men. In fact, Newton and Brookline seemed to predominate.

Finally, after an hour spent in the small boats circling the Agamemnon, the Agamemnon weighed anchor and started up the harbor with all the whistles in the harbor craft wide open and the small boats as convoy.

The mothers present from Newton were Mrs. John A. Lowell, Chestnut Hill, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Stewart, Mrs. Anna Barry, Mrs. Wm. Nellie, Mrs. T. F. Sheridan, Mrs. John I. Young, Mrs. M. Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Trefrey, Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Bond, and Dr. and Mrs. Gleason.

Tests Straw.

Experiments have recently been carried out in two Scottish mills for the purpose of determining the yield and of testing the utility of straw pulp. Both wheat and oat straw were tested, and fairly satisfactory results were obtained. A yield of pulp was obtained from oat straw equal to 35 per cent of the weight of bone-dry straw. There is said to be a surplus production of 420,000 tons of straw in Scotland alone.

A WILD WEST SHOW

Residents of the upper part of Waverley avenue, Newton, had an exciting and most unusual experience last Saturday afternoon. A cow, which had run away from Brighton a few days previous, wandered into the avenue and acted so viciously that all who approached her, stopped at a safe distance. Word was sent the police and two officers appeared in a hurry. The cow by this time had gone into the field near Montrose street and when the policemen attempted to come near, her demeanor was so threatening that the bluecoat, like "Zacchaeus he, did climb a tree." He afterwards stated modestly that this action was part of a Sherlock Holmes scheme to get the animal near enough so he could shoot it. The only flaw in this argument was the fact that in his haste he dropped the revolver on the ground. However, he soon cautiously descended and the policemen then departed in search of a rifle. On their return it took six shots from a revolver and four from the rifle to kill the cow. Nearby residents, in the meantime, entering vigorous protests against "cruelty to animals."

IN MEMORY OF MRS. STEVENSON

As a memorial to Mrs. Katharine Lent Stevenson, for twenty years president of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union, that organization has decided to establish a scholarship at Simmons College to be used by some young woman who is planning to devote herself to some form of public service in line with the work so many years carried on by Mrs. Stevenson. Herself a college bred woman she was always an advocate of proper training for women. Only the action of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which she was a life-long member, kept her from active service as a minister of the church, for which she was fitted by a course at the Boston University School of Theology. That training was of great value to her in her years of active service in the temperance field and it is fitting that such a memorial of her should be made.

May 8, her birthday anniversary, has been set as the time when the gifts for this purpose are to be reported at a meeting of the state headquarters of the W. C. T. U., 541 Massachusetts avenue, Boston. It is hoped that every member of the organization will make some contribution to this fund and others of her friends will doubtless also have a share in the memorial.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

Renewing the fountains at their source might be called the keynote of the Presidents' Conference at Sharon on Tuesday. "Streams must be continually flowing in, if streams are to be flowing out," was the message of Mrs. Gurney in opening the conference. As a means of renewing life at its source the claims of music, literature and art were presented by members of their respective departments. Keep on singing, have a musical program that is really educational and not merely a pleasing addition to the afternoon's program was the message from that department. The necessity of a re-valuation of literature now that the war is over, the reading of literature that is relaxing, the recognition of the vital part books play in life were suggestions made by the acting chairman of the Literature department. Applying art to our daily lives, in the clothes we wear, in the furnishing of our homes, in the decorating of our cities and towns, instead of confining art work to the study of the old masters, in fact, making it a live up-to-date subject with a vital connection with our lives was the essence of the message from that department.

Amidst the strain and stress of problems of reconstruction, and the general unrest of the times, the cultural side has been and is still in great danger of being overlooked. Yet it must not be forgotten that the stream rises only as high as its source and unless we feed from the top there can be no stream to flow. Program committees will do well to bear these facts in mind as they plan their work for next year, for never in the history of women's clubs will that which is inspirational be needed so much as it will be in the coming days.

State Federation

June 3, 4 and 5 are the dates set for the annual meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs and the place, South Hadley, by invitation of Mount Holyoke College. If one hundred and twenty-five club women go to Boston, it will be possible to secure a special train which will run directly through to Holyoke without change at Springfield. All those who plan to go by train will kindly notify Mrs. William E. Rowe, 41 Marion street, Wollaston, Mass., as soon as possible.

Tuesday, April 15, 2 P. M. Industrial and Social Conditions Conference at Norwood. Speakers: Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. George T. Rice, Miss Mary C. Wiggins, Mr. John P. Meade. Train leaves South station, Boston, at 12.10.

Tuesday, April 29th. A joint conference of the Home Economics and Conservation departments at Horticultural Hall, Boston. Mrs. John D. Sherman, chairman of the General Federation department of Conservation, will be among the speakers. Notice is given thus early that those interested may save the day. A detailed program will be given in a subsequent issue.

Newton Federation

Tuesday, May 6th is the day club women of Newton should save for the annual meeting of the Newton Federation. The morning session as in the past will be devoted to business, including reports of officers and committees and from the clubs, and the election of officers. The afternoon will be given up to a program of a lighter nature, which promises to be very attractive. Details later.

About three hundred were present at the Guest Night of the Newton Upper Falls Woman's Club on Monday evening at the Auditorium Theatre. Capt. Henry D. Cornerais was the principal speaker. Mr. Lucius Smith of Waltham told of the War Camp Community Service and Mr. Alfred Hallam led community singing.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Miss Marion Keep, Editor

Be sparing in the use of meats, as these are without question the most expensive of the staple foods in proportion to their food value. Attractive and nourishing foods may be prepared which, as far as food value is concerned contain all the necessary elements for the balanced diet. If you are not already doing so, try to avoid serving meat more than once a day.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The first melodrama of the world war! Not one of the milk-soppy dramas of today, dealing with a phase of the war, but a real blood-red melodrama of the old school, with its villain, its hero, its heroine, its fascinating plot and counter-plot, its gun play, its spectacular big scenes, and melodramatic climaxes! Such is "Seven Days' Leave" which opens at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, next Monday, April 14th. In a different form this thrilling melodrama played at the same theatre a year ago. But those who go to see the gripping drama today will see practically a new play. For the English production has been revamped and made into the first great melodrama of the world war. It has been Americanized, and a spectacular scene on the gun deck of a United States cruiser in battle action is one of its features.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—The first melodrama of the world war! Not one of the milk-soppy dramas of today, dealing with a phase of the war, but a real blood-red melodrama of the old school, with its villain, its hero, its heroine, its fascinating plot and counter-plot, its gun play, its spectacular big scenes, and melodramatic climaxes! Such is "Seven Days' Leave" which opens at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, next Monday, April 14th. In a different form this thrilling melodrama played at the same theatre a year ago. But those who go to see the gripping drama today will see practically a new play. For the English production has been revamped and made into the first great melodrama of the world war. It has been Americanized, and a spectacular scene on the gun deck of a United States cruiser in battle action is one of its features.

EXPERIENCES OVERSEAS

It was almost two years ago, May 11th, 1917, that Margaret Leavitt and Dorothy Cunningham sailed on the Saxonia with a unit of 78 nurses from the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital to do their "bit" in the great world war. They were the second unit sent overseas. They sailed directly to England, but after a brief stay there, were taken to Camiers in France where they took over a British hospital of 2,000 beds. It was just after the battle of Vimy Ridge and the wounded were being brought in by the hundreds. One nurse frequently had to take care of from 60 to 100 men. The British "Tommies" called the nurses "sisters." One of the badly wounded of the boys looking up into the nurse's face said, "Now I know why they all call you 'sisters.' It is because you are like sisters to us." When Americans came to take over a part of the British line Miss Leavitt frequently had some of our boys in her care, especially those of the 27th, 37th, and 96th.

Camiers was so near the front that it was bombarded frequently from the air. When off duty the nurses had dugouts to which they would go when the "alert" sounded, but the night nurse stuck to her post, no matter what happened. Once, about midnight, Miss Leavitt saw a bomb strike the admittance tent of the hospital. Fortunately not many were in the tent at the time so the casualties were slight.

From Camiers Miss Leavitt and Miss Cunningham were sent to the base hospital at Boulogne. This was an immense structure that had formerly been a casino. Because of its position on the coast, it was constantly under fire. The Germans at that time were trying to cut the army of the allies in two, and drive part of the army into the Channel. The glass in the windows of the former casino were frequently shattered by the firing. Often the floors as well as the beds of the wards were full, because a bad storm or rough weather made it impossible for the wounded destined for "Blighty" to be taken across. The spirit of the soldiers under these trying circumstances could not have been finer according to Miss Leavitt's testimony. When unable to sleep they would laugh and joke with one another. "What you care!" was the philosophical remark of one young Tommy. "It can't last forever, you know." The bombarding of the hospital and the coast continued until within a week of the armistice.

When the armistice was signed, the nurses were given a well earned vacation and had an opportunity of seeing Paris, parts of Brittany, and even Nice and Monte Carlo. They were also taken for a visit to the battle field itself. The war-torn fields had not yet been made over, and hundreds of helmets, and other accoutrements of war were scattered over the fields beside more horrible sights. In Lille all the brass had been stripped from the doors. The people, according to Miss Leavitt, seemed many of them curiously indifferent to the course of the war.

Among the trophies which Miss Leavitt brought back was a helmet of one of the Prussian Guard. It bore this inscription: "Gott fur Koenig unt Vaterland."

When the usual trophy was a paper which had been dropped from an aeroplane somewhere in the Somme Valley, picked up by an American soldier and given by him to Miss Leavitt. It shows the effort on the part of the German high command to corrupt the French army. It was written in French as follows:

Francis: Your aviators have killed a great number of civilians, men, women, and children in these last weeks behind our lines. Then followed a list of places. The German commander at first hesitated to believe that the French Government was capable of such barbaric acts which have nothing in common with the conduct of war. By accident we have learned of these crimes. They have been done by the express order of your government. It is your President himself who has suggested this order, and he is not ashamed to have lent an ear to the base instigations of the English.

The English know that the French people have made many sacrifices of blood. That is why it is necessary to find a way to arouse anger and hatred against the Germans.

President Poincare is a slave of England.

In view of the terrible atrocities committed by the Germans in France and Belgium, one wonders how they could for a moment have expected the French to believe in the astonishment of the German commander at acts (wholly unproved on the part of the French), which were an almost daily occurrence in German armies.

Miss Leavitt and Miss Cunningham have witnessed the stress of the work in which they have been engaged for 18 months, remarkably well, and are both glad of having been given the opportunity of helping Uncle Sam.

WHO IS RIGHT?

"Each article," says President Wilson, "was passed only after the most careful examination by each member of the committee."

"It is," says President Lowell, "very badly drawn. It is badly drafted. It is so obscure that the meaning is often inaccurately expressed and sometimes doubtful."

"There is," says President Wilson, "good and sufficient reason for the phraseology and substance of each article."

"It has," says President Lowell, "not been thought out. It is very easily misunderstood."

HOW CAN YOU TELL YOUR FAVORITE TOBACCO?

As Plain as the Nose on Your Face—Just Smell It

Smokers do not have to put tobacco in their pipes to find out if they like it. They can just rub the tobacco between the palms of their hands and smell it. The nose is an infallible guide to smoking enjoyment.

All smoking tobaccos employ some flavoring "to improve the flavor and burning qualities of the leaves," to quote the Encyclopedia Britannica. Naturally, there is considerable difference in the kind of flavorings used, and the nose quickly detects this difference. TUXEDO Tobacco uses the purest, most wholesome, and delicious of all flavorings—chocolate. And the almost universal liking for chocolate in a great measure explains the widespread popularity of TUXEDO Tobacco.

Carefully aged, old Burley tobacco, plus a dash of pure chocolate, gives TUXEDO Tobacco a pure fragrance your nose can quickly distinguish from any other tobacco. Try it and see.

What "Slow" Accounts Mean

"SLOW" ACCOUNTS mean something more than the mere matter of delay in receiving payment of bills.

THEY MEAN DUPLICATION OF EFFORT, the maintenance of records and additional officework that would be unnecessary if such accounts were paid within the reasonable specified time.

BUT MOST OF ALL they mean that effort which might be devoted to necessary tasks essential to the comfort, convenience and efficiency that you derive from your telephone service, is wasted on what should be unnecessary tasks.

BOTTLED HEALTH

Nobscot Spring Water is so pure and soft that to drink it is like drinking bottled health.

Analysis shows residue on evaporation only 3.8 parts per 100,000, and rating for hardness only 1.7 parts per 100,000. That's why Nobscot means better digestion, less rheumatism, for those who drink it.

MR. WHITTEMORE DEAD

Mr. John Q. A. Whittemore, a member of the Whittemore Brothers Corporation of Cambridge, manufacturers of shoe polishes, died on Sunday night at his home at 2 Washington street, Newton. He was one of the wealthiest men of Newton and he was born in St. Johnsbury, Vt., seventy-one years ago. His parents moved to North Bridgewater, afterward Brockton, when he was a child and as a boy he helped his father in the manufacture of shoe blacking. At the age of twenty he started in business with his brother in a factory on Albany street. Afterward the business was removed to Cambridge.

Mr. Whittemore's first wife, who was Mary Thayer of North Easton, died nineteen years ago, survived by two daughters, Mrs. Walter C. Possels of Brookline and Mrs. Benson E. Sager of Cleveland, O. In 1904 he married Charlotte E. Bradford, who survives him, together with a son, Bradford Adams Whittemore. Mr. Whittemore held membership in the Algonquin, Brae-Burn, the Country, the Hunnewell, the Old Colony, and Beverly Yacht clubs, as well as the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Clergymen of two denominations conducted the funeral services on Wednesday afternoon in his late home. The clergyman was Rev. John Goddard, pastor of the Church of the New Jerusalem at Newtonville, and Rev. Laurens MacLure, S. T. D., rector of Grace Church at Newton. Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester. The honorary pall bearers, all old employees of the Whittemore Corporation were Messrs. Frank C. Thayer of Dorchester, Walter C. Possels of Brookline, Dudley Diggs of Newton, Louis Hannum of Watertown, Robert Capon of Newton Centre, and Joseph Emery of Cambridge.

THE LATE J. Q. A. WHITTEMORE

meeting of the Waban Woman's Club was held at the Union Church. The forenoon was devoted to Red Cross refugee sewing, and at one o'clock a delicious luncheon was served.

The president, Mrs. Susan D. Arnold, called the business meeting to order at 2.30 o'clock. Mrs. Wellman made an appeal for more new members for Mothers' Rest of Newton Centre, in order that they may have more money to support their home at Needham Heights. Reports were read and various notices given. Following the reading of the yearly reports, the new officers were elected as follows:

President—Mrs. Susan D. Arnold. Vice Pres.—Mrs. Esther S. Davis. Recording Sec.—Mrs. Elizabeth B. Rane.

Corresponding Sec.—Mrs. Katherine B. Haddock. Treasurer—Mrs. Emily S. Tilton. New Director—Mrs. Hannah R. Street.

Chairman Entertainment Committee—Miss Jessie G. Gould. Nominating Committee—Mrs. Marie Chandler, Mrs. Annie T. Hill, Mrs. Ruth Bourne.

The club voted to accept the recommendation of the Executive Board that various sums of money be given to the Consumers' League, West Newton Music School, Newton Hospital, Newton Welfare Bureau, and the May Alden Ward Scholarship Fund.

A general discussion followed regarding Club policy and program for next year.

The club has just finished a very successful year.

The Woman's Club of Newton Highlands presented "Our Mutual Friend" at the Players' Hall, West Newton, on Tuesday afternoon to a large and enthusiastic audience. All details were finely carried out and all the parts were so well taken that it is difficult to discriminate. Miss Helen Allen's presentation of "Bella Wiffer" deserves special mention. The following comprised the cast: Mrs. A. H. Norton, Mrs. C. A. Thompson, Mrs. E. G. Haggood, Miss Grace Kimble, Mrs. C. W. Nichols, Mrs. James Kingman, Miss Emily Talbot, Miss Carol Tabor, Mrs. J. E. Rayner, Mrs. J. W. Allen, Miss Marian Dorr, Mrs. Donald McKay, Mrs. A. L. Pratt, Mrs. C. W. Hawkes, Mrs. H. H. Skelton, Miss Mary A. Newhall, Mrs. Robert Chapin, Miss Helen S. Weston Allen, Stage managers, Mrs. C. H. Thompson, Mrs. A. H. Norton. Costumes, Mrs. E. J. Savage, Mrs. E. S. Drowne. Properties, Miss Gladys M. Bigelow, Mrs. Drowne. Make-up, Miss Kenny, Mrs. R. A. Hubbard.

On April 8 the Auburndale Woman's Club celebrated its fifth birthday in the Methodist Church. Mrs. Chas. A. Brown, the first president of the club, was chairman of the afternoon. The program opened with a piano solo by Mrs. Walter S. Hayward. Mrs. Brown then told of the beginnings of the club, how the founders planned its organization, fearful that it might not meet the need in our town; and how it was enthusiastically received by the women of Auburndale.

Mr. Ralph Brown, who has had charge of the singing in the camps of the Northeastern Division, told of his work. The first American troops to land in France were called "the silent army." The other soldiers, including the enemy, had had musical training. At Gen. Pershing's request, singing was started in our camps, to uplift the general morale, and to increase our soldiers' hatred of the Hun. Mr. Brown sang a number of the army songs, and directed singing by the audience, to illustrate the effects of various types of songs. After the program a reception and tea were enjoyed in the Parish House.

Mrs. Chas. A. Brown, Mrs. M. E. Herron, Mrs. J. E. Draper, Mrs. A. W. Lane, and Miss Louise Peloubet, the founders of the club, received.

OPPOSE DEDHAM STREET

The board takes the ground that as all these buildings have been equipped with fire sprinklers the screens are an unreasonable requirement and by blocking up the corridors are a menace to egress in case of fire.

Hearings were assigned on sewer construction off Linwood avenue, in Eliot avenue, on laying curbing on Cook street, and on widening and establishing a building line on Walnut street, Newtonville.

An amendment to the regulations authorizing an increase in rates of fares for depot carriages and taxis from 25 to 50 cents was recommended in order that other fares in the schedule might be also revised.

Alderman Forknall questioned the matter of a new school at Waban and Alderman Angier said that the present conditions were crowded, that the building was 25 years old at least and something must be done at once.

Alderman Hollis criticized the request of the Comptroller for $200 for temporary clerk hire, saying that if the former bookkeeper had been granted the increase requested, there would be no need for this appropriation. He was the only alderman to vote against the order.

The matter of $1500 for the Planning Board was discussed by Alderman Forknall who said that the Public Works Committee had been trying to work out a satisfactory ordinance which would tie the Board more closely to the city departments. He thought the Board was "touchy" on the fact that they could not be trusted with an appropriation. Alderman Cook was the only man to vote against this appropriation.

The following jurors for service at Cambridge Superior Court were drawn by Alderman Whidden—Alonso A. Cole, Woodcliff road, George E. Terio, Faxon street, Wilbur E. Trussell, Lotthrop street, and George Angier, Ruthven road.

Alderman Nichols called attention to pending regulations of the Fire Prevention Commissioner relative to garages which he said would require 1000 public hearings before the Board of aldermen and the City Solicitor was requested to oppose such a requirement.

GARDEN CITY ASSOCIATES

The Garden City Associates is the name of a newly formed organization composed of twenty-five prominent business men of the "Garden City." The purpose of this Association is to buy, sell, rent, care for and develop real estate.

Realizing the necessity of such an organization to further develop this beautiful city of Newton, these men, all residents and representing the different sections, bid fair to succeed.

Already three or four propositions have been viewed, and it will not be surprising if a development of great magnitude will be started shortly.

The President of the organization is Mr. M. E. Beardsley.

LAST STUDY RECITAL

The fourth and last of Miss Fyffe's Study-Recitals will be given on April 24th at the house of Mrs. John W. Carter, Otis street, West Newton, and not at Mrs. Sumner Robinson's, as announced. Please notice the date, as well as the place.

D. R. MEETING

The Daughters of the Revolution met Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Henry S. Jenkins, 33 Orient avenue, Newton Centre. The hostesses were Mrs. Ada Davidson, Mrs. Samuel Eaton, Mrs. C. A. Davis, and Mrs. Charles Ensign.

In front of the house was a flag made by the mother-in-law of Mrs. Jenkins by hand out of nun's veiling there being no bunting at the beginning of the Civil War. This flag had been displayed on the occasion of every Northern victory.

Mrs. Jenkins told an interesting experience of her great-grandfather who was employed in building the house near Schenectady, New York, and by the Governor of New York in colonial times, and now as a museum. While engaged in working upon it, he and a Dutchman were surrounded by hostile Indians, made to walk about 70 miles and kept several weeks for ransom. On one occasion their captors forgot themselves in a drunken debauch, and the two white men taking advantage of their condition managed to make their escape.

Mr. Clair T. Leonard, son of the regent of the chapter, Mrs. Edwin Leonard, played for the society with much feeling and expression.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. John Adams Lowe of the State Library Commission. He told most entertainingly of the work of the Library at Camp Devens, and of what it meant to the boys to have a home-like spot in which to read and study. He said that the curtains which added materially to the homelike appearance of the place were made in Newton. He told some amusing incidents of the use of the Library. Among them was that of a newly-wed recruit who called for "Evangeline" and "Pollyanna Grown-Up." Upon being questioned as to why he wished these two books, it developed that he was trying to acquire a vocabulary in which to carry on his matrimonial correspondence. Funny, too, were his experiences with the colored men who could neither read nor write. He told of how much had been done for these men through pictures and maps.

Mr. Howe also read feelingly those selections which appealed most to the boys. Among these was Allen Sieger's "I have a Rendezvous with Death." He said that there was a real demand for serious books, for study books, technical books, and books of poetry which expressed the ideals for which the men were fighting. He asked the members of the chapter and their friends not to be weary in well doing, but to continue to send books, as the need both here and in Europe was urgent.

With Paris as a distribution center, he said, an effort was being made to furnish the army of occupation with all of the books for which they were calling.

STRIKE AT DEADLOCK

No Change in Painters' Trouble, and Work Nearly Stopped

No change from last week was reported in the painters' strike situation. The work of painting in this city has practically stopped. The bosses of some shops are trying to do a little work, and a very few non-union painters are at it. A number have found work in other cities.

Neither side has made any move during the week. The master painters express themselves as favorable to arbitration if a reasonable proposition was made. But no sign that the painters would consent to arbitrate has as yet appeared. The master painters have a meeting called for tomorrow when the situation will be further discussed.

THE BIRD CLUB

The Newton Highlands Bird Club walked in the Oak Hill district on Tuesday morning, returning with a list of twenty-one species and several hundred individuals. It was emphatically "sparrow day" for besides the song sparrows everywhere in evidence, fox, tree and vesper sparrows were also seen and were singing, a pair of savannas were found and one rare Henslow obligingly allowed the class to approach within ten feet of the rock where he posed for full and free inspection. A pair of chickadees were surprised at their house-building, both busily excavating a birch stump and carrying the debris in their bills for some distance from the tree, and a goldfinch was seen in the act of changing clothes, plainly pulling the loose feathers from his breast and letting them float away on the air. Other new birds for the season were kingfisher and tree swallow; the balance of the list follows: crows, robins, bluebirds, grackles, redwings, meadow larks, dickers, blue jays, cow birds, juncos, and white-breasted nuthatch.

AMBULANCE MEN BACK

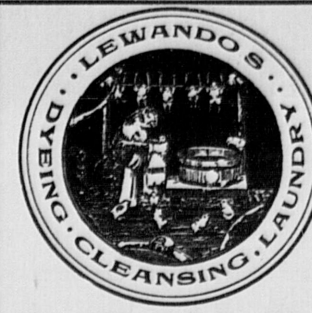

Mr. Richard Westwood of Richardson street, and Mr. Clarence H. Clapp of the same address, have returned from France. Mr. Westwood was with the American Ambulance serving with the French Army for 22 months, and Mr. Clapp with the same organization for 15 months. They were kept very busy transporting wounded men from the trenches. They have been with the army of occupation in Germany.

Mr. Westwood is the son of Mr. Frank G. Westwood and he was a member of the Junior Class at Columbia University. He was wounded in 1917 and received the French Croix de Guerre. Mr. Clapp is connected with the Newton and Watertown Gas Co., and returns to his work next week.

LA SELL

Saturday night the girls from the State of Maine entertained. Saturday night also the special class entertained the seniors at the casino. On Thursday at 3.30 P. M. the Woodland Park School gave a pop concert in order to get money for a school flag. Dr. F. Sprague sang, and there was a reader.

At vespers next Sunday the speaker will be Mr. Franklin W. Ganse, a well-known speaker on Y. M. C. A. work.

The minister Rev. Newton A. Merritt, Jr., will preach. This will be the last of the series of nine services which have proven most popular and inspiring. The series has further shown that the right kind of Church services Sunday evenings are needed and that Church sympathizers will attend for the attendance has been very large despite the fact that a majority of the evenings have been most unpleasant. Music will play an important part in this service as it has in the others, the congregational singing being led by a large chorus choir and the church orchestra also there will be several selections by the Bay State Male Quartette.

Translated Into English.

All books of the Old Testament apocrypha, 14 in number, have been translated into English, and are included as apocryphal books in some editions of the Bible. They were formerly printed under a distinctive heading between the Old and the New Testaments, and in that form can still be found in many old family Bibles. They are always included in the so-called Septuagint, a version of the Bible used by the Greek church.

Prevents Accidental Poisoning.

To prevent poison being used in mistake for medicine an inventor has patented a bottle with the neck at one side and so formed that its contents cannot be poured out without careful manipulation.

Sang Praises of Heroes.

NEWTON'S QUOTA OF VICTORY LOAN IS $4,319,000

Local Committee Has Plans Well Matured For Drive to Begin on April 21. War Tank To Be Here on Tuesday.

Newton's quota for the fifth or Victory liberty loan has been set at $4,319,000. This is less than half the amount actually subscribed in this city to the fourth loan.

It is expected that the city, in line with its record on the other loans, will not only take its quota but run far beyond. This time each village will be given a quota; these amounts will be announced later. The first village to get its quota will be the first to fly an honor flag, it being proposed that such a flag shall be awarded to each village as it reaches its quota.

Twenty-one captured German helmets have been given to Newton to be used as prizes for the best work done by canvassers for the loan. Probably two will be awarded in each village, one for the largest number of subscribers and the other for the largest total amount written by any one solicitor. These helmets will soon be on exhibition in the several villages.

At Wednesday evening's meeting of the loan workers at the Central church in Newtonville there was a large attendance in spite of the bad weather. Chairman Seward Jones of the Newton committee presided and among those who spoke were Mr. Phinny Jewell, a well known Boston banker, Secretary F. L. Richardson and Mr. M. F. Gulesian. Everything was ready for the film which the Treasury Department has had prepared for the Victory Loan but for some unexplained reason it did not arrive. It is expected however to be surely on hand for the exhibition to the Boy Scouts next Tuesday evening.

A War Tank in Newton

A real war tank, of the Whippet variety, with its war camouflage all over it, will make a journey through Newton next Tuesday afternoon. It will be accompanied by Boy Scout buglers and a stop of ten minutes will be made in each village. Then short talks will be given by two soldiers of the real fighting kind; Sergeant George Edward Wilson, who has been in service in the Spanish war, Philippines, Cuba, Mexico and France; and Private C. B. Cosgrove of Co. (of the 101st regiment of Infantry, seventeen months overseas. The route of the tank, with time of arrival at each village follows:

Start, Chestnut Hill, corner of Beacon and Hammond streets, 1 P. M.; on Hammond street to Chestnut Hill Station B. & A. R. R. at 1.07.
On Hammond street to Commonwealth avenue, on Commonwealth ave. to Newton Centre Square at 1.43.

Newton's Organization

The Newton Liberty Loan Committee for the fifth or Victory loan is headed, as has been the case in the other loans, by the Hon. Seward W. Jones, with Frank L. Richardson as secretary and H. H. Bemis completing the executive committee. Other members of the grand committee, in addition to the village chairmen named below, are Mrs. Frank H. Stewart, James A. Stafford and Henry Whitmore.

OPPOSE MOVING PICTURES

Old Fashioned Town Meeting at Newton Centre Has Interesting Discussion

Newton Centre had an old-fashioned town meeting last week Thursday evening at which about four hundred citizens considered the proposal to allow a moving picture show to be installed in Bray hall, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights.

Mr. L. F. Hallett of Westbourne road has had the matter under consideration for several months and a petition has been in circulation throughout the village for some time and had received the endorsement of many of the best people in the place. Last week Sunday the matter was mentioned in the various churches and the following Monday evening was discussed and almost unanimously disapproved by the Men's Club of the First Church. Officers of the Newton Centre Improvement Society were approached and they called the public meeting held on Thursday night in the Mason school hall.

Dr. George L. West, president of the Improvement Society, presided and stated that each side of the case would be given thirty minutes with all speeches strictly limited to five minutes each, and an opportunity for rebuttal would be granted after the first hour of debate.

Mr. A. E. Alvord was the first speaker and stated the details of the proposed lease to Mr. Hallett. He was followed by Mr. Hallett, who stated how he intended to run the show, using only high class pictures, refusing to admit children under 14 years unless accompanied by their parents and other details in connection with the enterprise. Mr. Henry J. Ide said that moving pictures could be made to depict the highest and loftiest sentiments, as well as the lowest and most vulgar. He believed that pictures should be between the two extremes.

There was strong and vigorous opposition in which Mr. Samuel B. Paul, master of the Mason school, Col. E. H. Haskell, Rev. Dr. Edward M. Noyes and Rev. Fr. Curtin and Rev. Fr. Haney took part. Col. Haskell and the chairman had quite a controversy, because the Colonel insisted on having more money in which to read an extract from a paper bearing on the matter. He was ruled out, however, by Dr. West and Mr. C. Peter Clark came to the rescue and read the article Col. Haskell intended to read.

In the rebuttal, Rev. Oscar B. Hawes of the Unitarian church made a strong plea for the pictures. Instancing the interest shown in some moving pictures recently shown in his church. It was brought out that some of the young people of the village thought the church pictures lacked "pep." Mr. George C. Ewing called attention to a rather vigorous fashion to the great dangers which might result from having young people together in a darkened room, to which Mr. Ralph B. Emery suggested that Mr. Ewing had better visit the Newton Centre playground and water park.

The suggestion was made that the

The Master Painters' Association of the City of Newton are in receipt of a demand from the Painters' Union 545, which calls for an unreasonable advance in wages beginning April 1st, 1919.

We, the Master Painters of this City, unanimously agree that the present wages paid are sufficient and that due to the unsettled conditions of the country at this time and apparent expectation of the employing public that the future should bring lower prices (and not higher) have absolutely refused to grant their demands and would ask the public to assist us in this worthy purpose.

STRAIGHT FROM GERMANY
An advertisement originated and produced for the Victory Liberty Loan by members of the American Expeditionary Force.

For some of us
the war will never be over

MAYBE you'll be going to the country in a few weeks to see the green of the new leaves, and maybe, too, you've got tickets for a corking show tonight, where there will be lights and colors and gay costumes and a happy crowd.

Well—perhaps the war is over for you.

But for some of us—
Can YOU rest or work or play or live until you have finished the work we started—before the light went out?

See it through! It's a big American job. Unless you finish it up in the old American way the battles we fought over here will have been won in vain.

$90,000 IN CONTRIBUTIONS

With a total subscription of $90,000 for five years, the Newton Centre Methodist Episcopal Church has gone away "over the top" in its campaign for the Centenary and other benevolences, and the local budget for current expenses.

Besides this amount, a friend has presented the church with a new $10,000 pipe organ to be installed in the near future.

The Centenary quota for the church is $38,405 for the five-year period. Under the leadership of the pastor, Rev. James E. Wagner, D.D., the local council, Minute Men and Sunday School, this financial victory was accomplished. The whole sum was provided for by 166 subscribers. As a result of the Stewardship campaign, a large number of tithing stewards were enrolled, including 23 of the 31 members of the official board of the church.

SOLDIERS' EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Mayor Childs and the Newton Board of Trade have co-operated in the appointment of a committee consisting of Mr. H. W. Orr, chairman, J. B. Jamieson, E. P. Saltonstall, Alfred MacDonald, and Harold Moore, to find employment for the returning soldiers, sailors, and marines.

The committee has opened offices in the former quarters of the Public Safety Committee in the old Second Church at West Newton, and have appointed Mr. L. W. Powers, formerly in charge of the U. S. Employment office at Waltham, as their executive officer. Mr. Powers' duties are to find jobs for men returning from war service, who for any reason do not go back to their old work. All men of this classification are invited to call at the office on any afternoon and register. Every employer of labor is earnestly requested to keep the office informed of any position they may have open. The telephone is West 1230.

Stoddard of the Stearns School; vice president, Elizabeth M. Eaton of the Technical High School; secretary-treasurer, Marguerite W. Greene of the Hyde School.

CENTRAL SQUARE THEATRE CAMBRIDGE

Five big vaudeville acts head the all-star program at Gordon's Central Square Theatre, Cambridge next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Dorothy Gish, who made herself famous in the "Birth of a Nation" is here in her strong impression role once more in Peppy Polly.

DeWitt Burns—Torrence in the "Awakening of the Toys," a very pleasing act.
Les Morchants, singing and dancing.

Charles Dingle & Co., in a real old Irish skit, Tuzart & Asle Comedy, musical offering.

Fazer & Dale, Comedy Musical offering.

One of the most disconcerting situations ever put into a photoplay occurs in Dorothy Gish's latest Paramount picture "Peppy Polly" when Polly (played by Miss Gish) after planning with the judge of the juvenile court to sentence her to three months in a reformatory so she may obtain evidence of graft in the institution, comes into court and finds the wrong judge on the bench.

What followed is splendidly pictured in "Peppy Polly" which will be shown at the Gordon's Central Square Theatre, Cambridge, next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Entire change of program Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Five big feature vaudeville acts.

Bryant Washburn in "Something to Do."

The management announces that Joveah (The Girl with the Sixth Sense) will appear at an early date.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD

Mr. Samuel F. Chadbourne, for many years a member of the Newton Fire Department, attached to Engine 3 at Newton Centre, died on Tuesday at his home in Quincy after a brief illness. Mr. Chadbourne was 68 years of age and was recently retired from the Fire Dept. on account of age limit. Since leaving Newton he has been the assistant manager of the Hancock House in Quincy. He was a member of the Odd Fellows and other fraternal organizations and of the Newton Centre Methodist Church. He is survived by one daughter, Miss Eva G. Chadbourne. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the Newton Cemetery chapel.

"Colonel" Is a Column Leader.

The Spanish for colonel is coronel, the Italian colonello. The Spaniards originated the word 400 years ago and seem to have made it by combining the sense of the Latin columna, a column, with that of corona, a crown. We follow the French spelling, but in pronouncing we retain the Spanish "r," hence "kernel," as we say it. Literally it means the leader of a column or of the company at the head of the regiment in column.

Then and Now.

"Thirty years ago," said the man who had traveled to the end of the earth and most of the way back, "I started out, alone, unaided, without friends to help me along, with the intention of making the world pay me the living that it owes me. My only allies were a dollar bill and a determination to make a million more. Today (and he threw out his chest proudly) I still have the determination and fifty cents in change."

Cold-Water Cure.

If our eyes are in good order we may keep them so by opening them under cold water every morning when we wash, but cold water is for strong eyes; weak ones should use it tepid, with a little boracic powder dissolved therein. Keep your boracic solution ready mixed in a bottle, then you won't have to make it up every day.

Long Wars of the Past.

A review of history shows that all the most momentous clashes of arms have resulted in long wars. In the middle ages England waged an intermittent conflict with France known as the Hundred Years war; while the corresponding conflict between England and Scotland may be said to have been a five-century one.

BIRD CLUB

If last week's walk was "sparrow day," this week certainly should be named in honor of the hawks. Three varieties of hawks, seen within two hours, is by no means a common experience for this locality. First, a sharp-shinned hawk was discovered in a losing argument with twenty grackles who resented his approach to their tall pines, then a pair of red shouldered hawks were seen near where they have nested for several seasons, and an osprey, flying low, circled slowly over the heads of the class only a few rods from where one was seen four years ago.

The class were fortunate enough to find a hermit thrush in the first ten minutes and to encounter a flight of ruby-crowned kinglets, which were seen throughout the morning, everywhere singing. One belated pine siskin was seen, and two pairs of chickadees were found building in apple-tree holes, one within five feet of the highway. Several yellow palm warblers were seen and plenty of pines all singing. The list of species numbered thirty, others being: robins, juncos, bluejays, flickers, white-breasted nuthatch, bronze grackles, bluebirds, song, field and vesper sparrows, redwings, meadow larks, starlings, cowbirds, hairy and downy woodpeckers, goldfinch, phoebe, pheasants, crows, and tree swallows.

A Junior Class for Boys is to be formed for five Thursday afternoons Gate club. Hundreds of dollars have been spent to place them in the present fine condition. Fifteen hundred dollars were spent for the construction of the last two, at a time when labor and materials were twice as cheap as today. Few courts anywhere are equipped with such excellent backstops. The courts are almost completely surrounded by these high pipe-and-wire fences so that a ball seldom leaves the confines of the playing space.

The tennis committee, which consists of John W. English, chairman; Dana Libbey, Robert J. Walsh and Peter D. Boltz, say they expect a lively season this year. They desire that the courts be used constantly and with this end in view are planning for a class rating of all members and also for matches with other clubs. It is thought there will be keen rivalry among members for the honor of top ping the list.

NORTH GATE CLUB

The North Gate club of West Newton is planning a busy season on the tennis courts this year. During the past week the four courts near the clubhouse, off Waltham street, have been thoroughly raked and rolled so that they are now in good playing condition. Persons who have played all over New England declare that with the possible exception of the courts at Longwood, Magnolia and Newport, there are no finer courts in the New England states than those of the North Gate club. Hundreds of dollars have been spent to place them in the present fine condition. Fifteen hundred dollars were spent for the construction of the last two, at a time when labor and materials were twice as cheap as today. EDITORIAL

The public hearing on a proposed increase in the present tax limit of $12.00 per thousand is such a perfunctory affair that we doubt if many will be present. As a matter of fact, the whole procedure under the present Municipal finance act is a veritable farce. The city government in any year, between January 1st and May 1st, may change the tax limit, after a public hearing, and as a protection against extravagance it is negligible. The present situation is due principally to the fact that the limit of $12.00 per $1000 for city expenses is based upon the average valuation for the past three years. Our total valuation, prior to the taking over of the income tax by the state, was over or about $90,000,000. The first year of the income tax there was a drop in the total valuation of about $20,000,000 so that the tax limit the first year was based on the average of two years of say $90,000,000 and one of $70,000,000. This year the average valuation is based on two years at the new valuations and but one of the old, consequently, the average is considerably less than that of last year and next year, when the average is based on three years of the new valuations, it will be down to bed rock. In addition to the loss in the average valuations for this year, the city government has appropriated, or will appropriate something like $300,000 more than last year, when every possible economy was practised. For these reasons, therefore, it is necessary to increase the tax limit of $12.00. Incidentally there will probably be an increase in the tax of about $3.00, although the increase in the tax limit and that of the tax rate are not necessarily dependent upon each other.

It is rather difficult, amid the conflicting statements on both sides to learn just where the blame belongs for the unnecessary public inconvenience caused by the strike of the telephone operatives. If, as the Company states, the strike is due to the insistence of the operatives that Mr. Driver must be authorized to deal with him, and not act as an intermediary for Washington, there can be no question, but what the strike can be condemned in the strongest terms. If on the other hand, it is true that a wage scale was presented months ago, on which no action has been taken by the Post Office Department, the public should vent its wrath on Mr. Burleson. We have our own opinion of Mr. Burleson as a public official, and it is none too good at that, but we hesitate, with the present information to place the entire blame on him. But no matter who is to blame, some agreement should be reached at once.

Our local columns this week show the effect the telephone strike has on our news service.

THE TELEPHONE STRIKE

In common with the whole of Greater Boston the residents of this city have been most seriously inconvenienced by the strike of the telephone operators which went into effect at 7 A. M. on Tuesday. The service that day was completely paralyzed, as only 2 operators out of 60 employed in the three Newton exchanges reported for duty. There was a little improvement on Wednesday, although such business as was transacted was almost wholly within the local exchange. Yesterday emergency calls were being handled in a somewhat desultory fashion. Several High School girls offered their services at the North Exchange on Thursday, including the daughter of Alderman Harriman, who was unaware of his daughter's action, and when informed stated that she would not work again.

There were some humorous phases to the situation, as one gentleman who left home, leaving the drafts of his furnace wide open, had to send a telegram, notifying the family what he had done. In another case a lady received a telegraph invitation (sent collect) to some social function, sent another in reply and later had to send another, at a total expense of $1.05.

The local exchanges were all picketed by the strikers, but without disturbance.

THE OTHER SIDE

A few minutes' conversation with the telephone operators will convince the most skeptical that the girls are in dead earnest. Questioned as to why they have left traffic up, one finds that their grievance is of long standing. "We've stood by our posts," said one, "during the war while prices were going up, and our wages have not been raised. We just can't live on what we are earning. Would you like to work for 7 years and only get a dollar more raise?" one demanded, sharply.

"Why haven't you petitioned for higher wages?" asked the spectator.

"We have," was the prompt reply. "Ever since last August we've been asking for a higher wage. We've got to look out for ourselves, and save something for our old age, you know, and we can't do it on what we are getting. Our representative has been to Washington three times, but nothing has been done for us. They keep putting us off with excuses."

"It's all Burleson's fault," said one. "We don't blame the public, we're sorry for them, but we've got to do something."

RED CROSS LETTERS

This is probably the last lot of letters that will be given out by the Newton Chapter of the Red Cross from among those which it has received in answer to its Christmas letter to the boys serving their country. It may be of general interest and if such are received they will be printed, but present programs make it probable that most of the Newton boys will be at home before many more weeks. In almost all of the more recently received letters to "get back to Newton" is the one great hope of the writers.

Joseph H. Joyce of the Headquarters Company, 101st Infantry, 28th Division is one of those who wrote "thinking of home." In his letter which was sent from Bourdeaux in France he wrote:

"I received your most welcome letter yesterday, and was very glad to hear from the Newton Red Cross. It was late in getting to me, but that was because I was in the hospital with an attack of influenza. I am out now, and back to my regiment. We expect to go home pretty soon, and I think we will not be sorry. We have been over here in France now over a year and a half, and we are all thinking of home. Can you blame us? You have read about Gen. Edwards' story of the 26th Division. Well, I can't say much more unless it would be my own experience. But it is a hard job for a fellow to talk about himself. But I will try and do my best."

We first landed at St. Nazaire, (a seaport city in France) on the 21st of September, 1917, and the people of France were very glad to see us. We were put into a Rest Camp, to get used to the climate of France. We only stayed six days, and then we were moved to the Front, or, to us, our training area, at Neufchateau, in the Vosges Mountains. Life there was the daily routine of the army, drill, drill, every day, learning the new art of modern warfare. We stayed there for four months, and we were kicking all the time, because we did not know much about the trenches at the time.

But soon we learned that Neufchateau was a good place. We left there about the last of Jan., '18, for our first trip to the Front lines. We took over a French sector with a Division of French troops. It was our training trip to the Front, but the French found us so good that they went back for a rest and we took the sector over for ourselves. We had some real excitement up there every day. The German airplanes came over every day, and we saw a good many air battles. The sector we were in was the famous Chemin des Dames, on the Aisne River. We stayed there for forty-five days, and then we were relieved by the French.

We left Braine about the 20th of March, and it was just in time to escape the big German drive. We landed on the rest area about ten miles from where we were all winter. Trampe was the name of the town we were supposed to stay in. But we only stayed there for three days, when orders came for us to move by trucks. We were pretty mad, but there was no help for it. So we got into the trucks and were carried eighty miles to the Toul sector, where we relieved the 1st Division, about the 2nd of April. We left the 1st Division so they could go up and help the English. We stayed in the Toul sector for three long months, and we had a few raids, and we stopped a few attacks from the Germans. We had one on our 1st Battalion, which was repulsed with heavy loss to the Germans. Company C, from Newton, lost three men on that Front, but since the 11th of November they have come back again. They were captured by the Germans.

We left the Toul sector about the 28th of June, and we started for Chateau Thierry, where we stopped the Germans and had our first trip over the top on a big scale. We made a good fight and were relieved on the 28th of July. I was wounded up there, and landed in a hospital. When I came back to the Regiment, they were in a Rest Area at Chateau Thierry, just behind the 1st Division. We stayed there for three weeks drilling every day, and then we started for the St. Mihiel front. We were on the road for ten days, and then we relieved the French on the 9th of Sept. And on the morning of the 12th, the drive started. We had a pretty soft job there, because the Germans were taken by surprise and they did not show much fight, so we took them prisoners. After the drive was over, we took over a sector and held it for a month, until we started for the Argonne at Verdun. We saw some of the worst fighting of the War there, and when the 11th came, we were in the front lines, and we were relieved on the 11th, and we started back to this place. On the 15th I was taken sick and landed in the hospital again. But I came back just after Christmas, and I was very glad to get back. I found the regiment in this town, and it is in the Upper Marne Valley. It is a very pretty place, but we would like to see the U. S. A. and dear Newton once again.

We lost a few boys from Newton in all our fights, but the rest of them are in the best of health at the present. We had a good time Christmas and New Years. I was in the hospital on Christmas day, and they gave us a very good time while there.

Gen. Edwards was a very good Division Commander, and we were very sorry to lose him, because we never could get a man as good as he was. But now that the War is over, we would like to go home, but I guess we will have to wait until the time comes. The boys from Newton send their best regards and hope that everybody in Newton is well and happy.

It rains over here every day, and of course it makes it bad for us. But we are used to it now, and we don't mind it much. But we are looking for the time when we get back to Newton. My folks have heard from me at all times, and from last reports they were well, and glad that I was alive. I don't know how I managed to live through all the hell of the battles, but I am alive and well at the present.

First Sergeant J. E. McDermott of the 21st Engineers, 4th Battalion was in Couffans, France, sixteen miles from Metz, when he wrote:

"It sure was a treat to me to hear from you, and I am more than thankful to you for your kindness in writing such an interesting letter to me over here.

To tell of my experience in this great war is too much to mention, with all that I have gone through and what I have seen in the past eight months that I have been in France. I will try, however, to tell you of some of the great work the Yankee boys kicked up with the Huns over here.

I am with what they call the Fighting 21st Engineers, 4th Battalion, which is made up of nothing but railroad engineers, firemen, brakemen, and other branches of the railroad game. Our outfit landed in Brest, which is the biggest country I ever lit into. We were there two days, and from there we were shot up to the St. Mihiel Sector, in which the Yanks were getting ready for that big drive which took place three days later, and take it from me, it was some drive. It sure made a fellow think of Newton, Mass. It lasted two days and seven hours of steady roaring of naval guns, 16-inch, and artillery guns, which are no 4th of July fireworks. When one of those goes off, you think you are hit whether you are or not. The Yanks sure did give the Huns hell there. They were dead and dying all over the field when the Yanks went over the top. But the worst of all was when they sent us to the Verdun front, where we slept in dugouts all the time, because Fritz would come over in Bombing Planes and just drop a few pills down on us about every two hours or so. But it was not long before the boys from U. S. A. got kind of tired of his having so much fun with them, so they just started to have a little fun with old Fritz, and it was not a great deal of fun. That is, I would not really call it fun. I would call it a human slaughter. Why, we got them running so fast that I guess they have not stopped yet. The Yanks took 67,000 Huns out of the Argonne Woods, where the Crown Prince thought he was on his way to Paris. But he never got there. It was a fearful sight to see. Why, there were Huns just lying in all shapes, and where the naval guns poured through the Huns' ranks they were in two and threes, and in some places you would find four and six Huns in one heap. Well, to make it brief, there were dead Huns four weeks after in the woods which we built a narrow gauge railroad through. Why, the smell of dead Bosches would knock you down, if you did not put your gas mask on, some of them half down in a hole with their feet or head sticking over ground.

I think I will close, as I am due to drill in a few minutes.

Second Lieutenant C. A. Bell of the U. S. Marine Corps wrote from Rheimboll, in Germany: "I have been in the service over a year now. I enlisted as a private, and have worked my way up to a Second Lieutenant. I arrived over here in France in March just when things looked darkest for the Allies. From that day until this, I have been kept awfully busy. I was in the three biggest American drives; was also in the trenches the day the armistice was signed. You probably have heard a little about the Marines at home, so will not try to describe their fighting, etc.

I went through all my fighting without a scratch, for which I have God to thank. No one but Him could have led me "over the top" safely as he did.

I finished a hike from the Meuse River in France, to the Rhine River in Germany, on Friday the 13th. We crossed the Rhine on a boat with the name "Hindenburg" on it. That is rubbing it in on old Hindy. We passed through Belgium, Luxemburg, and the Rhine Valley, and saw some wonderful places.

I am mighty glad everything is over, as I am feeling now as though I would like to come home. There isn't a fellow here in the outfit that hasn't got at least one German to his credit. For myself, I was rather lucky. I captured three one day; I don't know who was the most scared, myself or the Fritzies."

From the Headquarters of the Railway Artillery Service Captain Percival S. Howe wrote: "During the sixteen months that I have been serving with the American Expeditionary Force, it has been a satisfaction to realize the work that the several Red Cross Chapters throughout the country have been doing, and to know that the men over here have been receiving the unqualified support of those at home. It is particularly gratifying to know that we were not forgotten at Christmas time."

The necessity for that support has not entirely passed. It is true that the fighting is probably over; but a great deal of work yet remains to be done, and for those of us who are fortunate enough to have the opportunity to remain and complete what has only been begun, conditions of life will not be a great deal easier than they have been in the past.

Let me express my appreciation to those of my friends in Newton who have given their services to the Newton Chapter, A. R. C.

Dalton E. Francis on active service with the American Red Cross with Evacuation Ambulance Co. No. 7 wrote: "Was very glad upon returning to my quarters to find such a pleasant Christmas greeting waiting me as was that sent to us by the people of Newton through your Chapter. It does us a lot of good to realize that the people at home are thinking of us and wishing us the many good things your letter conveyed."

I have been over here since the first of July, and saw service at Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel, Champagne, and on the Verdun front. Have had many interesting days and many interesting trips. It might be well if I should say that I am an ambulance driver, so you might know of what I am talking. It would take a magazine to write of our experiences, and a capable hand to do the writing, and I have neither, but I can write and tell you of how much we appreciate the Red Cross, and the wonderful work it has done, and is doing, over here.

We thank you. There is not a man over here who has been on the front or to your hospitals, who does not realize the great work you all have done, and there is not a man who has seen your work and realized the comforts you have given us who does not thank you from the bottom of his heart, and I am one of the many.

William C. Gordon who is a Y. M. C. A. secretary with the Headquarters Company of the 101st Engineers wrote: "About Christmas time I received a copy of the letter sent out by you to those from Newton who were in service over here. I want to thank you for my share in that cheering message. I am sure it must have warmed the heart of every one to whom it came."

Our boys have certainly given good accounts of themselves, and we have reason to be proud of them. Now that their work is over, they are very anxious to get back to the dear home friends and the dear home city. I can not begin to tell you how glad we all shall be to look into the familiar faces and clasp the friendly hands once more.

WASHBURN-HARRINGTON

A very pretty and most artistic wedding took place at 5 o'clock last Saturday in Trinity Church, Newton Centre. The little church which holds about 450 was filled to overflowing. Miss Mary Elsie Harrington, daughter of Mrs. Harriet Harrington, 57 Bowen street, was married to Louis Van Nostrand Washburn, son of Mrs. George Washburn, Newtonville. The Rev. Edward T. Sullivan performed the ceremony. The bride was given away by her brother, Sergeant Foster S. Harrington who has just returned with the 26th Division on the S. S. Agamemnon after a year and a half of service overseas.

The best man was William Cary of Newtonville, the matron of honor, Mrs. Carl C. Sylvester, sister of the bride, of Rio de Janeiro. The bridesmaids were Miss Lucile O'Brien, Englewood, N. J., Miss Louise Walworth, Newton Centre, Miss Bertha Whitney, Newtonville. The ushers were Carl Sylvester, Rio de Janeiro, Mr. William A. Glidden, Newtonville, Mr. Edward Pratt of Newton, and Mr. J. Winthrop Davis of Boston.

The bride, who is well-known throughout Newton, looked charming in her dress of white satin and embroidered georgette crepe. She carried white roses. The matron of honor dressed in delicate green carried jonquils.

The bridesmaids were in white taffeta with beige colored chiffon, and wore hats of the same color with blue-green tulle streamers. They carried white tulips and maidenhair fern.

The reception was in the Parish House, which was beautifully decorated with jonquils and hydrangeas, giving a spring like appearance.

After the honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Washburn will live in Boston.

UNITARIAN CLUB

The annual meeting of the Unitarian Club of Newton was held last night in the Channing Church. The following were re-elected for the coming year: President, William B. Baker; Vice-Presidents, Herbert Stebbins, and Charles A. Johnson; Secretary, James Kingman, and Treasurer, Horace C. Harrington.

There was a reception and dinner, to which ladies were invited. Music was furnished by Miss Bernice Keach, Soprano; Mr. Maurice L. Quinlan, Tenor; Mr. Edgar J. Smith, Accompanist.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. Isaac Sprague of Wellesley. He told of the Laymen's League of the Unitarian Denomination recently held at Springfield, Mass. The object of the League he said is to promote the worship of God, and the love and service of mankind in the spirit of Jesus. A constitution was formed by the meeting in Springfield and 21 men chosen as leaders. Among these was Ex-President William H. Taft.

There were 288 delegates who had traveled an average of 200 miles each, and contributed an average of $200 each. That the convention was of an international character was evident from the places represented. Delegates were registered from Seattle, Washington, Nashville, Tenn., New York City, Atlanta, Ga., Los Angeles, Cal., Lancaster, Penn., Paterson, N. J. and Boston, Mass.

Mr. Sprague said that he regarded the work of the League as of the greatest significance in the readjustment of ideals which the war has brought about.

ENLIST NG FOR THRIFT

You, beholding it, might think it was time to pull that schoolhouse down and put up another more in keeping with the times. To Charles, Henry, Ellen and Marion and some thirteen hundred other boys and girls there may be finer buildings in the world, but next to home there is none that is dearer. It is there that ideals, romance and adventures center. There they get their inspiration to go out and do, and there they return with the fruits of their labor.

To these boys and girls Picardy is across the street and Belgium around the corner. They think in terms of world interest, and realizing their own part in the trend of great events, put their small shoulders to the wheel with a resoluteness and unswerving devotion to duty that is a rebuke to us quibbling and hedging elders.

Woe to the mother who put wheat in her bread because there was plenty in Argentina! They knew why that wheat was not contributed to the general supply; why thousands of tons of sugar in Sumatra were not available to their own home markets. Geography, history, even arithmetic, pulsate to them with deep meanings of present moment.

When all the drives began these children were eager to do their share. They bought Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps to the value of thousands of dollars, mostly by the labor of their own hands, or savings from the penny candy store.

Now that the war is over the children are just as busy as they were before, saving materials, economizing on luxuries,—all for the purchase of Thrift and War Savings Stamps, so that Uncle Sam may pay his bills and fulfill his obligations to the brave boys who offered up all they had to make Liberty possible on the earth.

Even though the interest for six months on a small Liberty bond is but little, you can make it grow by reinvesting the coupon in War Savings Stamps.

RALPH'S STORY SERVICE

By Anna E. F. Anderson.

While the news-agent sorted the papers for delivery the newsboys discussed their plans for contributing a dollar each towards the twenty War-Savings Stamps their Boys' Club planned to buy this year.

One voice shrilly announced, "My father printed some tickets, and I left them in the offices of the Trade Building, and so I get errands to do."

Another boy said, "I deliver gas bills every month. I used to get a cent apiece, but now I get two cents."

"I help our janitor and get ten cents every Saturday, and sometimes I do errands for a lady in our house," small Peter insisted.

Ralph had little to add to the clamor, since he had as yet no plan, but only a strong desire to serve his country by raising the dollar. His pay as a newsboy was small and it had to go to help his widowed mother meet the rent.

With his papers under his arm and his mind intent on his problem, he came upon a group of children dancing on the sidewalk to the music of a hand-organ, accompanied by a monkey who doffed his funny little cap when his master indicated that he must collect the pennies.

"Oh, wait a minute," said one little girl, "until I ask my mother for a cent." The child soon reappeared with five cents for the man and a monkey for the monkey.

Suddenly an idea occurred to Ralph. He had read that Eastern people were so fond of hearing stories that they would sit in some public place and listen to professional story-tellers for hours at a time. Why could he not tell stories, and so earn some money as the organ-grinder did?

When the organ and monkey disappeared, he said to the children, "Will you give me some pennies if I will tell you some nice stories?"

"What kind of stories?" demanded one.

"Oh, yes," said another: "will you tell us one now?"

"I must deliver my papers now," Ralph said, "but I will be here tomorrow afternoon. It is Saturday, so there is no school, and I will come early."

Ralph went on with his papers and soon overtook the organ-grinder surrounded by another group of boys and girls. Encouraged by his previous success he made the same proposition to these young folks, who accented with joy his offer and his terms.

Early the next afternoon Ralph found five girls and two boys waiting for him. He chose the wide steps of a house somewhat sheltered from the wind and the sun, and at the end of the time allotted he was besieged for more. But he had the other children to consider, so he promised to have more stories for them the next Saturday.

When Ralph met the other children he found eight boys and girls at the rendezvous. He related the same stories to them to their evident delight, and they readily promised to wait for him next Saturday if he would surely have more stories to tell them.

The following Saturday his audiences were increased in numbers, with a corresponding increase in contributions, and at the end of the second afternoon of story-telling he found that he had received more than he had set out to earn. The children den, however, coaxed him to keep on telling stories on Saturday afternoon.

"But I have the dollar I wanted for the War Savings," said Ralph, "and if you give me more money, what shall I do with it?"

"Buy some Thrift stamps for yourself," said one of the children, and they all agreed to give their mites if he would only tell them stories.

The overplus of money, which amounted to several dollars, was invested in War Savings Stamps, and Ralph felt his first thrill of independence.

His mother, proud of her boy, of learning the result of his clever work said:

"You see, my son, that 'where there's a will there's a way.'"

"And 'many a mickle makes a muckle,'" said Ralph with a laugh.

THRIFT STAMPS FOR JUNK

How the Work of Redeeming Usable Materials Once Considered Waste is Conducted.

From the making of garments for refugee children in a Brookline home to a Government department, is the brief story of the evolution of the Salvage Bureau of the Savings Division of New England, of which Mrs. F. L. Higginson is director.

Mrs. H. Parker Whittington is in charge of this department at the War Savings headquarters, 95 Milk Street, Boston, the salvage movement being largely the result of her realization of the tremendous waste of usable materials which has been the rule, and her indomitable energy.

Nearly 500 junk men in Greater Boston have been supplied with wagon signs reading "I give Thrift Stamps for Junk," and a salvage card is furnished householders to be used in similar manner to the familiar "Ice." Materials for which Thrift Stamps are paid are rags, tin foil, lead, scrap rubber (including boots, tires and tubing), copper, brass, lead, zinc, pewter, aluminum, mixed bags, mixed papers, and folded newspapers. A list of prices is furnished to be renewed as prices change.

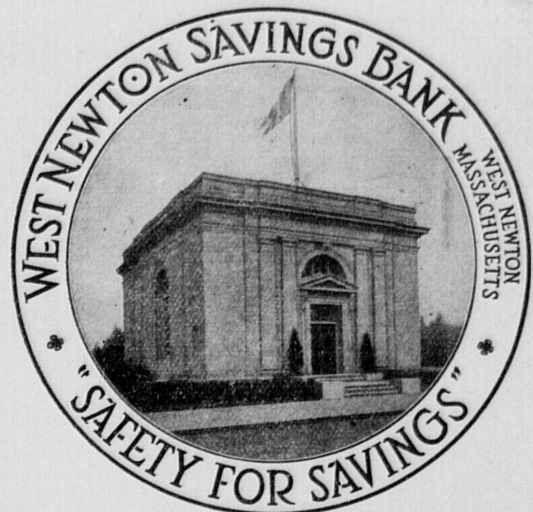

Householders are urged to save tin foil for the Salvation Army, the proceeds to go for the purchase of war Savings Stamps to help in their work, and the jacks in the harbor have taken up the idea with enthusiasm and are also realizing substantial returns from their savings of tin foil and lead foil.

Coin and stamp collectors, owners of many books and bookshelves generally have responded to the plan of giving Thrift and War Savings Stamps, and one of Boston's leading jewelers is giving stamps for old gold, silver and aluminum.

Housewives are doing their spring cleaning with new zest this year. One Cambridge woman, after declaring she positively had disposed of everything, rummaged her house and found sufficient material to bring her more than twenty-five dollars in Thrift and War Savings Stamps. At last accounts she was considering the jewelers' offer in connection with a dozen of discarded silver napkin rings.

The salvage idea has been adopted in several states in other Federal Reserve Districts. Wherever it has been presented in New England it meets an enthusiastic response.

De you remember getting the coupons from your Liberty Bonds, because they will earn no more? Why not reinvest them in War Savings Stamps?

WILBUR THEATRE—"A Sleepless Night," a new farce by Jack Larric and Gustav Blum, will be presented at the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, next Monday evening, April 21, by the Messrs. Shubert. The exceptional company includes Peggy Hopkins, Ernest Glendinning, Donald Gallagher, Josephine Drake, William Morris, and Carlotta Monterey. The play was written primarily for laughing purposes, and story briefly is as follows: A young artist and his sculptress wife are masquerading as strangers in order to secure remunerative commissions from a millionaire. They secure the commissions and establish themselves in Mr. Chandler's home. Then complications begin to develop.

COPLEY REPERTORY THEATRE—For its very first presentation in Boston, the Henry Jewett Players will appear at the Copley Repertory Theatre next week in Sir Arthur Pinero's drama, "The Thunderbolt." It has had only a very few performances in this country, although it is one of the best known of that master-dramatist's works for the stage, and it should arouse no little interest among our local public that likes to see the most talked-about plays of the present epoch. "The Thunderbolt" is one of Pinero's most ingeniously constructed and interesting plays, and it will be cordially welcomed by Boston audiences.

At the Showrooms of Messrs. McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin street, Boston, Mass., are on exhibition the grandest display of Electric and Gas Lighting Fixtures, all to show desired effects to meet every requirement for home and public building.

DEMONSTRATION HOME GARDEN

Middlesex County Bureau of Agriculture
To Establish One in Newton

When can we plant with safety? This is a universal question among us home gardeners just about this time of the year. And it is as important as it seems because planting is governed by so many things such as moisture, temperature, climate, the time when the matured crop is desired, and by the crop itself.

Perhaps it is safe to say we can begin to plant about the third week in April in this section. We shall plant our demonstration home garden about this time.

As planting time varies each season, we are watching Nature's doings and are governing our planting operations accordingly. We shall not go far wrong by observing these natural signs.

We may safely plant vegetables which are known as hardy or cold weather types as soon as danger from heavy frosts is past and the soil has commenced to warm up some. At the time the young leaves appear on apple trees we may plant beets, Brussels sprouts, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, kale, lettuce, onions, onion sets, parsley, parsnips, peas, radish, spinach, and turnips.

We should not plant the tender or warm weather vegetables until all danger from late spring frosts has passed and the apple trees are in bloom. Then we may plant our beans, corn, cucumbers, melons, and squash. We may also set out our tomato plants, egg-plants, and pepper plants at this time.

It is a good plan for us to plant our seeds somewhat thickly and later thin out the young plants to the desired distances. This practice is an especially important one to follow when we are in doubt as to the germinating qualities of our seeds.

We find there is nothing to be gained by soaking seeds before planting and this practice should be discouraged.

If we soak our seed potatoes for 30 minutes in a solution of 1 ounce corrosive sublimate in 12 gallons of water we can prevent many potato diseases. Dry in sun before planting.

Hilling or ridging up the soil only increases the soil surface hence production evaporation of soil moisture. This practice is only advisable on poorly drained wet soils and should be discouraged in all other cases.

It is well for us to plant the larger seeds such as peas, corn and beans from 1 to 2 inches deep and the smaller seeds not over 1-2 inch in depth. We should take great care in covering the seed and firming the soil over it.

We should not plant too deep on heavy soils or when the ground is inclined to be wet. We should plant a little deeper in hot dry periods or on exceptionally dry soil.

It is perhaps a better practice for us to apply our fertilizer broadcast over our gardens instead of applying it in the row itself. If seeds are allowed to come in contact with the fertilizer, we find that they will fail to germinate.

We should plant in long rows and not in small patches. Long rows save labor and space and they are very much easier to cultivate.

We feel that it is a good plan to plant the taller growing vegetables at the north end of the garden. If we plant a predominance of beans, greens and root crops we shall raise the maximum food value from a given area. We should only plant peas, corn and potatoes when we have a large garden and can spare the room.

Next week we shall consider cultivating.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, D. C.—Through the failure of Congress to deal with the military appropriation bill, the regular army on the 30th of June next, by reason of the legislation contained in the National Defense Act, will automatically revert to a pre-war footing of 175,000 men.

Engagements solemnly entered into by the United States with its Allies, especially the French acting under the insistence of Marshal Foch, obligate this nation to maintain for an indefinite period an overseas force with a minimum of 450,000 men.

The Army bill, as revised by the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, provided for a regular army upon a footing slightly in excess of 500,000 men; and from this force it was planned to take the replacement necessary to relieve the enlisted men now on duty in France and in the army of occupation in Germany and to permit those boys to return home.

Under the best of conditions it will require some months to organize the army upon its proposed new footing, to train the replacement unit from the regular establishment and to get the officers and men to their posts in Europe. In consequence, every day of delay in the convening of Congress means a prolongation of the term of service of the drafted men now over-seas, and this constitutes a paramount reason intimately associated with our national life for the speedy calling together of Congress to enact necessary statutes.

It is no answer to the demand for an extra session to argue that the failure of the Army bill in the last Congress was due to a filibuster on the part of a few senators. The fact is that the Army bill was never in good faith presented to the Senate for consideration. The measure came to that body from the House hardly a week before the constitutional day for the adjournment of the session, and the Senate Committee did not dispose of it until late in the week prior to the adjournment of Congress on Tuesday, March 4th. It is true that in the crowded closing hours of the session, Senator Chamberlain asked unanimous consent to vote upon the bill at a fixed hour, though he well knew such consent could not be obtained, and that the hour fixed would not permit of even reading the bill in open session.

The cause of the failure of the Army bill clearly rests in the dilatory inefficiency of the Democratic majority in the House which drafted the Army measure inadequate for any of the military needs of the nation, either domestic or foreign.

That water, however, has already flowed down the Potomac, and the question now is whether 450,000 homes in this country will rest silent while their boys are continued for an indefinite period in overseas service and while President Wilson remains in Europe and obstinately refuses to convene Congress for the consideration of this necessary measure because he is unwilling that in the course of congressional debate there should be any incidental criticism of his proposed covenant for a League of Nations.

An extra session of Congress is imperatively required in order that America's gallant sons overseas may be brought home without further delay and the army reorganized upon a peace footing.

TEACHERS' SALARIES

The following extracts from "The Quadwangler" in a recent issue of the Boston Transcript will interest many in this city—

"It is certainly a rare joy to be a school teacher. First, you don't get any salary to speak of and then you have to tell everybody exactly how you spend it. In what other profession are you given the privilege of thus disclosing your nearest financial secrets to a waiting world? It is obvious, of course, that such questionnaires as are now being conducted in Lynn and have just been completed in Newton are not designed primarily to satisfy someone's idle curiosity. If they were, the situation would not be half so bad, because in these days of reformers and sociological investigators curiosity is almost a legitimate trait.

What makes the Quadwangler really sad is the fact that the teachers honestly feel that only by laying bare their daily life and applying the test of naked statistics can they convince a callous and credulous public that the salaries are not large enough to enable them to do successful battle with the cost of living. The teachers ought not to be compelled to do this; no city or town ought to tolerate conditions which will force them to do this. What, for instance, does the city of Newton think of having spread broadcast such facts as the following: Feb. 24, 1919 was the first day this school year that the schools had the required number of teachers.

In the year ending Dec. 31, 1918, sixty teachers—19 per cent of the entire teaching force—left the service of the city.

Of eighty grade teachers (not a selected list) 78 are forced to do outside work in order to make revenues equal expenditures.

Let it be understood that the Quadwangler is not finding fault with the teachers taking these heroic measures to place their case before the public. Rather he is inclined to commend the great mass of them for having stuck to their posts in the trying days just passed when salaries were already inadequate and when it was a simple matter for almost anyone of them to step into a better paying position in another line of work. Never did a profession as a whole live up better to its best traditions and ideals.

Although it would have been so easy and so effective to have gone on strike they scorned mere expediency, thereby making it clearer than ever that they deserved well of their various communities. Isn't that all the more reason why full and entire justice should be done them now?

College presidents and school boards need have no great difficulty in filling vacancies provided only they are not too insistent on high qualifications. But are the highest qualifications too high in a matter which involves the education of the future citizens and rulers of the State? Did anyone ever see a parent who openly admitted that he would be satisfied with anything less than the very best teaching for his boy or girl?

There are no two ways about it. If the public wants good teaching it will have to pay for it and pay considerably more than it is paying now. If it is content with mediocrity, all it has to do is sit financially tight and let its superintendents acquire gray hairs trying to find persons who still profess that teaching is a labor of love and who have the courage and independent means to live up to their profession.

SCHOOL NOTES

Clafin School

The spectators at the practice of the Eighth Grade baseball team were very much interested in the playing of Stillman at the third sack. His playing is very much improved since he received his new mit.

The children of Clafin School who ordered seeds received them on Wednesday afternoon. It is hoped that their gardens will prosper.

Horace Mann Notes

Last Friday Miss Marion Maxim gave a very interesting talk on the "Proper Furnishing of Halls" using the reflectoscope to illustrate.

There was a meeting of the Achievement Club on Wednesday, April 16. The program was in charge of Miss Cynthia Blake and Miss Helen McKeon.

A reflectoscope lesson was given by the Seventh Grade in History on Tuesday morning. The lesson was in charge of Miss Helen McKeon and was on Current History.

The girls of the Horace Mann School have organized their baseball team. They expect to be able to play with other schools soon.

The boys have been practising for the track meet which is to be held at the High School.

At Cabot Park Wednesday, the Horace Mann Seventh Grade played the Clafin Seventh Grade. The Clafin boys were ahead until the last inning, the Horace Mann made five runs, making the score 12 to 10. The Horace Mann batteries were Black and Benson. The Clafin batteries were Davis and Monroe.

The children of the Horace Mann School are fortunate in having their playground enlarged by four lots south of the present location. The Playground Commissioner is grading these lots similar to the present playground. When done, the Horace Mann School will have the most spacious playground in the city.

The Horace Mann-Clafin baseball team will play the Stearns school Wednesday, April 23, at 4.00 P. M. at Cabot Park.

Newton Schools will close all day Friday, April 18, as the School Board voted to make Good Friday a holiday for the boys and girls.

The boys and girls of the eighth grade, for the last week have been choosing their courses for High School.

The thrift cards of the 1918 issue have been called in and the 1919 issue given out in their place. The new edition is called the "Vest Pocket Edition," as the size is adapted to the pocket.

Stearns School

Achievement Club

The first regular meeting of our Achievement Club was held after school Monday with Mr. Swett of the Vocational School as director.

A constitution was adopted and the officers elected as follows: President, Herman Swartz; Vice-President, Albert Bryson; Secretary and Treasurer, Doris Porter; Librarian, Helen Coughlin.

It was voted to call the club the E. O. Childs Achievement Club.

An interesting program was given and an entertainment committee appointed for the next meeting. It was announced that Mr. Farley of Amherst Agricultural College would address the club on April twenty-ninth. All pupils in grades six, seven, and eight are to be invited to hear him.

New Desk

Under the direction and supervision of Mr. Holman of the Manual Training Department there has been designed and constructed a model for a new type of eighth grade desk.

It is of oak and is unique having a compartment which contains a complete drawing outfit, a draftsman's drawing board 12 in. by 16 in. with T square and angles.

The above compartment is at the right hand side of the desk and in no wise detracts from the appearance. It is hoped that the eighth grade room of the Stearns School will be fitted with desks of this new type.

Base Ball

The Base Ball Team played against the Phillips Team of Watertown, Monday, April 13th, and was defeated, 4 to 3.

It was a most interesting and exciting game. The Stearns School was in the lead until the final inning when the opponent won.

Stearns School

The Baby Clinic was held as usual on Monday afternoon from three to four o'clock. About ten babies were brought to be weighed, or to see the doctor.

The Dressmaking Class was held Monday evening at 7.30 o'clock. The Millinery Class was omitted this week. Its regular meeting will be held next Tuesday. Each class will have six more lessons.

The Mothers' Club is to entertain the Girls' Club on next Monday evening, April 21st, at 7.45 o'clock.

GARDEN ARMY NOTES

Our Enemies

Written by an 8th Grade Pupil of Bigelow School

While working in your garden, the "German Fokker, Jimmy Crow" sees you, and comes on a scouting trip to discover what you are doing. He flies over and lights on the tree right near you. "Ah," says he, "Corn!" He lets you get it all planted and, as soon as you are out of sight, down he comes upon your ranks of corn. He gets rid of some of them and then disappears. Later this enemy comes again and gets another battalion.

Another foe watches you plant your potatoes and cabbages. Then when they are up, he will come with his hordes and destroy them. If you work hard you can send these invaders to blight, because they have neither rifles nor gas-masks. Just keep your plants well sprayed with "Poisonous Gases" and you will get them.

Royall Switzer.

Bigelow School

On Friday, April 11, in the School Hall, a very interesting tale was told, entitled "The First Thanksgiving" was presented by Miss Tewksbury's class. The boys and girls took their parts exceedingly well. There was singing by the class accompanied by piano and ukulele.

The School orchestra also furnished music.

DR. REID'S EXPERIENCES

Doctor Duncan Reid who went overseas with the 20 men from New England called by the French and British Commission in Sept. 1917, has seen much of the war from a medical point of view. He is very modest in regard to his own achievements, and like most men who have done things, reluctant to speak of himself. At first, he helped the British in England, later, he served in France doing specialized work at St. Nazaire.

He said that the difference between civilian and military hospitals was one of spirit. Over here, patients are accustomed to have their ailments more or less discussed, and perhaps, at times become a little sorry for themselves. Over there, no matter how serious one's condition, one felt that it was all in the game. The British, he said, as was natural since they had been in the war so much longer than the Americans, had not the least bit of spirit. Over here, patients are accustomed to have their ailments more or less discussed, and perhaps, at times become a little sorry for themselves. Over there, no matter how serious one's condition, one felt that it was all in the game. The British, he said, as was natural since they had been in the war so much longer than the Americans, had not the least bit of spirit.

Doctor Reid served 4 months on a hospital train at the front having on board as many as 480 men at a time. He says that the picture of these men, of their bravery in bearing uncomplainingly suffering which was often intense, will remain with him always.

One of our boys even if he had been given a chance to return home would have done so until he had finished the job he had come over to do. Of a certain surgeon, McKenna by name, the doctor told the following story. McKenna, though greatly beloved by his men, did not waste much time sympathizing with them, nor spare them pain when, in his opinion, pain was necessary. One day when he was out of the room, a patient was overheard remarking, "Gee, this is a hard-bodded crowd, they're not very long on sympathy but it's swell treatment!" This same surgeon told a patient who had been in bed some time and was beginning to contract bed sores to "Get up," and to the patient's own surprise he was able to sit up, and soon to get up and walk about.

One of our boys striking differences between Over There and Over Here is found in the proportion of the hospital staff to the number of men in the hospital. Over There the hospitals were so overworked that in one hospital, and this one is typical, the enlisted personnel was 125 to 1200 and even 1500 patients. Over Here such a condition would not be allowed. Under such circumstances, convalescents had to "turn to" and help. These sometimes, murmured at first, but as soon as they understood that unless they did what they could, many of the necessary things could not be done, they were glad to help. The work of the convalescents not only helped the hospital, but it contributed to the health of the patients themselves, as in this way they were able to test their own strength. "Especially useful," many of the patients being entirely cured by being kept busy.

Doctor Reid himself had from 100-200 men regularly for whom he was responsible. Many of these were pneumonia and heart patients. The "Not yet diagnosed" cases also came to him to be passed upon.

Not always, however, was life so serious. There was the French lady who had been brought into the hospital because of trench fever. While there, he became acquainted with a soldier who could speak Spanish, and soon he and his new friend were conversing in this language. When the doctor jokingly asked him what lies he had been telling, he looked up in consternation and replied, "I no tell lies."

Christmas of 1918 was a memorable one in the hospital of St. Nazaire. The nurse who trimmed the tree, a real Christmas one from a French estate near by that the French owner had given permission to be cut down, had only five things with which to do it—Knights of Columbus cigarettes wrapped in tin foil, bits of cotton, tinsel, two kinds of colored tissue paper, and a wee bit of a mazer she had picked up "somewhere in France." With these humble tools, she and the convalescent patients made a tree so attractive that it won the prize. The morning after Christmas, however, not a bit of decoration remained, the boys, 40 of them, who were starting for home had stripped it bare for souvenirs.

Doctor Reid said that his experiences had been well worth while from a professional point of view, but still more worth while was the lasting satisfaction of having "done his bit."

Ideal Union.

What greater thing is there for two human souls, than to feel that they are joined for life—to strengthen each other in all labor, to rest in each other in all sorrow, to minister to each other in all pain, to be one with each other in silent, unspoken memories at the moment of the last parting?—George Eliot.

Trench-Digging Crab.

One of the creatures most adept at mimicry is the fiddler crab. This curious creature is an expert in trench digging. He carries with him, as part of his body, an extraordinary weapon which serves as spade, sword and spoon. This is an enlargement of one claw shaped so much like a fiddle that it gives the crab its name.

BOY SCOUTS NEWS

The Newton, Wellesley, and Needham Scouts are very fortunate in being asked to help out at the parade of the 26th Division. The Scouts are to usher, distribute programs, and act as messengers for the various officials. As most of their work is to be in the stands, the boys will get an exceptional view of the famous Y. D. The scouts will be in charge of Scout Executive Talbot, who, while with the French army, was "next door" to the 26th in the Toul sector.

The scouts are to report in uniform at the Huntington Ave. station of the B. & A. R. R. at 11.30 A. M., on the day of the parade. Each scout is to carry a simple First Aid Kit consisting of a roller bandage, a bottle of Aromatic Spirits of Ammonia, a cup, and a canteen of water, and they are to receive special instruction for the treatment of fainting.

While not quite settled, it is hoped that the Drum and Bugle Corps will have some part in the parade. The Norumbega Council has promised to furnish 300 uniformed scouts for their share, which is the largest quota of any of the suburbs.

The Court of Honor has been very busy the last two weeks, passing many boys for advanced rank, and admitting a number of new boys into the world wide brotherhood of the Boy Scouts. Visits have been paid to Troops 1, 10, 7 Needham and Wellesey, with several other troops having boys attend at these places to pass examinations.

The Drum and Bugle Corps is making fine progress, as over 30 attended the last meeting at the High School Gymnasium. It is hoped that 40 will be the number next time, which is on April 29th, at 7.30 at the High School Gymnasium. Mr. Estes and Mr. Perry are the leaders, Mr. Perry acting as Drum Major. Mr. Estes is giving some of the troops special instruction at their headquarters in the drum and bugle work, and the corps promises to be one of the best around Boston.

The treasure hidden in connection with the district paper has not as yet been found, despite the fact that the Wellesley troops have been out looking for it several times. This will remain hidden until found, possibly the trail will be changed somewhat for the next month, but the start will be the same.

On Tuesday evening, April 22nd, the Scouts of the District have been ordered to report at the Congregational Church in Newtonville to see the movie picture "The Price of Peace" which is a film taken by the government photographers in France and is said to be a wonderful film. This is in connection with the Liberty Loan, and the scouts will be addressed by members of the Liberty Loan Committee. The Scouts of this territory are out for a record in the selling of Liberty Bonds, and every boy is on his toes waiting for the signal to "go to it" which will be given on Saturday the 20th of April. In connection with the loan, a real tank will go through the city, with two Scout buglers on it who will play their bugles to attract attention.

The District rally of the scouts will be held at the Clafin Field on May 17th, unless something unforeseen comes up. The program of this rally and of the Harvard Rally which is on June 7th is practically the same, except that certain demonstrations will be omitted in the local rally.

Troop 2

The first hike of the Eagle Patrol was on April 2nd, 1919. At one o'clock the patrol assembled in back of the round house and fires were going in no time. Everyone was present except Winslow Howland who was out of town. For the first class test, Chas. Hilliard was successful in cooking twist and Wm. Heinrich passed both pan cakes and twist. For second class cooking the following were passed: Elmer Mitchell and Edward Denty met; Elmer Mitchell, Allen Bailey, Edward Denty, and Chas. Valley passed cooking potatoes. In fire lighting Elmer Mitchell, Edward Denty, and Chas. Valley passed. Chas. Valley passed tracking in 12 and in 24 minutes respectively. The boys voted to stay for supper, and this was done, although some were obliged to go home for the necessary eats. During the evening Foster passed his test on pan cakes. At seven o'clock the patrol started home with burned fingers and tired legs, but with happy hearts and faces.

Troop 8

On Monday evening the fourteenth, Troop eight had its regular meeting at the playground house in Newton Centre. Before any business was discussed a short hike was taken over a few of the neighboring roads in order to get the boys warmed up for the evening's business. The scoutmaster very enthusiastically over the plan of taking a short hike before every meeting, which enthusiasm is made evident by their punctuality at meetings. This was not particularly noticeable before Mr. Waters thought of hikes as an inducement to promptness and attendance.

After the hike was concluded, the roll called and it was a remarkably small number who were not there to answer. The singing Liberty Loan was mentioned by Mr. Waters as a means of proving that Troop eight is the liveliest troop in the Norumbega council, by obtaining the largest number of subscriptions. Troop Eight will come across with the largest number of subscriptions, so look out troop five. He commended the troop for their good discipline while at drill, but reprimanded them for their carelessness in handling the furniture in the playground house.

Mr. Waters then read off a list of the boys comprising four baseball teams, all the boys being selected from the troop. These were divided as evenly as possible and will compete with each other for a few weeks. After this schedule has been played a first and second team will be chosen from those scouts who have shown good ability, either with the glove or the bat. Outside teams will then be challenged, and it is expected that Troop eight will play an interesting schedule.

While baseball was being discussed Scout Executive Talbot, and Mr. Estey, leader of the drum and bugle corps, paid an unexpected visit. Mr.

N. F. MCCARTHY & CO.

112 ARCH STREET BOSTON, MASS.

Talbot told the boys that 300 scouts were required from the Norumbega Council to act as ushers at one of the grand stands erected for those wishing to see the 26th Division Parade. When asked how many would like to go every scout voted yes and it did not take them long to say it either. Mr. Talbot then told of the excellent opportunity to win a Liberty Loan Medal by obtaining subscriptions for the Victory Loan. Mr. Estey then urged the scouts to respond to the call for buglers and drummers to join the bugle and drum corps. He will be able to add some fine players to the corps since several members of the troop can play this instrument.

Reverend Fr. Haney then told the boys that Mr. Vincent P. Roberts of Beacon street has offered the troop the use of his farm this summer. Mr. Roberts has always favored the scout movement and has helped the troop in many ways.

On Monday evening before the regular meeting of troop eight was held, the scoutmaster, Mr. Paul A. Waters, assembled the troop outside the playground house. He took them on a short trot of about one-half mile. The boys evidently enjoyed this diversion from the regular order of previous meetings. These short walks will be held more frequently as the weather grows more favorable and will be lengthened accordingly.

There were several promotions made among those who had shown themselves eligible for higher positions. Several names were mentioned by Scoutmaster Waters of those scouts whom he had under consideration for the Liberty Loan. After drilling for a short time Scoutmaster Waters gave a short talk to the boys about their duties as scouts and the faithful performance of the same, and impressing on them the necessity for each scout to try and gain new members for the troop.

D. R. MEETING

Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., was entertained at the home of Mrs. Henry S. Jenkins of Newton Centre on Wednesday, April 9th. Following the business meeting a delightful letter was read by Mrs. Jenkins concerning an incident in the life of her great grandfather, after which the meeting was in charge of Mrs. S. L. Eaton. Mr. Leonard gave a selection on the piano which was followed by the introduction of the speaker for the afternoon, Mr. John A. Lowe, who gave an especially instructive and interesting talk on his work in the camp libraries. The program closed with another fine selection by Mr. Leonard, and the singing of America. The members and guests then gathered about the tea table for a social hour.

Our Spring line of goods has arrived. The cretonnes and the new English chintz patterns are wonderful. Silks, figured velvets, coverings and hangings of varied descriptions. We will delight in showing them to you. Prices are right.

AN UNUSUAL SERVICE

Channing Church Honors Three of Its Young Men Who Died in Service

Simplicity, dignity and inspiration characterized the beautiful memorial service held at Channing Church on Saturday afternoon in recognition of the three young men of Channing Church Honor Roll who gave their lives for their respective countries, Henry W. Clarke, Chauncey Bryant of the American Forces and Edward B. Smith of the Canadian Forces, allied in the common cause of the freedom of mankind.

The church which was beautifully decorated with flags, palms and potted plants, was filled before the Sunday school entered in procession to take the seats at the front. The program of the service included the singing of "America," a service of commemoration, responsive reading a solo, "These are they" by Miss Clark, the soprano of the church choir, an address by Rev. Harry Lutz, the singing of "O Canada," the Canadian National Hymn, by Miss Clark, the congregation coming in on the chorus. After singing "O Beautiful, My Country" the Sunday school in recessional led the way to the grounds at the east of the church where three oak trees were planted as living memorials to the three heroes, by members of the Honor Roll who have returned. Brief remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Lutz including the reading of three poems, one written by him for the occasion, "Three Memorial Trees."

The assembled company sang together "America the Beautiful" and the International Hymn, "Two Empires by the sea," and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. Lutz said: Sing not to me of earthly power, For winds make sport of the dust of kings; In many an immemorial hour Men fought and bled for trivial things. Sing me the prayer that lifts from some white heart,

As Earth's immortal part.

For deeds that live to gain reward, And dreams that barter Love for Fame:

These all shall die as with a sword, And be forever linked with shame. The great white visions born of pain and death, These have eternal breath.

And as a comet sweeps the sky, To reappear through cycling years, So shall Love's deeds supreme and high Enkindle hope again from tears. Sing me Love's utter sacrifice and loss— Christ's death upon the Cross.

J. Corson Miller.

The comet-sweep of sacrifice-spirit through cycling years has in our time broken into a millions-multiplied display of the love, than which there is none greater, that lays down life for others. These are ours

"As Earth's immortal part"; and they are Heaven's also, for such as "These have eternal breath."

And the glory of their passing leaves a train of light that kindles hope from tears, and links forever our seen world with the Unseen as one all-inclusive homeland of God's children; who, wherever they be, are living unto him.

These millions-multiplied Love-deeds of high devotion and supreme sacrifice become the more real and intimate to us, and our feelings of appreciation the more intense, when we come to single out our own and speak of them by name—as we do on this occasion today: First as the three young men of our Channing Church Honor Roll against whose names have stood the gold stars, and then personally as Henry Clarke, Chauncey Bryant, and Edward Smith; who each one singly gave up all.

BAD ACCIDENT

Five Persons Injured in Collision at Beacon and Walnut Streets

Six persons, five of whom were taken to the Newton Hospital, were injured Tuesday night when two automobiles were in collision at the corner of Beacon and Walnut street, Newton Centre. Edward P. Duffy of 497 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, who drove a large touring car owned by the Dorchester Garage was the only person in either car who escaped uninjured.

The large car, which was returning from a trip to Camp Devens, struck a small car, owned and driven by Frank L. Hardy of 40 Pine Ridge road, Waban, broadside, near the rear of the car, carrying it across the street and depositing it in a crushed condition on a grass plot.

In the small car with Mr. Hardy were Mrs. Bessie Brown of 45 Flint street, Norfolk Downs, and Mrs. Mary J. Card of 125 Pembroke street, Boston. They had been making a call at the home of Mr. Hardy, and he was driving them to the train. Mrs. Brown received cuts about the face and back of the head and may have internal injuries.

Mrs. Card has cuts on the face and injuries to the back. In the large car besides the driver were Miss Lucy Lavell and Miss Helen Kellher, both of 5 Stearns street, Cambridge, and William Devine of Roxbury, who is a member of the Machine Gun Battalion of the 101st Infantry. Both young women were badly shaken up and suffered from hysteria, while Devine who was thrown out of the front seat of the large car has cuts and abrasions and possible internal injuries.

Mr. Hardy was attended by a physician but was not sent to the hospital.

OPPOSE WALNUT ST. WIDENING

Interesting Hearings at Meeting of Aldermen on Monday Evening

The public hearings before the aldermen Monday evening took over an hour and covered a variety of subjects. The most interesting was that on the proposed widening of Walnut street and establishing a building line thru the business section of Newtonville. The project was favored by Mr. C. E. Gibson, chairman of the Newton Planning Board who declared that Walnut street was the most important north and south thoroughfare in the city. The traffic he said, had been greatly increased in ten years, due partially to the stopping of thru trains at this station and the street, at present was not adequate. Personally he favored the widening. Mr. Albert M. Lyon, for the Improvement Society favored the project, speaking especially in regard to the danger existing on the north side of the track. If it was not possible for the work to be done now he urged taking such action as would lessen the expense in the future. Mr. T. D. Dilworth favored the widening but opposed the building line. Dr. David E. Baker was not opposed to the widening but was opposed to doing it now. Taxation, he said, was high and the city should go slow. He thought every street in the city ought to have a building line, but pointed out that to stop at Page road would make a bad jog in the street. He stated that the most hazardous part of Walnut street was between Trowbridge avenue and Bulloughs pond. Mr. Adams Y. Claffin said that the widening cut off 25 per cent of the wooden block on the corner of Washington street and it would simply destroy the value of the entire building. Such expense at the present time was unwarranted when the costs were so high. He opposed a building line as handicapping owners, already harassed by stringent building regulations. Mr. James W. French opposed the building line as being a great injury to property, especially land for business purposes. Mr. H. W. Orr said that in the 25 years he had lived in Newtonville he had noted the growing congestion of the corner of Washington and Walnut street, and believed that something must be done. As the owner of the westerly corner he would not oppose the widening but would object to having a building line different from the rest of the street. Mr. George L. Barnes for the Mitchell estate and other interests, said that the land at the corner of Austin street was under agreement or sale to the Newton Trust Co. and that a 26 foot building line would probably cancel that trade. The next lot would be injured 50% as the building line would cut the front steps. If 25 feet is taken from the land corner of Highland avenue it would leave but 65 feet in depth. This estate must be settled and the real estate sold. Any encumbrances will make it doubtful to sell or getting a suitable price if sold. The trustees cannot waive their rights and will insist on full damages. He suggested that a 10 foot building line was not such a serious matter and urged prompt settlement of the matter. Mr. Albert P. Carter for the Newton Trust Co. said that if the Real Estate Associates block was to be cut back to the new line, it probably would not make much difference to the Trust Co., but if block is allowed to remain, a 25 foot set back on the land they propose to buy would stop their plans. Mr. Louis S. Ross said the present was a most inopportune time, as the expense would be heavy. He thought this movement to be an entering wedge for the widening of the entire street. Mr. Charles F. Cheney thought this movement to have an ultimate object of making Walnut street a great thoroughfare. He wanted the car tracks taken out of Walnut street and said the street then would be wide enough. He believed that nine-tenths of the residents were opposed to the widening. Mr. Warren F. Gregory was also opposed. Mr. Fred C. Perry thought Alderman Blake was entitled to the thanks of the people for attempting to get something done and believed that something ought to be done to grant relief near the bridge.

A hearing on petition of Wm. A. Sweatt to move his gasoline pump from the south east to the northwest corner of Commonwealth avenue and Washington street brought out strong opposition. Mr. Souther for the owners of the land, stated that he believed it would relieve the present congestion at the south east corner and assured the board that any lease granted would prohibit the building of a garage. The opposition was represented by Messrs Geo. P. Bullard, Dr. N. E. Paine, A. B. Durrell, John A. Potter, F. D. Clark, H. Alfred Hansen, W. H. Shale and M. W. Robertson.

Two Italian gentlemen spoke in favor of placing curbing on Cook street, saying that the street was a dump at the present time, and on rainy days the people need a boat. A letter in opposition was read from Wm. F. M. H. and A. L. Joyce.

No one appeared at hearings on an Edison pole on Playstead road, on taking land for a sewer in Eliot avenue and on fixing the tax limit.

Mayor Childs sent in recommendations for a drain in California street, for $800 for equipment for the School Dept., recommending an increase in salaries in the Police Dept., recommending an additional sergeant of police, recommending $53,496.88 for new buildings at the Crafts street yard, and that a holiday be granted city employees on Friday to witness the parade of the 26th Division.

Petitions of the Telephone Co. for attachment to poles on Fuller street, of B. Whitman, Albemarle road, John Motherway, Petree street, Frank E. Cummings and Mason H. Stone, Brear more road and H. W. Bailey for a taxi license were granted. Leave to withdraw was ordered on petition of the American Railway Express for permit to transport intoxicating liquors. Other petitions were received for the laying out of Rossmore road, of Ellen T. J. Orr for extension to garage on Washington street, of N. Tocco for pool tables, of Ben. Joyner for a junk license, of Olivett Cooper for an intelligence office on Prospect place, of W. J. Gibson for a multiple garage for 26 cars on Austin and Mt. Vernon streets, and for regrading of Brookside avenue.

On recommendation of Committees a relocation of pole was granted the Edison Co. on Fair Oaks avenue, licenses for billiard tables, bowling alleys, as dealers in second hand articles, as street musician, for intelligence offices, for common victuallers, for junk collectors, for hackney carriages and taxicabs, for express and auto trucks and for keepers of lodging houses were granted for the ensuing year. T. F. & B. W. Eddy were permitted to run 3 power boats on the Charles river and the Norumbega Park Co. authorized to run an amusement park. Patsy Finelli and Joseph V. Green were refused common victualler licenses. Hearings were assigned on the proposed laying out of Carlton road, and on taking land for sewers in Manomet road and Avondale road. The Finance Committee reported inexpedient to allow $800 for additional equipment for the School Dept., and made the same report on the request that Friday be made a holiday. There

AGRICULTURAL TRAINING FOR DISCHARGED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

The Massachusetts Agricultural College offered a course in February and March of this year to train soldiers and sailors for Agricultural pursuits. The course was so successful, and there were so many demands for admittance that they decided to give two more courses, the first from April 14 to May 23, and the second from June 30 to July 26. If there is still further demand for it, they will offer another course after the opening of college next fall.

Of the subjects offered are Soils and Fertilizers, Field Crops, Farm Management, Live Stock, Poultry, Fruit, Farm Machinery and Dairying. Instruction is given by the regular faculty. There are no entrance examinations. The living expenses in Amherst are not more than $9.00 per week, and the tuition is free.

Although this course is planned primarily for returning soldiers and sailors, it is open to anyone 17 years of age or over.

AN UNUSUAL SERVICE

"On sacrificial fires offered as a gift." his life for others; that they may have liberty and opportunity of life in a better world.

Whatever be the outcome of issues now hanging in the balance of decision; even should worst come to worst when national aggrandizement for spoils, partisan prejudice for advantage, envious jealousy for credit, or selfish greediness for gains, as is sometimes threatened even in the house of their friends, Judas-like to betray their cause of humanity; still it shall forever remain true: that these noble brave boys "Unreturning" gave their lives for an ideal—a good they saw not, but to others should accrue and make real the "Dreams, hopes, and high desires That heaven and uplift."

It is altogether fitting and proper that we should dedicate this hour of this Patriotic Day to their memory, and that we should plant trees on these grounds by the house of prayer as a permanent testimonial of our gratitude to them. In the larger sense, it is true, we cannot consecrate this hour of devotion or hallow the ground wherein these trees shall grow. But these brave men by their heroic deeds have themselves consecrated all memory-hours and hallowed the soil of earth "far above our power to add or detract." "The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did" over there.

As Lincoln said in immortal phrase at Gettysburg, so here now: "It is for us the living, rather to be dedicated here to the unfinished work they have thus far so nobly carried on. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us, that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to the cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion; that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain, and that the nations shall, under God, have a new birth of freedom, and that governments of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth"; but shall henceforth be united in such a concert of good-will and purpose as to guarantee the peace of the world and promote the life of mankind.

For, to construct a new world on the faith their heroism and sacrifice attest is the sole expression appropriate,—the sole monument beautiful enough to be their worthy memorial.

Our Soldier Dead

"In France where beauteous roses grow,
There let them rest—forever sleep,
While we eternal vigil keep
With our heart's love—with our soul's prayer.

The earth is sacred where they fell—
Forever on it lies the spell
Of hero deeds in Freedom's cause,
And men unborn shall come and pause
To say a prayer, or bow the head,
So leave these graves to hold their dead.

The morning sun will gild with light,
The stars keep holy watch at night,
The winter spread soft pall of snow,
The summer flowers about them grow,
The sweet birds sing their springtime call,
God's love and mercy guard them all."

Grateful in heart we turn to Thee, O God, by whose strength our fathers brought forth this nation and under whom the high histories of the brave are our inheritance. We bring the noble and tender memories of this hour into the consciousness of thy presence, and would take knowledge of thee; in whom our honored dead are alive evermore, and by whose enabling power their heroic service shall continue through us unto the high end of a new world "beautiful enough to be their worthy memorial. Make us equal to the high trust; generous in the use of freedom, and just in the exercise of power. May wisdom and knowledge be the stability of our times, good-will be the law of an abiding honor among the nations, and the order of brotherhood include the earth, and peace reign evermore. Amen.

THREE MEMORIAL TREES

Like unto that which only God can make
Are they who serve his will;
Which done unto the least of these his earthly children
At once unto him is also done.
And Love, greater than which there is none,
That giveth life for others' weal,
Is like the trees we plant by the house of prayer;
Whose leaves shall keep their memory green;
Whose growth shall prosper the works that follow them
Whose names forever shall remain
"As Earth's immortal part".
As the trees that look at God all day
And lift their leafy arms to pray,
So may we with purpose high
And prayer that lifts above
Bring forth through all the coming years

Of the seasons' growth a counterpart—
An increase of their spirit true
Who in love's full-measured devotion
Losing all
More than all have won,
And with their eternal breath
Have answered Heaven's early spring-time call.

NEWTON IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

The Annual Meeting of the Newton Improvement Association will be held on Monday evening, April 28th, at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. There will be a dinner at six o'clock, for which the charge will be $1.00.

At the conclusion of the dinner—7:45—two speakers will be introduced. Mr. Alfred McDonald will talk on "School Gardens," illustrated by moving pictures; and Mr. Raymond B. Swett's subject will be "Back Yard Poultry," illustrated by lantern slides. The meeting after the dinner is entirely free.

ABOUT VACCINATION

At the regular meeting of the Newton Medical Club held April 14, 1919, a committee was appointed to point out certain misstatements and inaccuracies in the letter of Representative Leland Powers on vaccination in the Newton Graphic of April 11th, as it was felt that it should not be passed over in silence.

Mr. Powers states that he believes in vaccination, when the disease is prevalent. This can only mean that he believes that vaccination is a protection against small pox, which is all that its advocates believe.

Its advocates, however, believe in preparedness and prefer to be ready for small pox when it comes, by having a large percentage of the population immune, rather than wait until the disease is well established before doing anything.

He next states that when compulsory vaccination was abolished in England small pox decreased and, at the end of the paragraph gives what seems to be an explanation of this, by saying that it was natural, because "the less vaccination there is, the less necessity there is of keeping small pox in any of its forms alive for the purpose of preparing vaccine."

These are startling statements from a man who says he "has been much interested in vaccination for many years!"

Vaccination was never compulsory in England, in the sense that persons were vaccinated against their wishes. The law required that infants be vaccinated within 4 months of birth, but, if parents refused to comply with the law they were fined; their children were not vaccinated. After the law of 1898 came into effect, the "conscientious objector" was freed from the requirements of the law.

The final sentence, quoted above, can only mean that Mr. Powers believes that vaccine is prepared in some way from small pox. An elementary acquaintance with his subject would have enabled Mr. Powers to learn that vaccine is prepared from cow pox, (vaccinia) a mild disease resembling small pox, which confers immunity from it.

Mr. Powers should read the life of Edward Jenner and learn what vaccination really is.

Mr. Powers further says that those who favor compulsory vaccination should advocate its extension to private schools and to adults.

On January 23, 1919, the Mass. Association of Boards of Health, adopted unanimously the following resolution: Resolved, that the Mass. Association of Boards of Health, realizing that vaccination is the only known protection against the spread of small pox in the community, favors the retention on the statute books of the Commonwealth of the present vaccination law governing the admission of children to the public schools; protests against any weakening of the provisions of this law and approves of its extension to cover the private as well as the public schools of the state.

This resolution was presented to the Legislature and, if Mr. Powers really wished to try to extend the benefits of vaccination to the private schools, he had only to speak in favor of the resolution and he would have received the backing of the Association. Instead of this he advocated, on the floor of the House, a bill weakening the present law! Comment is unnecessary.

Mr. Powers' letter seems to be an attempt to get on both sides of the fence at the same time; always a difficult feat and usually disastrous to the one who tries it; he believes in the protective value of vaccination but doesn't want it used until this value is reduced more than half; he doesn't believe in the compulsory feature but says that feature ought to be extended, and believing in vaccination, he speaks in favor of a bill which practically abolishes it!

The facts in regard to vaccination are as follows: it is the only known protection against small pox; properly done, it is harmless even to those who have a "constitutional weakness"; it does not cause tuberculosis, syphilis or any other dangerous disease and, finally, compulsory vaccination—so-called—is not an infringement of the rights of the individual any more than his isolation when suffering from a communicable disease is an infringement; it is simply an exercise of the right which the community has to protect itself against disease.

If the unvaccinated person who contracts small pox was a danger to himself alone, no one would care whether he took it or not; but, those who know the fatal result of small pox in an unvaccinated subject, must try to save him from his own folly as he may give it to others who have been led astray by the example of (otherwise intelligent) men like Mr. Powers.

Committee,
Newton Medical Society.

EASTER PAGEANT

At the Newton Centre Episcopal Church last Sunday evening was presented an Easter pageant at once interesting, inspiring and impressive. The first scene, "Jerusalem on Palm Sunday," was portrayed by the High Priest and six of his followers at worship, anticipating the coming of their King. The Prolocutor announces the actual approach of the Messiah at the city gates, and a chorus of girls, representing the joyous throngs at Jerusalem, sing their Hosannas. The second scene shows the women at the Sepulchre, and in this and the third scene, when the fact of the resurrection is revealed and the girls in chorus sing of the Risen Christ, something is gleamed of woman's wonderful devotion, and of the triumphant joy which greeted the announcement of the great event. The last scene represented the foundation stones of the City of God, formed as a cross. In the centre appears an altar, with Isaiah, by his posture, representing the Moment of Vision. Eight Messengers, having heard the Call to Service, assemble about the altar, consecrate themselves to various lines of activity, and having received the fire from the altar, go out "into all the world." The combination of costumes and lighting was wonderfully effective, and the excellent work of the fifty or more participants resulted in a production most gratifying to those in attendance.

LIBRARY NOTES

The Public Library is at present exhibiting a series of reproductions of the paintings of Gainsborough and Lawrence.

Gainsborough, it will be remembered, was one of the famous portrait painters of the 18th century. Very charming is the portrait of George, Prince of Wales, and also the one of the Princess Elizabeth. These are now in Buckingham Palace. They have the high-bred air so characteristic of Gainsborough. The portraits also give an excellent idea of the costumes of the period with their elaborate head-dresses, tight basques, and full skirts. As Gainsborough was a gifted musician as well as painter, many of his portraits are of musicians of his time.

Of Sir Thomas Lawrence's paintings of the same period, the one of Sir Walter Scott is, perhaps, the best known. Another well-known one is that of Metetrich, the great enemy of Napoleon whose tool Napoleon became after his marriage with Maria Louise of Austria.

It is in his portraits of great men and especially in the fine series painted for George 4th at Windsor that Lawrence showed his greatness, both as a painter and as an interpreter of character.

No one should miss seeing this collection, as it is of historic as well as artistic value.

ALLEN SCHOOL

The Allen School has just elected the staff for the coming year as follows: Editor-in-chief, John H. Spaulding, of Chicago; business manager, Harold Skinner, Manchester, N. H.; advertising manager, Theodore Arnold, Hartford, Conn. The associate editors are athletics, Everett Hall, Taunton; social, musical and literary items, Winsor Smith, Worcester; knocks, F. Paul Cavanaugh, Manchester, N. H.; appointments and awards, William A. Sherman, Newport; alumni, Alexander Powell, Fort Worth, Texas; commencement, Stuart Marsh, Hartford, Conn.; Bugle calendar, Noble Maxwell, North Adams; and art, Norman Perry, Newburyport. The Bugle will be issued in the form of a year-book at commencement time.

The winner of the highest honor last term was Alexander K. Powell. The honor men were Douglas Chalmers, William Gardner, Harold Hickman, Robert Reed, George W. St. Amant, William Sherman, John B. Spaulding, Elbert Steele, Walter Timmers, William Wernmore, and Robert White.

The School is proud of its new flagpole which is in two sections, the main part being 65 feet long, and the upper part 35 feet. Lieutenant Leo Costello has been advanced to the position of commandant with the rank of Captain in the place of Lieutenant L. L. Cunningham, who has been called home because of illness.

Dr. Thomas Chalmers, headmaster of the school, preached Easter Sunday in the First Congregational Church of Manchester, N. H., where he was pastor for nearly 20 years.

COPLEY REPERTORY THEATRE

Richard Brinsley Sheridan is famous as the author of "The Rivals" and "The School for Scandal," both of which have been acted by the Henry Jewett Players, and next week will be presented for the first time on the Copley stage another play of his, "The Critic," which is a travesty of the methods of playwrights and players in its author's day. It was once called by the poet Byron the best farce in the English language, and undoubtedly he was right. Since "The Critic" is not a long play, a one act drama entitled "The Monkey's Paw" will precede it. It is a dramatization by Louis N. Parker of W. W. Jacob's remarkable short story of the same name. Its plot involves a dramatic supernatural experience and there is complete illusion in it. Both plays will be acted by the entire strength of the Henry Jewett Players.

—The parents and friends of the Underwood School will be glad to learn that the sale on Tuesday afternoon at the school was most satisfactory. The fish pond, parcel post grab, penny table and other attractions brought in about $100 which will be used to purchase many things needed in the school. The teachers wish to express their appreciation of the hearty co-operation given them by the parents.

The last of the series of Sunday evening lectures dealing with some phase of the war was given last Sunday night in the Elliot Church, by the Reverend Alden H. Clark. The lecture was a stereoscopic one. The speaker showed pictures of troops from India, splendid specimens of manhood. He explained how loyal these troops had been to England during the war. More than twice as many homes in India are mourning their dead than in America. The territory of India, he explained covers an area as large as from Maine to Florida, or as large as all Europe exclusive of Russia. Over this vast territory, because of her faith in the loyalty of India, Great Britain left only about 15,000 troops and these on the boundaries only. Nor has her faith been misplaced. India has played a critical part in the war, especially during the first year of the war at the battle of Ypres. The speaker paid high tribute to the Y. M. C. A. which he said had done excellent work in India, work the effects of which will be seen even after the war is over. He also paid a very high tribute to the work of the Christian missionaries. He showed pictures of hospitals, asylums for lepers, churches, which have had an enormous influence especially among the poorer and more ignorant, and have done much to do away with the caste feeling. He said that there was a distinct awakening and longing for the higher life in India, and that Christianity was on the increase.

CHESTNUT HILL HORSE SHOW

An event, always anticipated with pleasure, is the annual horse show at Chestnut Hill on Memorial Day, May 30. The members of the committee in charge including Mr. Andrew Adie, Mr. Prescott Bigelow, Jr., Mr. Chester A. Howe, Mr. Francis W. Lee, Mr. Louis K. Liggett, Mr. Richard Saltonstall, Mr. Walter Seavey, Mr. Edwin S. Webster, Mr. A. Winsor Weld, Mr. George S. Last year there were 260 entries and the committee gave the receipts, over $2165, to the Metropolitan Chapter and the Chestnut Hill branch of the American Red Cross. The prize list will be sent out soon after May 1.

OUR HEROES

A call "to arms" rang thru the Land! And from the East and West, From North and South, fond parents sent.

Their dearest, and their best, They came from shop and school and farm, From homes of wealth and ease, To battle for a Common Cause In Lands beyond the seas.

Old Massachusetts was not slow In answering the call, And freely gave the best she had, Her Wealth, her Sons, her All, Her aid was never sought in vain For any Righteous Cause In Revolutionary days And days of modern wars.

Old Concord still her record keeps, And Gettysburg as well, And crosses mark the resting-place Where many a hero fell. Her battle-flags, war-stained, and torn,

She shows with pride today, The mute and silent witnesses Of many a bloody fray.

Old Glory means to us today More than it meant before, Waving above our "Khaki Lads" We love it more and more, All honor to the Stars and Stripes On Land and on the Sea! Wherever Truth and Justice reign The Banner of the Free!

With joy we're honoring today Our Heroes back once more, From scenes of carnage and of strife, Back from a foreign shore. Our Treasure-Ship has brought us gold,—

The land we love so well— And of the Gallant Twenty-Sixth We're always proud to tell.

A Grateful Nation welcomes home Her Brave and Loyal Sons, Who fought the fight to victory, And helped to crush the Huns. Old Massachusetts greets her Boys Her much beloved "Y. D." God bless them! Every Mother's Son! Wherever he may be.

Mrs. James Howe Wheeler, Newton, Mass.

EDITORIAL

On account of the parade the Graphic is printed this week on Thursday and many matters of interest are crowded over until next week.

THE VICTORY LOAN

enable it to do so, however, calls for a prompt and generous response from every one and care that Newton receives due credit for all subscriptions placed elsewhere by Newton people. Provision has been made for this credit and it should be given on every paper signed outside of the city. Newton sent 2700 men to the war. Doesn't this mean something when all that the people are now called upon to do is to lend to Uncle Sam at a very attractive rate of interest?

The more the terms of the Victory notes become known and the more they are studied, the more apparent it becomes that no one is doing the government a favor by buying for the notes are a fine investment. The rate of interest and the short time they run, should keep them very close to par at all times, so that they will represent cash at any time.

WOMEN'S LIBERTY LOAN

As a committee the women on the Newton Liberty Loan Victory Drive do not begin selling bonds until Saturday, but they are making themselves felt throughout the city.

When the tank went through the villages on Tuesday, it was the women who got the crowd together and planned the demonstrations.

Not only are the women assisting in all the local banks during the rush hours, but they are also taking charge of indexing the returns from the Boston banks.

On Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Abundant Woman's Club a booth subscription, and Paul Chesley of the Burr School who made a four minute speech which was very appealing, raised money enough to buy a second Liberty Bond for the Club. When the tank arrived the meeting adjourned to the square, where there was a fine demonstration and community singing.

The ringing of the bells and chimes morning and evening is being looked out for by the women.

The chairmen in the different villages are planning various methods of conducting their campaigns after Friday.

Chestnut Hill already has two booths for selling bonds—one on Hammond street, in charge of Mrs. Edward Webster, the first day of the drive took in $30,000.

Another on Commonwealth avenue at Lake street in charge of Mrs. A. S. Radway, expects to do an equally good business.

OPPOSE WALNUT STREET

was some discussion on this matter, but as the City Solicitor had ruled that there was no authority in law to take this action, the debate simply indicated that the board would have gladly passed the order, if it had been possible to do so.

The tax limit of the city was raised to $14 per $1000 without any question, and might be just as well made $50 as $14 for all any one cares. $300 was granted towards expense of an employment bureau for returning soldiers and $3000 for the drain in California street. J. B. Jurad was granted a permit for an auto repair shop on Court street.

Alderman Hollis questioned the proposed ordinance increasing carriage hire fares and he and Alderman McCarthy voted No when it was passed.

Some debate followed the report of the rules committee that it was inexpedient to pass the proposed ordinance relative to the Planning Board and suggesting an amendment to the rules of the board requiring a report of the Planning Board before the board took final action on certain matters. Alderman Forknall finally had the matter referred to the committee on Public Works.

Alderman Whidden gave notice of a proposed amendment to the Building Code, and the board adjourned at 10.40.

Puritanic Names.

Faint-not, God-reward, Sarah, Meek, Repentance, Kill-sin, Be faithful, More fruit, Seek-wisdom, Accepted, Return, Hope-for, Woop-not; Fly-debate, and Stand-fast-on-high! Yes, these were all perfectly good front names in Mayflower times. They represent some of the flower of a Puritan jury. But think what an awful time the wives and sweethearts of these gentlemen must have had finding nick-names for them!

Honey Found in Tree Tops.

Quantities of honey are found in the African forests by the natives in hollow trees. The honey is generally at the summit of the tree, and the men knock down the tree, and smoke the bees out of their lodging with burning grass. The honey is then quickly collected and taken to camp.

Differing Fears.

When it is a man getting a set of false teeth, he is afraid he is not going to be able to eat with them; if it is a woman, she is afraid she will not be able to talk.

"Out of the Mouths of Babies."

"Willie, to talkative caller." "Well, now that you've come, I suppose I shall have to go for the doctor." Talkative Caller—"Why, Willie?" Willie—"Father says you always make him ill!"

Dream Tears.

Far better to dream of crying than of laughter, for tears in a dream mean joy and merriment in real life; while laughter, when it is dream laughter, presages difficult circumstances.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

GRACE M. BURT, Editor.

The year just closing is unique in the annals of women's clubs. When the season opened, or rather when the programs for the year were being arranged, war occupied the thoughts and hearts of all women and true to their noble instincts plans for the year centered upon these things. All preconceived notions were set aside that they might take their rightful part in the relief work. Extraneous matters were left out, the number of meetings cut down in many cases and the nature of programs adjusted to the subjects occupying the thoughts of all. With the fall came the influenza scourge. Again the meetings and activities had to be re-adjusted and later the signing of the armistice brought still another change. The problems of peace and of reconstruction have claimed the attention and will still do so for many months to come. For it will be a long time before the country is fully back upon a peace basis. That the clubs have co-operated amid all these trying situations and have sought to lend their aid wherever and whenever it was needed speaks well for their leaders and has demonstrated the strength of the movement. In the coming days there must be social as well as physical reconstruction. Problems of Americanization, of the relations between capital and labor press to the fore and await a just and lasting settlement. In these and in many others will the women's clubs play their rightful part. To return to a pre-war basis is impossible and to imagine that things will ultimately do this is to imagine a vain thing. The sooner people realize this the quicker will the country settle down to a normal way of living. It remains for the clubs to point the way.

State Federation

Tuesday, April 29, State Joint Conference of the Home Economics and Conservation departments at Horticultural Hall, Boston. Morning session at 10 A. M. At 12:15 the Executive Board of the State Federation will tender a luncheon to Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, chairman of the Conservation department of the General Federation, at the Boston Art Club. Only members of the State Board and of the two departments will be eligible to attend. Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, president of the State Federation, will welcome Mrs. Sherman and introduce her as the speaker at the afternoon session at Horticultural Hall at 2:30. The affair has been arranged by Mrs. J. G. Godding, who is at the head of the Forestry section of the General Federation Conservation department and a member of the State Board. Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, dean of Simmons College, and other prominent speakers will take part in the conference, which is open to all club women.

Newton Federation

The program for the annual meeting of the Newton Federation is now fully arranged. On Tuesday, May 6, the meeting opens at 10:30 A. M. The morning will be given up to the annual reports of officers and committees, the action upon the revision of the constitution and by-laws and the election of officers for the coming year, as well as the reports from the local clubs and associate organizations. Luncheon will be served at 1:30, after which there will be a short program of toasts with Mrs. C. Wetherbee as toastmistress. In the afternoon there will be music and short plays given by members of the Newton Centre Woman's Club. Tickets for the luncheon must be secured before Saturday, May 3rd.

Local Announcements

In order to join in a community meeting of the Woman's Club of Newton Highlands postponed its annual meeting from this week until next Tuesday, April 29. The business meeting will come at 3:30 P. M. at the Congregational Church and will include the annual reports of officers and committees and the election of officers for next year and an address by Mrs. Dorothy Turnbull, who has recently returned from France. Tickets for the supper must be secured from Mrs. Chester Nichols, 18 Norman road, or Mrs. Charles W. Mercer, 52 Erie avenue, by Saturday, the 26th. Supper will be served at 6:30 for the members of the Woman's Club, of the Men's League, and their husbands and wives, who are not themselves members of the organization. At 7:30 Lieut. Orlandi will give an address. All residents of Newton Highlands are cordially invited to attend.

The Social Science Club will hold its annual meeting at the Brae Burn Country Club at 10:30 on Wednesday morning, April 30th. Luncheon will follow.

Local Happenings

The Newtonville Woman's Guild closed its season with the annual meeting on April 15th. By vote of the organization a few weeks ago it will hereafter be known as the Newtonville Woman's Club in order to indicate more nearly the nature and scope of its work.

The reports showed the club has done a large amount of good work during the year, that it has sought to co-operate with other agencies rather than initiate work of its own. The money contributions for the year include: Newton Hospital $100; Stearns School Centre $100; Welfare Bureau, District Nursing Association, Stone Institute at Upper Falls, John A. Andrew Home, each $25; Sailors' Haven $15; War Children's War Relief Fund $12.50; War Victory Commission $20; United War Work $100; Miss Margaret McGinn's work for Y. M. C. A. Canteens $100. The club has also purchased Liberty Bonds to the amount of $200.

One hundred and sixty sat down to luncheon, which was particularly dainty and attractive. At the close Mrs. Henry V. Jones, the president acting as toastmistress, presented in turn Mrs. D. E. Baker, who responded to "The Past of the Club," Mrs. A. L. Wakefield, "The Spirit of Co-operation during the War Crisis," and Mrs. Irving O. Palmer, "Inspiration for the Future."

BIRD CLUB

On Tuesday morning, the Newton Highlands Bird Club undertook the Overbrook walk, with the usual good luck of that section. A detour was made to Pickering Pond, also with the usual result of that detour, not a bird. There is a new phoebe nest in the old barn, but no phoebes were seen there. Another nest was found later in a cave, where one of the members had watched the birds building it on Monday. A flock of eighteen goldfinch were seen in every variety of mottled plumage, looking as if they had been "hopping" at a rummage sale. Five of the Class stopped at Hemlock Gorge on the way home, finding a sharp-shinned hawk, phoebe, hermit thrush, a small migrating flock of red-breasted nuthatches and pine siskins, one of the latter so dark that it looked almost black, tree swallows at a nesting box, and grackles. New birds seen on Tuesday were chipping sparrows, purple finches, American bittern, yellow-bellied sapsucker, and black and white creeping warbler (heard). Thirty-three species were listed, the others being: robin, vesper, song, field and savanna sparrows, bluejay, bluebird, meadow lark, redbird, junco, blackbird, pine warbler, ruby-crowned kinglet, cowbird, chickadee, junco, red-shouldered hawk, crow, pheasant, flicker and downy woodpecker. The Junior Class for Boys is complete and starts its walks on Thursday.

NEWTON BRANCH SPECIAL AID SOCIETY

The Newton Special Aid Workroom in the Y. M. C. A. building will be open on Monday and Thursday each week from 9 to 5. This workroom has been organized for the purpose of combining War relief work and the needs of the Community. Work will be done for the following local societies: District Nurses' Association, Newton Hospital, Newton Welfare Bureau, and for American Committee for Devastated France, Italian War Relief, Woman's Seaman's Friend Society, Massachusetts Special Aid Society, which includes Serbian and Polish Relief and the Army Hospitals. The Society earnestly desires workers. Luncheon served.

N. H. S.

Newton High defeated Cambridge Latin, 10 to 4, in its first Suburban League appearance at Claffin Field Saturday. It was a well-contested game until the seventh, when Newton High got to Herlihy, the Cambridge Latin pitcher, scoring five runs.
Capt. Fred Sawyer of Newton High had a great day. He allowed the "Cantabs" only two hits, struck out 15 and made one hit. He had three misplays, but they were not of a costly nature.

Wallace Richmond, Newton, got two hits. There were four extra base hits clouted in all, Newton making all of them. Richmond played a fine game in the infield, accepting five chances without a slip. Seavey and George Owen also did good work for Newton, too, while McGowan and Cote led for Cambridge Latin.

EFFECTIVE USE OF SYMBOLISM

That Symbolism may be used effectively in our Sunday Schools was proved by the very effective Sunday-School Pageant given under the direction of Miss Frances Dammun last Sunday in the Channing Church.

The Pageant comprised two scenes—the first represented the building of the City of God and of the House of Brotherhood. Each of the twelve foundation stones taken by twelve pupils, represented a characteristic such as justice, sincerity, faith, which is necessary today in the practical bringing about of Brotherhood among the nations recently at war.

The second scene represented the "Vision of Isaiah." Isaiah worshipping at the altar in the temple sees a strange light and hears a voice. Realizing that it is God speaking he is at first overwhelmed by the thought that he has been chosen for special service, but he answers "Here am I send me."

The different forms of service for the King are typified by six messengers of the King who light their torches of consecration on the altar. These represent medicine, preaching, teaching, service in the home, etc.

Through such symbolism as this, the teachings of the Bible are made vivid, and their application to life today demonstrated.

Newtonville

—Miss Katharine Kimball of Newtonville avenue will play the role of "La Comtesse de Beaurien" in "It Pays to Advertise," which will be produced by the Boston University Dramatic Club in Jordan Hall, Saturday evening, May 3. Miss Kimball is a sophomore in the day division of the College of Business Administration of Boston University.

—There were special Easter exercises by the Sunday School of the Newtonville New Church last Sunday afternoon at 3.30. The classes marched in with special Easter banners. Pictures illustrating the Lord's life on earth were thrown upon the screen, accompanied by appropriate Scripture readings by the Sunday School superintendent, Mr. R. B. Carter, and by Scripture recitations by members of the different classes. The children on the Cradle Roll were especially invited to be present. Mrs. Clinton Willey, Cradle Roll assistant, spoke briefly of this work; special Cradle Roll songs were sung, and the babies were presented with flowers. After the exercises each child in the Sunday School was given a plant.

Auburndale

—Sergeant George A. Davis of Newland street has returned on the Patricia from overseas.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ashenden of 17 Tudor terrace entertained Rev. and Mrs. Wood and daughter and two soldier boys over Easter Sunday. The soldiers were George L. Harvey of New York City, and Alvin Rhule of Louisville, Kentucky. Both were of the 103d Artillery.

—The Auburndale Club invites all the men of the city of Newton who have been in the service of the United States or Allies in the Army or Navy to enjoy the use of its club rooms at the former Woodland Park Hotel every Thursday night during the month of May 1919. Bowling and pool will be free to service men. Refreshments will be served on some of these nights.

Newton Highlands

—The last of the young people's meetings of the Congregational church, Newton Highlands, will be held this Sunday evening at the church. The speaker will be Mayor Childs, and the hosts Mr. and Mrs. Clarence S. Luitwiler.

—The funeral of Mrs. Amy Louise Shumway took place Friday at 2 o'clock at her home on Bowdoin street. It was attended by the family and very many friends. The interment was at Mt. Auburn. Mrs. Shumway will be much missed by the Daughters of the Revolution of which society she was a faithful member.

Demonstration Home Garden

Didn't that fresh soil smell good on the 19th as we turned it over in preparation for planting? And did you notice the many cutworms that were exposed when forking over the soil. This mild winter has been very good to our garden insects and pests. They are all with us again this spring.

We may just as well make up our minds right now that we shall have to wage a royal war on cutworms and plant lice this season. The latter are already sucking the life out of the young green shoots on the apple trees.

Did you notice the names of those hardy vegetables that were listed in last week's article? We should get busy and get these in if they are not already planted. We can let the tender vegetables wait for two or three weeks yet before planting them.

We backyard gardeners with our small areas must conserve space if we wish to obtain a maximum yield. And that's what we are all after—a large production.

So why not plant radishes in that row of parsnips. They will be ready to eat before they begin to crowd the parsnips. Then we can grow a head of lettuce between our early cabbage plants and hills of pole beans. What's the use of giving over a portion of the garden to lettuce and radish when they can be grown elsewhere?

If we set out a row of onion sets and leave a space every 2 feet, a tomato plant can be planted there later but it should be trained to one stem and tied up on a stake. The onions will be out before the tomatoes need the room.

A hill of bush beans may be grown between our hills of corn. Squashes are also grown among corn to good advantage. We recommend that only early varieties of corn be planted this year in areas infested with European Corn Borer. Better none at all.

We should not let any available space remain idle but see that something is always growing there. We are all surprised sometimes at the amount of vegetable products we see growing in some neighbor's garden.

We should make it a point to set out right away a few lettuce and early cabbage plants. We can obtain these from most any green house.

Next week we will discuss transplanting and methods for protecting young plants from garden pests.

Farewell to the Newtons.
The place we love best,
Farewell to the dear ones
We left in distress,
And now we are home again
With hearts full of glee,
To tell them their Newton boys
Helped to win the victory.

Now the war is over,
And peace has been proclaimed,
Let us join hearts with thankfulness,
That now it's at an end.
Wherever we wander,
Wherever we may roam,
Our hearts are in the Newtons,
Our dear old Yankee home.

Famous Buildings in Weimar.

Conspicuous public buildings in Weimar are the Wittumspalais, the old ducal dower house, containing Preller's famous mural paintings of the Odyssey; the Goethe-Schiller archive an imposing edifice on an eminence above the river Ulm, in which are treasured manuscripts by famous German writers; the Liszt museum; a gymnasium; a Realschule, or school for girls, founded by the Grand Duchess Sophia; a grand ducal school of art; technical, commercial and music schools; geographical institute, teachers' seminaries and other institutions of learning.

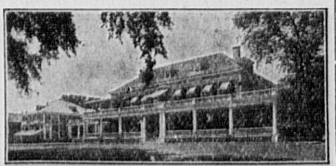

Standard of Taste.

One of my fellow wage-slaves (re-lates Louie) is the proud possessor of an exceedingly noisy shirt—white, with wide orange and purple stripes, if you will believe it. One evening he was calling on some friends who have a five-year-old daughter. The youngster gazed wide-eyed at the screaming combination, then, rubbing her hand over the shirt front, inquired: "What kind of a flag is that?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HIGHLAND GLEE CLUB

The 26th concert on Tuesday evening at Bray Hall, Newton Centre, closes the eleventh season of this admirable organization;—and still going strong, as witness the increased list of sustaining members, now numbering exactly 200.

An invocation to the Muse was sung as an ante-processional behind the scenes, the novelty of which aroused instant interest.

If we make bold to say that the general program fell a little below the usual Club standard, it after all is like comparing ninety-nine with one hundred. Besides, these things are a matter of taste anyway and depend as much on the mood of the critic as on the thought of the program maker. In the rendition of the selections the singers were never in better form.

The opening number, "On to Victory" was in line with the sentiment of the hour. The two stanzas which were for unison voices lacked somewhat in musical invention, but if common-place they led into a rousing climax in full harmony which was a really fine bit of choral writing.

"Reveries" by Storch was exquisite equally in the writing and the utterance. A noble melody for the massed baritone dominated the second stanza and was set out with a restrained volume which was diapason in quality. There was nothing better done and the number was properly redempted.

A "Lullaby" seems to tempt all writers sooner or later. The one by Spross presented was supposedly sung by old Mammy to her pickaninny but that is as far as it got to the negro melody. Perhaps that is just as well, as negro melodies of the normal type travel in rather restricted orbits. It was interesting even if a little labored in musical thought.

"The Song of the Camp" we note was written about the time of the Crimean war,—if anybody now extant remembers just when that was. In so far it could not suggest the utter hellishness of war which it has been reserved to our day to witness. And so when the deathless "Annie Laurie" stole into the vocal moonlight and was wedded in exquisite union to a harmonic solo sung by Mr. Dadmun, it was not the horrid front of war, nor was it the riotous shout of youth which we have known "over there." Grief it was, but grief in reverie.

Mr. Royal Dadmun was the acceptable soloist of the evening. With a voice which takes on the least suggestion of stridency when forced, he offset this by the best of taste and control in the quieter selections, wherefore his recalls were numerous and deserved. His "Mandolin" was truly Debussian and its reception showed how well we have come at last to know and love the composer who dared and won,—until Death won all.

But where Mr. Dadmun shone,—scintillated is better,—was in his humorous selections. "Long ago in Alcala" was worthy of both writer and singer. And then there was the "Song of the Flea." Now we had supposed that the flea called for vituperation and not for cachinnation. We were wrong. Moussorgsky saw a funny flea and wrote about him, and how he tickled him, and how he did laugh! Which thought suggests the unexplored opportunities in the crotchet. But then, Moussorgsky though a Russian, was probably on the wrong side of the lines to get the inspiration.

And for nuts and raisins,—seeing that lots of Newtonians weren't there,—Will Marion Cook's "Exhortation" told its own story.
